Pepper Blasts Congressional Investigation

Witnesses Advised To Exercise Rights

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—(AP)—Sen. Pepper (D-Fla) today counseled movie witnesses to refuse to answer if the House Un-American activities committee asks questions which "censor" thinking or speech.

Pepper, who is not connected with the committee's investigation of Communistic influences in Hollywood, told reporters that he had talked with Bartley C. Crum and Robert W. Kenny, attorneys who represent 19 of the witnesses called to testify.

"I told them," Pepper said in an interview, that witnesses should tell the House Committee "I'm an American and it's none of your business about what I say, think, and write."

"Underhanded" Hearings

A reporter asked if this would not bring a charge of contempt of Congress against the witnesses.

"They can't send a man to jail for exercising his civil rights," Pepper replied. The Florida Senator said he was speaking about conduct of the House Investigation "as a citizen and a Senator who has a right to express his views."

Pepper termed the House hearings "underhanded" and "an affront to the dignity of citizenship."

"This may be the Stalingrad in the attack upon civil liberties in this country," Pepper told reporters. He said that witnesses should tell the House committee:

"You have no right to drag me up here, subject me to ridicule and maybe lose me my job."

Says Press May Be Next

The Senator said that the attack upon a free motion picture industry" may be followed by similar attacks to "curb and censor the press."

"I think the American press ought to rally and denounce the whole thing," he added.

"I resent an American congressional committee presuming to set itself up as a censor, I know nothing that would give more encouragement to Fascists and other totalitarians."

Pepper referred to the House hearings as an attempt to "intimidate" the motion picture producers.

United States, Britain Score 40-6 Victory

Triple Setback Is Dealt Soviet Bloc

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — An overwhelming majority of the United Nations Assembly backed the United States and Britain against Russia today and created an 11-member United Nations commission to watch over the Balkans.

The vote was 40 to 6. Eleven nations abstained.

The Russians served notice for the second time in this Assembly that although elected to membership on the Balkan watch they would have nothing to do with this new United Nations body. This added another to a string of United Nations organizations which the Soviet Union has declined to join.

The western powers scored two other smashing victories:

1—The Assembly rejected a Polish resolution demanding immediate recall of all foreign military personnel and missions in Greece. This was aimed directly at the United States and Britain. The vote was 34 to 7.

Troops Stay In Greece

2—The Assembly rejected a Soviet resolution calling for withdrawal of foreign troops from Greece and for establishing a commission to supervise economic aid—such as provided under the Truman program—to that country. The vote was 41 to 6.

The Russian bloc voted alone on two roll calls. Egypt joined it on the Polish resolution. Delegates recalled that Egypt has a demand pending in the Security Council for the immediate withdrawal of British troops from her territory.

The Assembly directed that the commission be made up of the five great powers — the United States, Russia, Britain, France and China — plus Australia, Brazil, Mexico, the Netherlands, Pakistan and Poland.

Poland announced she would not serve on the commission but the Assembly specifically reserved seats for both Russia and Poland.

Winds Up Balkan Case

The series of showdown votes wound up the Balkans case in the Assembly, where it has been one of the most bitterly discussed topics since the delegates first convened on September 16. The delegates will go back to Lake Success tomorrow for another round of committee debate.

Other United Nations developments included:

1. Australia called on the Assembly to condemn propaganda which "fasely" accuses national officials or other responsible persons of "warmongering."

2. The Assembly's Special Committee on Palestine became tangled at Lake Success with involved debate on how to tackle a batch of proposals for and against partition of Palestine into Jewish and Arab countries. This started the second round of the Palestine affair in this Assembly.

Says Alleged Red Obtained Data On Plane

Menjou And Hughes Cite Commie Threat

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (INS) — John C. Moffitt, writer and critic, testified today that Literary Agent John Weber, who was "sent by Communist headquarters in New York to Hollywood," obtained secret information on a new supersonic military plane.

Moffitt made his startling disclosure in testimony before the House Un-American Activities Committee investigation into Communist influences in the movie capital.

Moffitt said that Weber had obtained the information from the plane's unwary test pilot, Chalmers "Slick" Goodlin.

He said Goodlin has been replaced and "the case is now being investigated by the FBI."

His testimony was the highlight of today's congressional investigation which heard Screen Star Adolphe Menjou appeal to the American public to "wake up to the Communist danger" confronting the nation.

Menjou, his sauvity forgotten, told the House group that its investigation of Communism in Hollywood has "already alerted a good many people to the danger." He added:

"I would like every American to read and read and read to get the picture of the Communist conspiracy to take over the world."

Hughes Testifies

Rupert Hughes, the day's final witness, said he was one of the founders of the Screen Writers Guild, which he charged has been taken over by John H. Lawson and made into "an instrument of the Communist Party."

The 75-year-old author also charged that the University of California at Los Angeles is "Communist-dominated," but Committee Chairman Thomas (R) N. J., immediately ordered that statement be stricken from the record.

The hearing also featured the use of Capitol police to eject Charles J. Katz, a lawyer for 19 of the subpoenaed witnesses, for attempting to speak "out of order" before the committee.

Moffitt accused the literary agent of "engaging in activity detrimental to the best interests of the United States."

He testified that Weber had approached Goodlin, then test pilot for the Bell XS-1, and proposed that he write a story on his experiences.

Moffitt said Goodlin advised Weber that the material would have to be approved by Army Intelligence but was asked for a sample of the material to determine "whether it is saleable." Moffitt then said:

"The boy was foolish enough to do so and material on the nation's new supersonic plane came into the hands of Weber. Goodlin was replaced as test pilot and I understand that the case is now being taken up by the FBI."

Subversive Lines Inserted

Moffitt testified that writers were told to slip Communist lines into the "most expensive scene" in every movie so that the business manager of the film company would fight against the expense of having the scene re-shot when the subversive lines were spotted. He continued:

"Broadway is virtually dominated by Communism, Hollywood stacks

Churchill Flays Move To Restrict Power Of Lords

Attack Disclosed In Speech By King

LONDON, Oct. 21. (AP)—Britain's Labor government began a battle today to curb the power of the hereditary House of Lords and drew immediately from Conservative Leader Winston Churchill the charge "it is a deliberate act of Socialist aggression."

King George VI, in a speech written by the ministers of the Labor government for the formal opening of the new session of Parliament, disclosed the attack. The speech laid down a legislative program for the next 12 months that included early nationalization of the gas industry but made no mention of steel.

Includes Steel, Attlee Says

Prime Minister Attlee later told the House of Commons that the Labor program includes nationalization of steel or at least portions of the industry during the present Parliament, which may extend until 1950, however.

Seated near King George to observe the colorful ceremonies was Princess Elizabeth, who rode to her first state opening in a multi-windowed coach.

The King's address called for "resolution and energy" in boosting production to solve the economic crisis, and gave notice of the government's intention to grant independence to Burma and introduce a new budget.

General Election Suggested

The Conservatives tore immediately into the proposal to curb the power of the House of Lords, disclosed in this one sentence: "Legislation will be introduced to amend the Parliament Act, 1911." That act sets out the present authority of the upper house, whose origin dates back to the great councils of feudal landowners and Norman kings.

Suggestions of a general election to settle the issue arose immediately, and were expanded by Conservative newspapers.

Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard said the proposal was "a fire breathing steed on which the Socialists aim to ride to victory at the next general election," and said their slogan would be "peers versus the people." The Evening News asked if it meant Attlee was preparing for an early general election.

U. S. Naval Plane Crashes; 7 Of 11 Occupants Dead

ARGENTIA, Nfld., Oct 21. (AP)—A United States naval plane landing at this Avalon peninsula base crashed into the harbor tonight, killing seven of its 11 occupants.

The plane was said to have come in too low and struck the water of the harbor where United States authorities have built a huge defensive base.

Four of the passengers were saved but rescuers were unable to help the others. The wreckage of the plane had to be left in the harbor until morning.

Weather conditions were poor with rain and fog obscuring the area.

Hecklers Greet Taft At Dayton, O.

To Reveal Candidacy Decision On Friday

DAYTON, O., Oct. 21—(AP)—CIO union members passed in front of Dayton's Miami Hotel tonight, booing and heckling United States Sen. Robert A. Taft as he arrived for a speech before a meeting sponsored by the Montgomery County Republican Committee.

Sen. Taft and Mrs. Taft smiled broadly as they marched through a narrow lane opened by the crowd of pickets, estimated by police at about 500.

"It was our usual reception," the Senator grinned after he reached the hotel interior. "We would have missed it, you know."

The senior Ohio Senator, who was scheduled to speak on the Taft-Hartley labor law, the measure which apparently prompted the CIO demonstration, actually broke into a guffaw as pickets serenaded him with "we'll wear patches on our britches if Taft wins" and Mrs. Taft with "we'll be selling big red apples if Taft wins."

Earlier today, state GOP headquarters in Columbus announced Taft would make known his decision on running for the party presidential nomination next Friday.

Taft's announcement, said party headquarters, will be contained in a letter to State Republican Chairman Fred H. Johnson—with the text to be released simultaneously in Columbus and in Washington.

Krug And Coal Industry Leaders Will Confer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP) — Secretary of Interior Krug today asked coal industry representatives to meet here Thursday to consider means of meeting heavy fuel requirements at home and abroad.

Krug also appealed to the petroleum industry for advice in efforts to prevent oil and gas shortages threatened for this winter.

In a letter to the National Petroleum Council, Krug said if a program is worked out he will seek to obtain Justice Department approval and prevent any conflict with the anti-trust laws. Attorney General Clark has said efforts of industry to collaborate with the government in present food emergencies will not bring prosecution for antitrust violations.

Krug said the coal meeting is necessary because of continued large scale consumption by industrial plants and the lack of adequate transportation facilities as winter approaches.

Negro Girl Quadruplets Are Born In Louisiana

NATCHITOCHES, La., Oct. 21 (AP) —The birth of quadruplets, all girls, was reported today by the Natchitoches Hospital.

The infants, weighing about three pounds each, were born to Eugene and Rosa May Phanor, negroes.

One of the quadruplets died shortly after birth, but the other three are expected to live.

Maiden Flight

MUROC ARMY AIR BASE, Calif., Oct. 21 (AP) — Northrop's chevron-shaped eight-jet bomber, the 44-ton YB-49 flying wing, roared into the air today on its maiden flight from its factory at Hawthorne, and 34 minutes later landed here to start a series of gruelling Army tests.

President Calls Top Lawmakers To Aid Meeting

Poultry Producers Offer New Proposal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—President Truman sent a hurried call today for a meeting with Congress leaders Thursday on European winter aid, and well-placed administration sources predicted a special session will be discussed.

The President wishes to explore further the possibility of an agreement on the desirability for an early meeting of the lawmakers, two high-ranking White House aides said.

Mr. Truman last week spoke of the possibility of such a step. It would be aimed at providing emergency funds for food and fuel.

These aides said the President will bring the congressmen up to date on the outlook for producing stop-gap aid without legislation, propose the latest figures on the European economic picture and other information that has become available since they met in September with Mr. Truman.

Special Session "Safer Course"

One source expressed the view that the minimum need is assurance of prompt action at the regular session beginning in January. That official said a special session would be the safer course if there is any assurance that the congressmen are ready to proceed.

Meanwhile Americans who have been asked to save grain for Europe contemplated their third "poultryless and eggless Thursday" while officials wrestled with proposals to amend this feature of the voluntary conservation program.

Charles Luckman, chairman of the Citizens Food Committee leading the drive to save 100,000,000 bushels of grain, met with poultry and feed men who have argued that a poultryless day actually saves no grain. Luckman said any substitute must be adequate as a conservation measure.

Board To Study New Plan

The committee received specific new proposals for grain saving submitted by the National Poultry Producers Federation and groups re-

Chile, Following Brazil's Lead, Severs Diplomatic Relations With Moscow

Santiago Also Cuts Ties With Czechs

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 21 (INS) — Chile followed the example of Brazil tonight in breaking relations with the Soviet Union. The Chilean government also severed its ties with Czechoslovakia.

Early reports said that Chile broke with Yugoslavia — two of whose representatives were recently expelled for subversive activities — but were unconfirmed by the government.

However, observers pointed out that Chile has no diplomatic representatives in Belgrade and that Yugoslavia's severence with Chile on October 11 was tantamount to a clear-cut break between the two nations.

Yugoslavia took the action on the grounds that the dismissal from Chile of two of its diplomats was "without foundation."

Brazil's formal rift with Russia was followed by anti-Communist demonstrations in Rio De Janerio.

Seven Reported Wounded

Seven persons were reported wounded in the Brazilian capital following an incident in which a student mob stoned the Soviet Embassy and sacked a Communist newspaper office.

Police finally dispersed them from the newspaper office, but more anti-Communist demonstrations are expected during the night against the outlawed Communists, who reputedly are the largest group in South America.

Police arrested one alleged Brazilian Communist who clashed with the students in front of the Soviet Embassy.

Among the victims reported hospitalized with severe gunshot wounds was Walter Weisberg, business manager of the Brazilian Communist newspaper Tribuna Popular. Brazil automatically took the lead in what may shape up to be a bloc of anti-Communist South American nations.

The Brazilian severance will halt a limited number of Russian ships which had called at Brazilian ports, mainly Santos, and will leave hanging goods such as coffee, canned foods, cotton pieces and small amounts of quartz.

U. S. To Handle Brazil's Affairs

No Brazilian ships were calling at Russian ports. So trade matters do not play a big part in the diplomatic break.

Brazilians view the break as depriving Russia and her Communist agents of a main springboard for Western Hemisphere activities.

The only direct Russian communications with Moscow from Brazil were through the Soviet Embassy

Elaborate Still On "Shangri-La" Grounds Seized

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21—(AP)—Officials of the Treasury Department's alcohol tax unit here disclosed today government agents had seized an elaborate still on the grounds of Shangri-La, Maryland mountain retreat of President Truman and the late President Roosevelt.

The federal agents found the moonshine works in dense woods on the reservation near Thurmont and seized equipment, including a 100-gallon copper still, ten 50-gallon mash "fermenters" and a 50-gallon condenser, officials said.

De Gaulle Seeks French Elections

PARIS, Oct. 21 (AP)—Gen. Charles De Gaulle's new French Peoples Party (RPF) will call for new parliamentary elections as soon as it has majority support in the National Assembly to pave the way for the General's early return to power, a party spokesman said tonight.

The spokesman, Diomede Catroux, declared the RPF had nearly a third of the Assembly's 618 deputies officially or unofficially pledged to support it prior to last Sunday's municipal elections in which the party scored a wide success. Catroux said De Gaulle's followers believe they now have majority support in the Assembly.

Lagging returns showed De Gaulle's new party and De Gaullelled coalitions had won 38.6 per cent of the popular vote reported so far in the municipal elections, more than any other party.

Catroux said De Gaulle's position was that he still considered himself above party politics and would refuse to take over the premiership under the present parliament. If a majority of the Assembly called for a return of the General, the spokesman indicated, he would first insist on holding national elections. De Gaulle has criticized the present constitution as being too restrictive on the power of the executive.

Man's Stomach Yields 3 1-2 Pounds Of Metal

LANSING, Kas., Oct. 21 (AP) — An operation in which 3½ pounds of metal objects—nails, screws and safety razors — were removed from the stomach of a Kansas State Prison inmate was disclosed today.

Warden Robert H. Hudspeth said the convict's stomach yielded:

401 nails of assorted sizes, two complete safety razors without blades, five metal washers, a three-inch screw, two stove bolts about two inches long, three nuts, a large brass washer, 11 thumb tacks, a quarter-inch screw, and 60 small metal objects ranging from paper clips to safety pins.

Prison officials said the man gave no reason for consuming the metal pieces over a period of about a year.

200 Dwellings Destroyed By Forest Fire In Maine; Village Apparently Saved

GOOSE ROCKS BEACH, Me., Oct. 21 (AP)—A roaring forest fire appears to have been halted tonight as it swept toward Kennebunkport Village after destroying nearly 200 dwellings, most of them summer cottages, at Goose Rocks, Cape Porpoise and the Wildes district.

The flames appeared to have halted the flames as they approached Kennebunkport Village, home of nationally famous artists and authors.

The fire-wracked sections are all districts in the township of Kennebunkport.

The burned area runs along the Maine coast for about five miles from Goose Rocks Beach at the north to the edges of Kennebunkport Village to the south.

A veritable army of fire fighters with apparatus drawn from communities within a 25-mile radius battled the blaze, the most serious of 40 forest fires that flared up throughout the state.

The drought-parched woodlands of New Hampshire, Vermont, New York and New Jersey were still threatened by forest fires, but the situation in Maine was by far the most serious.

Forest Commissioner Raymond E. Rendall described the fire in this area as "an entirely explosive situation never before recorded in the history of fire danger in the state." The blaze levelled half of the 200 cottages in the Goose Rocks district, 40 homes and farms in Cape Porpoise and another 40 cottages in the Wildes district.

Neither the home of Author Kenneth Roberts, a year around resident, nor the estate of the late Booth Tadkington were reported in danger.

National Guard companies were called out in New Hampshire, where a large blaze gained momentum in Hampstead and moved toward the Massachusetts line.

Many of the highway arteries connecting Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine were closed by the damaging flames.

Fashionable country estates in Beverly, Mass., were endangered by one of more than a score of forest fires that spotted Massachusetts woodlands.

In New York State 13 woodland fires, three of them uncontrolled, were reported by up-state wardens, while in neighboring New Jersey 12 fires were burning through tinder-dry woodlands.

Flying Boat Crashes

LONDON, Oct. 21 (AP) — An RAF Sunderland flying boat crashed in the fog in the Thames Estuary today and six of the crew were rescued by salvage workers on a ship wrecked earlier in the day.

The bodies of two other RAF men were picked up from the aircraft hulk, however, and two more of the 10-man crew were unaccounted for.

Supply "Caches" Are Uncovered In Greece

ATHENS, Oct. 21 (AP) — The American aid mission announced today it had uncovered supplies in Greek warehouses and docks originally worth $75,000,000 and said the discovery would save $6,000,000 or more in American expenditures under the aid program.

Dwight P. Griswold, head of the aid mission, told reporters he believed some of the consumer goods found were deliberately held off the market to maintain high prices. He said the discovery "definitely affects" the mission's future planning.

A mission statement said the huge amount of supplies—part of $1,000,000,000 worth sent to Greece since her liberation from the Nazis — was uncovered after a preliminary Greek government inventory and spot checks by mission personnel in the past two months.

Preacher-Teacher Is Found Guilty Of Fondling 8th Grade Girl Pupil

BONIFAY, Fla., Oct. 21 (AP)—State Sen. E. Bert Riddle was convicted today by a Circuit Court jury of charges of fondling an eighth grade girl pupil in the rural Poplar Springs School of which he was principal.

The jury which deliberated 50 minutes after a day-long trial recommended to the judge exercise mercy in sentencing the red-haired, 54-year-old preacher-teacher-politician.

Presiding Judge Ira A. Hutcheson deferred passing sentence until after he has heard tomorrow a new trial motion filed by John M. Coe, Riddle's attorney.

The maximum penalty for the offense is 10 years in the state prison. Riddle, who had sat placidly through the trial, turned pale but otherwise showed no emotion when the six-man jury verdict was announced.

His slightly-built 13-year-old accuser charged from the stand that he sent her into a vacant room at the school, then picked her up, set her on a table and felt her legs and breasts.

She said that a few minutes later, he put her out a window onto a tall, shrubbery-type hedge with the comment that teachers in the hall "may think something about us being here alone together."

Riddle—the only witness in his defense — denied the girl's story, but said he had picked her up to test her weight and put her out the window so that she could go to sch...

Lane Elected Chairman Of Governors' Conference

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Oct. 21—(AP)—The southern governors' conference today approved proposals for the establishment of regionalized professional schools for both whites and negroes in the South.

Action on educational program came during the closing session of the conference.

Gov. William P. Lane, Jr., of Maryland, was elected chairman of the conference, succeeding North Carolina's Gov. R. Gregg Cherry.

Lane Proclaims Navy Day

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 21 (AP)—Maryland will observe Navy Day October 27 per proclamation of Gov. Lane, who favors a "strong sea-air power."

He requested the national and state flags be flown from all public buildings.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21 (AP)—John L. Lewis, 67, United Mine Workers president, was pronounced in good physical condition today after a checkup at a hospital.

Baldwin Will Recommend Special Study Of Baltimore Food Prices

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—Sen. Baldwin (R-Conn.) said today he would recommend that a special study be made in retail food prices of the Baltimore area "to see why they are out of line as compared with some other cities."

Baldwin, vice chairman of the Eastern Subcommittee of the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report, made the statement after a day-long public hearing on Baltimore food prices.

At the same time, Rep. Hart (D-NJ), said the special survey should be made in Richmond, Va. Hart said the price increases in the Virginia capital, as well as in Baltimore, had been higher than the average city. Hart said food profits of 21 per cent, as reported to the government by national food dealers, were "outrageous."

The Baltimore hearing brought suggestions from several women witnesses that Congress be re-convened to deal with some sort of price controls.

Just as the two-day hearing convened, the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics released a report disclosing that retail food prices in Baltimore Rose 2.7 per cent between July 15, and October 15 this year.

The committee, which has conducted similar hearings in other East Coast cities, added Baltimore to the list at the request of Sen. O'Conor (D-Md.), who attended the hearing and questioned witnesses.

Using 100.0 as the 1935-39 index, O'Conor said retail food prices in Baltimore were up 102 per cent.

Dwight P. Griswold, head of the aid mission, told reporters he believed some of the consumer goods found were deliberately held off the market to maintain high prices. He said the discovery "definitely affects" the mission's future planning.

A mission statement said the huge amount of supplies—part of $1,000,000,000 worth sent to Greece since her liberation from the Nazis — was uncovered after a preliminary Greek government inventory and spot checks by mission personnel in the past two months.

Preacher-Teacher Is Found Guilty Of Fondling 8th Grade Girl Pupil

BONIFAY, Fla., Oct. 21 (AP) — State Sen. E. Bert Riddle was convicted today by a Circuit Court jury of charges of fondling an eighth grade girl pupil in the rural Poplar Springs School of which he was principal.

The jury which deliberated 50 minutes after a day-long trial recommended that the judge exercise mercy in sentencing the red-haired, 54-year-old preacher-teacher-politician.

Presiding Judge Ira A. Hutcheson deferred passing sentence until after he has heard tomorrow a new trial motion filed by John M. Coe, Riddle's attorney.

The maximum penalty for the offense is 10 years in the state prison.

R[illegible], who had sat placidly through the trial, turned pale but otherwise showed no emotion when the six-man jury verdict was announced.

His slightly-built 13-year-old accusor charged from the stand that he sent her into a vacant room at the school, then picked her up, set her on a table and felt her legs and breasts.

She said that a few minutes later, he put her out a window onto a tall, shrubbery-type hedge with the comment that teachers in the hall "may think something about us being in here alone together."

Riddle—the only witness in his defense — denied the girl's story, saying he did no more than lift her to test her weight and put her out the w[illegible] so she could c[illegible] a sch[illegible]

United States, Britain Score 40-6 Victory

Triple Setback Is Dealt Soviet Bloc

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — An overwhelming majority of the United Nations Assembly backed the United States and Britain against Russia today and created an 11-member United Nations commission to watch over the Balkans.

The vote was 40 to 6. Eleven nations abstained.

The Russians served notice for the second time in this Assembly that although elected to membership on the Balkan watch they would have nothing to do with this new United Nations body. This added another to a string of United Nations organizations which the Soviet Union has declined to join.

The western powers scored two other smashing victories:

1—The Assembly rejected a Polish resolution demanding immediate recall of all foreign military personnel and missions in Greece. This was aimed directly at the United States and Britain. The vote was 34 to 7.

Troops Stay In Greece

2—The Assembly rejected a Soviet resolution calling for withdrawal of foreign troops from Greece and for establishing a commission to supervise economic aid—such as provided under the Truman program—to that country. The vote was 41 to 6.

The Russian bloc voted alone on two roll calls. Egypt joined it on the Polish resolution. Delegates recalled that Egypt has a demand pending in the Security Council for the immediate withdrawal of British troops from her territory.

The Assembly directed that the commission be made up of the five great powers — the United States, Russia, Britain, France and China — plus Australia, Brazil, Mexico, the Netherlands, Pakistan and Poland.

Poland announced she would not serve on the commission but the Assembly specifically reserved seats for both Russia and Poland.

Winds Up Balkan Case

The series of showdown votes wound up the Balkans case in the Assembly, where it has been one of the most bitterly discussed topics since the delegates first convened on September 16. The delegates will go back to Lake Success tomorrow for another round of committee debate.

Other United Nations developments included:

1. Australia called on the Assembly to condemn propaganda which "fasely" accuses national officials or other responsible persons of "warmongering."

2. The Assembly's Special Committee on Palestine became tangled at Lake Success with involved debate on how to tackle a batch of proposals for and against partition of Palestine into Jewish and Arab countries. This started the second round of the Palestine affair in this Assembly.

Flying Boat Crashes

LONDON, Oct. 21 (AP) — An RAF Sunderland flying boat crashed in the fog in the Thames Estuary today and six of the crew were rescued by salvage workers on a ship wrecked earlier in the day.

The bodies of two other RAF men were brought from the blazing aircraft hulk, however, and two more of the 10-man crew were unaccounted for.

200 Dwellings Destroyed By Forest Fire In Maine; Village Apparently Saved

GOOSE ROCKS BEACH, Me., Oct. 21 (AP)—A roaring forest fire appears to have been halted tonight as it swept toward Kennebunkport Village after destroying nearly 200 dwellings, most of them summer cottages, at Goose Rocks, Cape Porpoise and the Wildes district.

Back fires appeared to have halted the flames as they approached Kennebunkport Village, home of nationally famous artists and authors.

The fire-wracked sections are all districts in the township of Kennebunkport.

The burned area runs along the Maine coast for about five miles from Goose Rocks Beach at the north to the edges of Kennebunkport Village to the south.

A veritable army of fire fighters with apparatus drawn from communities within a 25-mile radius battled the blaze, the most serious of 40 forest fires that flared up throughout the state.

The drought-parched woodlands of New Hampshire, Vermont, New York and New Jersey were dotted with forest fires, but the situation in Maine was by far the most serious.

Forest Commissioner Raymond E. Rendall described the fire in this area as "an entirely explosive situation never before recorded in the history of fire danger in the state."

The blaze levelled half of the 200 cottages in the Goose Rocks district, 40 homes and farms in Cape Porpoise and another 40 cottages in the Wildes district.

Neither the home of Author Kenneth Roberts, a year around resident, nor the estate of the late Booth Tadkington were reported in danger.

National Guard companies were called out in New Hampshire, where a large blaze gained momentum in Hampstead and moved toward the Massachusetts line.

Many of the highway arteries connecting Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine were closed by the damaging flames.

Fashionable country estates in Beverly, Mass., were endangered by one of more than a score of forest fires that spotted Massachusetts woodlands.

In New York State 13 woodland fires ,three of them uncontrolled, were reported by up-state wardens, while in neighboring New Jersey 12 blazes burned through tinder-dry woodlands.

President Calls Top Lawmakers To Aid Meeting

Poultry Producers Offer New Proposal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—President Truman sent a hurried call today for a meeting with Congress leaders Thursday on European winter aid, and well-placed administration sources predicted a special session will be discussed.

The President wishes to explore further the possibility of an agreement on the desirability for an early meeting of the lawmakers, two high-ranking White House aides said.

Mr. Truman last week spoke of the possibility of such a step. It would be aimed at providing emergency funds for food and fuel.

These aides said the President will bring the congressmen up to date on the outlook for producing stop-gap aid without legislation, prdduce the latest figures on the European economic picture and other information that has become available since they met in September with Mr. Truman.

Special Session "Safer Course"

One source expressed the view that the minimum need is assurance of prompt action at the regular session beginning in January. That official said a special session would be the safer course if there is any assurance that the congressmen are ready to proceed.

Meanwhile Americans who have been asked to save grain for Europe contemplated their third "poultryless and eggless Thursday" while officials wrestled with proposals to amend this feature of the voluntary conservation program.

Charles Luckman, chairman of the Citizens Food Committee leading the drive to save 100,000,000 bushels of grain, met with poultry and feed men who have argued that a poultryless day actually saves no grain. Luckman said any substitute must be adequate as a conservation measure.

Board To Study New Plan

The committee received specific new proposals for grain saving submitted by the National Poultry Producers Federation and groups rep-

Santiago Also Cuts Ties With Czechs

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 21 (INS) — Chile followed the example of Brazil tonight in breaking relations with the Soviet Union. The Chilean government also severed its ties with Czechoslovakia.

Early reports said that Chile broke with Yugoslavia — two of whose representatives were recently expelled for subversive activities — but were unconfirmed by the government.

However, observers pointed out that Chile has no diplomatic representatives in Belgrade and that Yugoslavia's severence with Chile on October 11 was tantamount to a clear-cut break between the two nations.

Yugoslavia took the action on the grounds that the dismissal from Chile of two of its diplomats was "without foundation."

Brazil's formal rift with Russia was followed by anti-Communist demonstrations in Rio De Janerio.

Seven Reported Wounded

Seven persons were reported in the Brazilian capital following the government's action when a student mob stoned the Soviet Embassy and sacked a Communist newspaper office.

Police finally dispersed them from the newspaper office, but more anti-Communist demonstrations are expected during the night against the outlawed Communists, who reputedly are the largest group in South America.

Police arrested one alleged Brazilian Communist who clashed with the students in front of the Soviet Embassy.

Among the victims reported hospitalized with severe gunshot wounds was Walther Weisberg, business manager of the Brazilian Communist newspaper Tribuna Popular.

Brazil automatically took the lead in what may shape up to be a bloc of anti-Communist South American nations.

The Brazilian severance will halt a limited number of Russian ships which had called at Brazilian ports, mainly Santos, and were loading goods such as coffee, canned foods, cotton goods and small amounts of quartz.

U. S. To Handle Brazil's Affairs

No Brazilian ships were calling at Russian ports. So trade matters do not play a big part in the diplomatic break.

Brazilians view the break as depriving Russia and her Communist agents of a main springboard for Western Hemisphere activities.

Elaborate Still On "Shangri-La" Grounds Seized

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21—(AP)—Officials of the Treasury Department's alcohol tax unit here disclosed today government agents had seized an elaborate still on the grounds of Shangri-la," Maryland mountain retreat of President Truman and the late President Roosevelt.

The federal agents found the moonshine works in dense woods on the reservation near Thurmont and seized equipment, including a 100-gallon copper still, ten 50-gallon mash "fermenters" and a 50-gallon condenser, officials said.

De Gaulle Seeks French Elections

PARIS, Oct. 21 (AP)—Gen. Charles De Gaulle's new French Peoples Party (RPF) will call for new parliamentary elections as soon as it has majority support in the National Assembly to pave the way for the General's early return to power, a party spokesman said tonight.

The spokesman, Diomede Catroux, declared the RPF had nearly a third of the Assembly's 618 deputies officially or unofficially pledged to support it prior to last Sunday's municipal elections in which the party scored a wide success. Catroux said De Gaulle's followers believe they now have majority support in the Assembly.

Lagging returns showed De Gaulle's new party and De Gaulle-led coalitions had won 38.6 per cent of the popular vote reported so far in the municipal elections, more than any other party.

Catroux said De Gaulle's position was that he still considered himself above party politics and would refuse to take over the premiership under the present parliament. If a majority of the Assembly called for a return of the General, the spokesman continued, he would first insist on holding national elections. De Gaulle has criticized the present constitution as being too restrictive on the power of the executive.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Oct. 21—(AP)—The southern governors' conference today approved proposals for the establishment of regionalized professional schools for both whites and negres in the South.

Action on the educational program came during the closing session of the conference.

Gov. William P. Lane, Jr., of Maryland, was elected chairman of the conference, succeeding North Carolina's Gov. R. Gregg Cherry.

Menjou And Hughes Cite Commie Threat

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (INS) — John C. Moffitt, writer and critic, testified today that Literary Agent John Weber, who was "sent by Communist headquarters in New York to Hollywood," obtained secret information on a new supersonic military plane.

Moffitt made his startling disclosure in testimony before the House Un-American Activities Committee investigation into Communist influences in the movie capital.

Moffitt said that Weber had obtained the information from the plane's unwary test pilot, Chalmers "Slick" Goodlin.

He said Goodlin has been replaced and "the case is now being investigated by the FBI."

His testimony was the highlight of today's congressional investigation which heard Screen Star Adolphe Menjou appeal to the American public to "wake up to the Communist danger" confronting the nation.

Menjou, his sauvity forgotten, told the House group that its investigation of Communism in Hollywood has "already alerted a good many people to the danger." He added:

"I would like every American to read and read and read to get the picture of the Communist conspiracy to take over the world."

Hughes Testifies

Rupert Hughes, the day's final witness, said he was one of the founders of the Screen Writers Guild, which he charged has been taken over by John H. Lawson and made into "an instrument of the Communist Party."

The 75-year-old author also charged that the University of California at Los Angeles is "Communist-dominated," but Committee Chairman Thomas (R) N. J., insisted that that statement be stricken from the record.

The day's hearing also featured the use of Capitol police to eject Charles J. Katz, a lawyer for 19 of the subpoenaed witnesses, for attempting to speak "out of order" before the committee.

Moffitt accused the literary agent of "engaging in activity detrimental to the best interests of the United States."

He testified that Weber had approached Goodlin, then test pilot for the Bell XS-1, and proposed that he write a story on his experiences.

Moffitt said Goodlin advised Weber that the material would have to be approved by Army Intelligence but was asked for a sample of the material to determine whether it is usable. Moffitt then said:

"The boy was foolish enough to do so and material on the nation's new supersonic plane came into the hands of Weber. Goodlin was replaced as test pilot and I understand that the case is now being taken up by the FBI."

Subversive Lines Inserted

Moffitt testified that writers were told to slip Communist lines into the "most expensive scene" in every movie so that the business manager of the film company would fight against the expense of having the scene re-shot when the subversive lines were spotted. He continued:

"Broadway is virtually dominated by Communism. Hollywood stacks

Man's Stomach Yields 3 1-2 Pounds Of Metal

LANSING, Kas., Oct. 21 (AP) — An operation in which 3½ pounds of metal objects — nails, screws and safety razors — were removed from the stomach of a Kansas State Prison inmate was disclosed today.

Warden Robert H. Hudspeth said the convict's stomach yielded:

401 nails of assorted sizes, two complete safety razors without blades, five metal washers, a three-inch screw, two stove bolts about two inches long, a two-inch nut, a large brass washer, 11 thumb tacks, a quarter-inch screw, and 60 small metal objects ranging from paper clips to safety pins.

Prison officials said the man gave no reason for consuming the metal pieces over a period of about a month.

Baldwin Will Recommend Special Study Of Baltimore Food Prices

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—Sen. Baldwin (R-Conn.) said today he would recommend that a special study be made in retail food prices of the Baltimore area "to see why they are out of line as compared with some other cities."

Baldwin, vice chairman of the Eastern Subcommittee of the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report, made the statement after a day-long public hearing on Baltimore area food prices.

At the same time, Rep. Hart (D-NJ), said the special survey should be made in Richmond, Va. Hart said the price increases in the Virginia capital were not so large as Baltimore, but were higher than the average city. Hart said food profits of 21 per cent, as reported to the government by national food dealers, were "outrageous."

The Baltimore hearing brought suggestions from several women witnesses that Congress be re-convened to deal with some sort of price controls.

Just as the two-day hearing convened, the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics released a report disclosing that retail food prices in Baltimore Rose 2.7 per cent between July 15, and October 15 this year.

The committee, which has conducted similar hearings in other East Coast cities, added Baltimore to its list at the request of Sen. O'Conor (D-Md.), who attended the hearing and submitted a preliminary statement.

Using 100.0 as the 1935-39 index, O'Conor said retail food prices in Baltimore were up 102 per cent,

U.N. Palestine Group To Set Up Subcommittees

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 21 (AP) — The United Nations 57-member Palestine Committee approved overwhelmingly tonight an Australian proposal to establish three special subcommittees which will comprise the machinery for working out a final solution of the Holy Land problem.

Procedural debate lasting three and a half hours began when Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, of Australia, chairman of the Pelestine Committee, suggested setting up three groups to study different aspects of the problem

When the proposal was put to a vote just before the committee adjourned until 11 a. m. (EST) tomorrow, the members unanimously adopted Evatt's first proposal to set up a subcommittee on conciliation wherein Arabs and Jews would confer in an effort to settle their differences.

A second subcommittee, to discuss the details of a plan for implementing the partition scheme was approved 35 to 0, with eight abstentions.

A Soviet proposal sought to have the committee decide first on which suggestion solution it would use as a basis for its debate, either the partition plan which was recommended in the majority report of the United Nations Special Committee on Palestine, or the Arab-supported plan to make Palestine an independent Arab nation. Russia suggested that with that point settled the committee then could appoint one suboommittee to decide how the plan could be implemented. The Russians were defeated, 26 to 14.

Among those who recommended that Congress be reconvened was Mrs. Carl B. Swisher, representing the League of Women Voters of Maryland.

"Charts are not necessary to tell Baltimore housewives that prices are up," she said. "They are well aware of that every time they go to market."

Mrs. Swisher said "we cannot rely solely on voluntary efforts" to cut prices, and said Congress should work out a new system of controls.

She said the league did not take a stand on whether the OPA should be restored, when questioned by Sen. Baldwin.

A Washington woman, Mrs. Frances Klafter, of the League of Women Shoppers, said Congress should immediately "reimpose price controls and rationing."

In 1931 the Homemakers Chorus was organized with 25 members and the first spring musical festival was given the next year.

Mrs. H. J. Wentz served from 1933-1936, during which time a market was established in the armory, a garden party held, 22 clubs with 812 members and the RWSC was organized. A Program Planning committee was formed during the term of Mrs. R. N. Wilson, 1937-1938. It planned demonstrations, training schools and all county projects. A county style show was held and home management was a major project. The first Rural Art exhibit was held at the library, under the sponsorship of the Homemakers Clubs.

Sings At National Council

The Chorus sang at the National Home Demonstration Council at Penn State during the 1939-1940 term of Mrs. Arthur Phillips, cotton mattress projects were held and 600 garment were completed for the Red Cross. Tray covers were made for Miners Hospital and Keating Day Nursery. Kits were made also for servicemen and members served at both Allegany and Memorial hospitals one day each week.

Food menus of balanced diets were planned when Mrs. W. L. Maddocks was president in 1941-1943. Victory gardens were planted and defense groups formed, and nine county neighborhood groups. A shawl pageant was held and war bonds bought. Members assisted in filling out sugar rationing blanks when Mrs. Edward Lewis was president 1944-1945. Red Cross safety programs, blood donor programs, food conservation and nutrition and health seminars were assisted. The chorus held two sacred concerts and its first vesper musical Recreational meeting.

Under the presidency of Mrs. B. C. Robinette, 1946-1947 when with peace restored activities were renewed on an expanded scale. Training schools were held, also lectures on parliamentary law, and UNO. Lawyers talked to individual clubs on relation of law to the home. A loan was extended a student for college tuition and quite a few members had freezing units installed in their homes. National Home Demonstration week was observed and hymn festival held. The RWSC, suspended during the war, was resumed with 147 county women attending .

Miss Venia M. Kellar, Miss Anne Sloan and Mrs. Leona Powell Fairy were honor guests. Mrs. Joseph A. Wheeler, vocalist and Mrs. Claude Yoder, Mrs. Barton and Mrs. Horace Mills sang a trio number.

Robert Stripling, committee chief investigator, asked Moffitt:

"Can you name writers in Hollywood who, according to your information, are members of the Communist Party?" He replied:

"I am not a government agency and I have no investigative powers . . . I cannot tell under oath about the party card of party number of these men. However, I do have a list of writers who were asked about their party membership by the Hollywood Reporter (a motion picture trade magazine)."

He then named Albert Maltz, Robert Rossen, Dalton Trumbo, Gordon Kahn, Ring Lardner, Jr., Richard J. Collins, Harold Buchan, Lester Cole, Henry Meyer, William Palmer, Morris Henry Ratf, Jr., Harold J. Salenson and John Wexley.

Randolph Says Putting Non-Union Men In Shops Would Destroy ITU

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—Woodruff Randolph, president of the International Typographical Union, declared today that putting non-union men into organized print shops would in time mean the "absolute destruction" of the ITU.

Randolph, whose union traditionally has operated on a closed shop basis, made his statement in testimony before Chief Trial Examiner William R. Ringer, of the National Labor Relations Board.

He further told the examiner, after terming the ITU the "only stabilizing influence" in the printing industry, that the "laws of the union are not subject to change by the process of collective bargaining."

"When a local union enters into collective bargaining," he said, "it is taken for granted that if a contract is to ensue, that contract will include such (ITU) laws as are in accordance with the international and approved by the president."

The ITU leader said that "the injection of non-union men in composing rooms would result in the absolute destruction within not too long a time of the International Typographical Union."

The union last August adopted a "no contract" policy and substituted instead "conditions of employment" under which its members would work.

The ITU and its Baltimore Local No. 12 are charged by the NLRB with refusal to bargain collectively in good faith with the Baltimore Graphic Arts League, which is composed of 22 printing firms.

The Taft-Hartley law, under which this first case of its kind against a union is being heard, makes the closed shop illegal.

Church Inaugurates Family Dinner Program

The first of a series of family dinners inaugurating a "Family Sunday" program in which families will attend church together once a month, was held last night at Mapleside Methodist Church of which Rev. Joseph W. Young is pastor. The first "Family Sunday" will be October 26.

Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill High School, addressed the group last night on the relation of the home and the church, and said that in a recent survey of 250 High school students 85 per cent did not have grace at the table at mealtime or any form of worship or player in their homes.

Invocation was said by Albert T. Reckley and the responsive reading was led by George "Ted" Conway. Mrs. Homer Sellers was at the piano. The dinner was served to the some 75 persons attending under the direction of the Woman's Society for Christian Service.

lowing year. The president appeared before the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, State Federation of Music Clubs, Cumberland Chapter, OES, giving talks on extension work. In 1931 the Homemakers Chorus was organized with 25 members and the first spring musical festival was given the next year.

Mrs. H. J. Wentz served from 1933-1936, during which time a market was established in the armory, a garden party held, 22 clubs with 812 members and the RWSC was organized. A Program Planning committee was formed during the term of Mrs. R. N. Wilson, 1937-1938. It planned demonstrations, training schools and all county projects. A county style show was held and home management was a major project. The first Rural Art exhibit was held at the library, under the sponsorship of the Homemakers Clubs.

Sings At National Council

The Chorus sang at the National Home Demonstration Council at Penn State during the 1939-1940 term of Mrs. Arthur Phillips, cotton mattress projects were held and 600 garment were completed for the Red Cross. Tray covers were made for Miners Hospital and Keating Day Nursery. Kits were made also for servicemen and members served at both Allegany and Memorial hospitals one day each week.

Food menus of balanced diets were planned when Mrs. W. L. Maddocks was president in 1941-1943. Victory gardens were planted and defense groups formed, and nine county neighborhood groups. A shawl pageant was held and war bonds bought. Members assisted in filling out sugar rationing blanks when Mrs. Edward Lewis was president 1944-1945. Red Cross safety programs, blood donor programs, food conservation and nutrition and health seminars were assisted. The chorus held two sacred concerts and its first vesper musical Recreational meeting.

Under the presidency of Mrs. B. C. Robinette, 1946-1947 when with peace restored activities were renewed on an expanded scale. Training schools were held, also lectures on parliamentary law, and UNO. Lawyers talked to individual clubs on relation of law to the home. A loan was extended a student for college tuition and quite a few members had freezing units installed in their homes. National Home Demonstration week was observed and hymn festival held. The RWSC, suspended during the war, was resumed with 147 county women attending.

Miss Venia M. Kellar, Miss Anne Sloan and Mrs. Leona Powell Fairy were honor guests. Mrs. Joseph A. Wheeler, vocalist and Mrs. Claude Yoder, Mrs. Barton and Mrs. Horace Mills sang a trio number.

Over 400 members attended the celebration.

up very well in comparison. Forty-four out of 100 best plays on Broadway in the last 10 years have had Communist lines. The party line was favored in 233 other plays."

Robert Stripling, committee chief investigator, asked Moffitt:

"Can you name writers in Hollywood who, according to your information, are members of the Communist Party?" He replied:

"I am not a government agency and I have no investigative powers . . . I cannot tell under oath about the party card of party number of these men. However, I do have a list of writers who were asked about their party membership by the Hollywood Reporter (a motion picture trade magazine)."

He then named Albert Maltz, Robert Rossen, Dalton Trumbo, Gordon Kahn, Ring Lardner, Jr., Richard J. Collins, Harold Buchan, Lester Cole, Henry Meyer, William Palmer, Morris Henry Ratf, Jr., Harold J. Salenson and John Wexley.

Randolph Says Putting Non-Union Men In Shops Would Destroy ITU

BALTIMORE, Oct. 21 (AP)—Woodruff Randolph, president of the International Typographical Union, declared today that putting non-union men into organized print shops would in time mean the "absolute destruction" of the ITU.

Randolph, whose union traditionally has operated on a closed shop basis, made his statement in testimony before Chief Trial Examiner William R. Ringer, of the National Labor Relations Board.

He further told the examiner, after terming the ITU the "only stabilizing influence" in the printing industry, that the "laws of the union are not subject to change by the process of collective bargaining."

"When a local union enters into collective bargaining," he said, "it is taken for granted that if a contract is to ensue, that contract will include such (ITU) laws as are in accordance with the international and approved by the president."

The ITU leader said that "the injection of non-union men in composing rooms would result in the absolute destruction within not too long a time of the International Typographical Union."

The union last August adopted a "no contract" policy and substituted instead "conditions of employment" under which its members would work.

The ITU and its Baltimore Local No. 12 are charged by the NLRB with refusal to bargain collectively in good faith with the Baltimore Graphic Arts League, which is composed of 22 printing firms.

The Taft-Hartley law, under which this first case of its kind against a union is being heard, makes the closed shop illegal.

Church Inaugurates Family Dinner Program

The first of a series of family dinners inaugurating a "Family Sunday" program in which families will attend church together once a month, was held last night at Mapleside Methodist Church of which Rev. Joseph W. Young is pastor. The first "Family Sunday" will be October 26.

Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill High School, addressed the group last night on the relation of the home and the church, and said that in a recent survey of 250 High school students 85 per cent did not have grace at the table at mealtime or any form of worship or player in their homes.

Invocation was said by Albert T. Reckley and the responsive reading was led by George "Ted" Conway. Mrs. Homer Sellers was at the piano. The dinner was served to the some 75 persons attending under the direction of the Woman's Society for Christian Service.

resenting commercial feed manufacturers and feed dealers. Luckman rejected last night a previous conservation offer as too general to warrant doing away with the poultryless day.

Later, the committee announced that its executive board will meet tomorrow to consider the new proposals and presumably to decide the fate of poultryless Thursday. Luckman commented that the new plans offer somewhat more specific methods of reaching definite goals than the original program.

Willie Pep Kayoes Barriere In First

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 21 (AP)—Willie Pep, 129, world's featherweight champion, knocked out Jean Barriere, 133, of Montreal, in 2:07 of the first round of their scheduled 10-round non-title bout tonight.

After sparring briefly with Barriere, the Hartford, Conn., champ dropped the Canadian for counts of nine and eight before flattening him for the full count with a short left hook to the jaw.

Pep ko'd Barriere in the fifth round of a bout at Hartford several weeks ago.

Rx HAS A GREATER MEANING TO YOUR "PEOPLES" PHARMACISTS

"Rx" on your physician's prescription blank is a symbol which stands for the Latin word "recipe" and simply means "take."

To your "Peoples" Pharmacist this symbol also means . . . "take the ingredients specified on a prescription in the quantities indicated and compound them into a medicine."

TO YOUR "PEOPLES" PHARMACISTS RX ALSO MEANS:

"Take only the FINEST QUALITY ingredients as supplied us by the nation's renowned pharmaceutical houses and compound them for use in accordance with the doctor's instructions."

"Take the KNOWLEDGE, EXPERIENCE, SKILL AND ACCURACY of your professional training and apply these EXACTINGLY in preparing every prescription." "Take the time and care to DOUBLE-CHECK every prescription for accuracy—as there can be no compromise with accuracy in a Peoples-prepared prescription."

Ripley Mentions County Once More

Allegany County once again has been cited, if that's the word, by Robert L. Ripley, "Believe-It-Or-Not" cartoonist.

His last reference was in this past Sunday's comic section when he referred to eight strawberries grown on one stem by Oliver Rephann, Frostburg.

Some years ago another of Ripley's cartoons mentioned the fact the Greene Street School burned down while located next to a paid fire department, and another time he called attention to Henderson Boulevard (boulevards generally are through streets) and the fact that it had 26 stop signs.

Some other misnomers or what-have-you around this section include the fact that prisoners in City Jail look out on Liberty Street and those in the county bastille look out on Prospect Square.

Just a year or so ago the county had a sheriff named Steele and some years before that time a judge named Robb.

Permit Granted

Robert Maphis secured a permit in the city engineer's office yesterday to build a one-story concrete block wash house and storage room at 1308 Virginia Avenue, at an estimated cost of $115.

The structure, which will measure 12 by 16 feet, will have a composition roof.

A Little Comparison With Russia Might Be Helpful

If the average American took time to study some facts about living in Soviet Russia as compared to the United States, the glittering statements of the blessings of Communism wouldn't be quite so bright. They would be dull indeed.

Entirely aside from the constriction of living in a police state, which shackles free speech and the free expression of opinion, and which regulates every move which one may make, the average Russian is almost entirely lacking in the comforts which Americans have come to accept for granted. Take, for instance, such things as automobiles, food, clothing and economic health.

In Russia all automobiles are made by the government. Yet there are fewer automobiles in that vast nation than there are in the city of St. Louis. There are fewer surfaced roads than in Michigan. The weekly wage of the average Russian would buy him 8 pounds of beef, 15.2 quarts of milk, or 22.5 pounds of bread. The American weekly earnings will enable him to buy 80 pounds of beef, 276 quarts of milk or 394 pounds of bread. In three hours of work an American can make enough money to buy a pair of shoes. After 160 hours of work the Russians can get a pair—if the shoes are obtainable.

And in production, Russia falls down, despite all her five-year plans, her special incentives and her virtual slave labor. One American coal miner produces as much coal as seven Soviet miners. This country produces 96,000,000 tons of steel against 23,000,000 in Russia, and the American farmer is four times the producer the Soviet farmer is.

Making allowances for Russia's backwardness when the Soviets came into power, it is still obvious that Communism does not encourage good production. Here in the United States, under the system of free enterprise, a smaller country, with no greater natural resources than Russia, has produced the greatest wealth for the greatest number in history. Yet some Americans blindly follow those who argue that we throw over our own magic formula for a concoction which has proved inadequacy. They don't appreciate what they have.

Not A Good Omen For The Future Of The Republic

Jim Byrnes' disclosure about the episode in which Henry Wallace lost his post in the cabinet will unfortunately strengthen a feeling that the government at Washington is not square with the people in the information it gives it.

At the same time the clear impression was created by the three principals—President Truman, Secretary Byrnes and Secretary Wallace—that Byrnes had not said that Wallace would either get out of the government or Byrnes would. Now Byrnes is evidently giving the straight dope. He did say it and Truman kicked Wallace out.

There may have been considerations which impelled the three to take that course at the time, but they could not have been very forceful against the compelling duty that a democratic government tell the people the truth. How can the nation have enlightened government if a large percentage of its citizens are led to doubt everything their officials say?

Americans point an accusing finger at Russia's lying propaganda with poor grace when their own government upon occasion blacks out the truth with false versions.

There was a time when the high official in Washington who spoke obliquely to the people was an exception. Now biographers and autobiographers in increasing number are reciting events in language far different from that the people heard at the time they occurred. It is decidedly not a good omen for the future of the Republic.

Little Regard Shown For American Flags Used Here

From time to time, veteran and patriotic organizations have voiced resentment about the ragged and soiled condition of flags on public and other buildings in the city. At many organization meetings, the opinion is often voiced that many officials and others seem to have an utter disregard for our national emblem.

This idea was again brought into focus last week, when it was noted by a number of people that the flags on several public and other buildings were being flown at half mast, and that flags are permitted to fly after sundown, and in some cases all night.

Flags were flown at half mast on October 10, when the first bodies of World War II soldier dead arrived in this country. They are to be flown at half-staff again on next Sunday, when the second ship, carrying the bodies of American soldier dead from foreign burial plots, is to arrive.

In the meantime, the flag should fly at top-mast, from sunrise to sunset. Veterans are hoping that this procedure will be adhered to, not only now, but at all times.

King Juda Moves Again

Bitter words, in all likelihood, have been spoken in the councils of Bikini natives during the last few months. Certainly the 14 men and six women tribal leaders who counsel King Juda find it necessary to look hard to find what benefits they have derived from their cooperation with the white man in his awful experiments.

The 160 inhabitants of Bikini gave up their island home so the atomic bomb tests could be conducted. They moved to Rongerik Island 120 miles to the eastward and began life all over again. Now they will move to a new home on the island of Ujelan, 400 miles west of Rongerik and 290 miles southwest of Bikini.

An American agricultural specialist who visited Rongerik found the people "defeated, frustrated, poverty-stricken and hungry," and "unable to support themselves on the island's agriculture or fisheries." Bikini was not much better than Rongerik although it had more than three times the acreage. Ujelang is described as a highly productive island, and much larger than Rongerik.

The new Democratic national chairman says his sole business will be to reelect Truman. He recognizes a full-time job when he sees it.

REST FOR THE LUNGS

REST is a great healer and often proves more valuable than all the medicines in the world. It is a natural tendency to seek repose when we are ill and strapping a sprained ankle or placing a cast over a broken bone are forms of rest. Some organs, like the heart and lungs, must work day and night and when they become afflicted cure is difficult because they cannot be made absolutely inactive.

In the past, victims of pulmonary tuberculosis found that their best chance for recovery was to take to bed for months or years until the disease was under control. Then it was discovered that by collapsing the affected lung, almost all movement could be stopped. This is done by injecting air into the chest cavity (artificial pneumothorax), by removing one or more ribs (thoracoplasty), or by paralyzing the diaphragm.

This plan saved months of invalidism and is of particular merit in those with cavities. Furthermore, after the lung is collapsed the organisms disappear quickly from the sputum. As a result, the majority are able to be up and about and resume their former occupation while undergoing treatment. Nevertheless, years are required before healing is complete. The procedure is not successful with every one nor can it be performed when there is extensive involvement on both side.

Recently an equalizing pressure chamber was devised by Barach for the treatment of far advanced tuberculosis. The apparatus has the appearance of an iron lung except that the head too is enclosed but in a separate compartment. When patients are placed within the machine, variations in pressure are such that air enters and leaves the lungs without moving the parts. Thus the chest is in a motionless state and there is no need for breathing. This can almost be considered the ultimate in rest.

To date, 12 individuals have been given this type of therapy and recovery followed in six, with improvement in four. Each treatment lasts eight to 11 hours and the regimen is continued for three and one-half months. Some have had one such course; others as many as three.

One of the several difficulties in starting the method was teaching the patients not to breathe which is understandable since the impulse is so strong. In many instances the first two or three days were wasted because the sufferer unconsciously started the act.

While in the chamber the subject is almost in a state of suspended animation. He is thoroly relaxed and does not care to change position or move the arms or legs. The desire for smoking disappears almost immediately. Many do not even care to listen to the radio. One drawback is that a clicking sound is heard in the head as a result of the oscillating pressure. By covering the ears with sponge rubber or a radio microphone, the sensation is minimized.

NO DIFFERENCE

A. S. writes: Are the symptoms of appendicitis the same in children as in adults?

REPLY

Yes, except that children are more likely than adults to describe their symptoms briefly and to the point. They add no frills and are not emotional about the outcome.

INGENIOUS PLAN

T. V. writes: If a person has a blood disease, why can't his blood be taken out and good blood pumped in?

REPLY

This maneuver is impossible because the body would cease to function should most of the blood be withdrawn. But this is only part of the story. The blood vessels and tissues about the arteries, as well as the blood, are affected and bacteria would invade the substitute vital fluid shortly after it enters the system.

MISTAKEN DIAGNOSIS

J. E. writes: What happens if a doctor operates on a person whom he thought had appendicitis and then finds the structure normal? Shouldn't he have taken X-rays first.

REPLY

The answer depends upon whether the diagnosis was acute or chronic appendicitis. In the former, X-rays are rarely made, and if, at operation, the appendix is found to be normal, then the surgeon searches elsewhere for the cause of the individual's distress. On the other hand, the appendix is often removed in this type of case to insure against a future attack. Chronic appendicitis requires much more study and may include X-ray examination.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Seems a little late for Byrnes to describe that Yalta conference. I mean the mill will never grind with the eggs that have been scrambled.

Jim's book come out about the same time as Winnie Churchill's speech on Russia. Winnie doesn't give Stalin a loophole to stand on.

Winnie rips the English commies to stuffings and gives the American fellow-travelers the back of his hand. And he agrees with me that the Lake Success conference is an insane asylum with a show window.

Right now Winnie is enjoying a well-oiled retirement. But every time the old fire-hoss smells smoke he can tell whether it is carelessness or arson.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Wall Streeters Make Last Attempt Today To Ward Off Anti-Trust Suit; New York Banker Blue Bloods Deeply Involved; Conspired With Insurance Companies

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—Wall Street lawyers are going into a huddle with the Justice Department today in a last-gap effort to stave off the biggest anti-trust suit the nation has seen in years. What they are trying to head off is a crackdown on the 17 biggest banking houses in New York and the Justice Department's demand that they quit monopolizing the money marts of the nation.

Wall Street lawyers now have adopted the clever strategy of asking that the case be arbitrated by the Securities and Exchange Commission, which has changed a lot since FDR promised to drive out the money changers and which is now safely dominated by Wall Street.

However, Attorney General Tom Clark, with strong backing from President Truman, is determined to go ahead with the case—even though it involves the former banking firms of three members of the Truman Cabinet.

The list of defendants in this case reads like the guest list at one of Mrs. Astor's swankiest parties. It takes in the blue bloods of New York's investment banking business, from the relatives of the late J. P. Morgan to Sir William Wiseman, former head of British Intelligence and now head of Kuhn Loeb.

It also includes the family of New York's ex-Governor Lehman—namely Philip Lehman, Robert Lehman, Allen S. Lehman. Also on the list are John Hertz, former king of the Yellow Taxis, and John Hancock, right-hand adviser and war assistant to Bernie Baruch.

Thomas S. Gates, chairman of the board of the University of Pennsylvania and member of Drexel and Company, is also on the list, as well as Dillon Read, the former firm of Secretary of Defense Forrestal; and Harriman Ripley, the former firm of Secretary of Commerce Harriman and Acting Secretary of State Lovett.

The list also includes some of the men who controlled war production as members of the WPB—such as Sidney Weinberg, head of Goldman Sachs, and Arthur Bunker of Lehman Brothers, who acted as wartime czar of aluminum production and threw his weight in favor of ALCOA's monopoly.

The Justice Department is now charging that this long list of banker defendants not only conspired to monopolize the sale of stocks and bonds in the United States, but also stifled other business competing with their banking clients.

Stifling American Business

For instance, if a manufacturing firm which has not worked through these 17 blue-chip bankers applies to them for money, the money is refused, according to the Justice Department, if the applicant firm competes with a company whose financial deals the bankers already handle.

This, the Justice Department claims, puts the control of vital American business throughout the nation virtually in the hands of 17 firms in Wall Street.

By placing directors on the boards of companies which they finance, the big bankers continue to dictate policy long after their stock or bond issue is floated.

How widely the "17 Club" controls American money markets is shown by the following Justice Department figures: Between 1936 and 1945, the 17 now facing Justice Department prosecution handled 67.9 per cent of all the securities sold in the U. S. A.

There are a total of 254 well-recognized investment houses in the country, but the 237 who didn't belong to the "17 Club" handled only one-third of the security business.

Members of the "17 Club" who got most of the gravy were: Morgan Stanley, with 14.6 per cent of the security business; First Boston Corporation, with 12.2 per cent; Dillon, Read (Forrestal's old firm), with 8.5; Kuhn Loeb, with 6.8; Blyth & Company (Charles E. Mitchell's firm), 43.

Secret Insurance Company Deal

The Justice Department also has discovered that these 17 blue chip bankers have conspired with some of the big insurance companies to dominate the money markets.

On December 5, 1941, just two days before Pearl Harbor, Justice Department records show that many of the "17 Club" got gether with Prudential Insurance, Equitable Life Assurance, New York Life, Mutual Life of New York and Home Life, to work out a deal whereby the insurance companies and the investment bankers cooperated in floating securities. This was followed by another meeting on May 5, 1942, at which all members of the "17 Club," plus additional insurance companies agreed:

1. That insurance companies would get first whack at 50 per cent of any stock and bond flotation in which they express an interest;

2. Insurance companies refrain from bidding on stock and bonds offered through competitive bidding;

3. Insurance companies also discourage other investment bankers from selling securities through competitive bidding.

All of this, the Justice Department claims, has kept money rates at "artifically high, non-competive prices" and made the cost of floating stocks and bonds "exorbitant."

Other Charges"

Some of the other charges prepared against the "17 Club" and their investment trust include:

A. Agreeing not to compete among themselves in merchandising securities;

B. Fixing uniform prices among themselves;

C. Forcing any company for whom they float one stock issue to let the "17 Club" float all other stock in the future;

D. Banning all outsiders from handling "17 Club" securities;

E. Lobbying against state and federal government agencies which seek to require competititve bidding;

F. Controlling and limiting the development of business enterprises which may offer substantial competition to established firms which defendant bankers represent;

G. Encouraging consolidations, mergers, expansions, refinancings and belt refundings in order to create increasing volume of security business for the "17 Club."

Those are just a few of the practices uncovered by the Justice Department in its biggest move against Wall Street since 1933, when Justice Ferdinand Pecora conducted the probe which led to establishment of the Securties and Exchange Commission.

Note—Bankers included in the Justice Department case other than those named above are: Union Securities Corporation, Eastman, Dillon Company, White Weld and Company, Harris, Hall Compahy, Kidder, Peabody and Company, Stone and Webster Securities Corporation, Glore Forgan and Company.

THESE DAYS

By George E. Sokolsky

Goods Is Goods

WE were walking along Allen Street, which is where old brass, old silver, old anything can be bought for any price. The storefronts are shabby; the windows crusted with years of dust and grime; the owners, shabby merchants in old clothes, their fingers discolored by the tarnish of the metals that are their wares.

My friend stopped before one such shop and tried to peer through the glass.

"You want something?" A bearded, collarless man had joined us.

"If you have it, I'd like a large Maccabean lamp. These small ones are too small," my friend replied.

"Maybe in back there is a large one. Maybe sometime I can find one. Today, I don't want to look," the merchant replied cheerfully.

"Don't you care whether you sell or not?" my friend asked.

"Not particularly. I like to sell enough wares to pay my rent and eat. The rest I like to keep in goods. Goods is sure; dollars maybe are good, maybe, they ain't. The dollars are just as good when they are in wares in this store as when they lie in a bank. Dollars I don't have; goods I got plenty." The merchant laid down his economic credo.

My friend asked: "Suppose there's an inflation?"

"That's nothing. If it's inflation, my goods are still goods. If it's a depression, the goods are still goods. So I pay less for rent and less for food and less for anything. So I sell my wares a little less. Inflation—I sell for more; depression I sell for less. But goods is goods." The merchant made everything clear.

"Mister," my friend asked, "Don't you ever borrow from a bank?"

The merchant laughed, "From a bank I should borrow? I should get a headache? I should have to sell my goods when I need to pay the bank? I should be forced? Like this, you buy, O.K. You don't buy, also O.K. The goods are mine. What I have is mine. I have no partners. That is good business. Anybody can understand that who knows what two plus two is. But maybe lots of people don't know the answer."

So we walked along old Allan Street, where we pas d old and dirty stores, where men traded as for centuries they had in bazaars and marts and in a thousand stores and shops. These little people never went to colleges and they never read the great economists nor could they understand the graphs and charts that are issued with such assurance by thousands of bureaus and statistical associations.

But they understand the fundamentals of economics. They understand almost instinctively what is sound business and sound living. My friend said to me:

"In business, there is a residue of experience for which all book learning is no substitute. You sometimes wonder that I or one of my associates looks at a man who comes along with a perfectly sound proposition and we turn him down. The point is that there is one thing wrong with his proposition and that is the man himself. Out of our accumulated experience, a reflex, almost as strong as an instinct, says, 'Don't do business with that man.'

"It is like that with this simple merchant. He has a tremendous life experience, a greater personal experience than any economics professor, than most government officials, than many bankers. That experience comes from handling goods and handling people, from buying and selling, from trying to make a sufficient profit to keep alive and to improve himself. He is the typical small business man that builds nations.

"He knows when times are good or bad. Nobody needs to tell him. He needs no facts. He smells out what is to come as an animal might an enemy in the woods. He knows when to run to cover; he knows when to expand. He knows when to cut his losses. He does not know why he knows nor even that he knows. He just tends to his own business.

"Every great business in the world was built by such people. They are the salt of the earth—and the trouble is that we too often forget them."

Americans Want Aid To Europe On Sound And Efficient Basis

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—From all sides—Republican and Democrat—there is a significant unanimity of opinion about the broad outlines of the Marshall Plan. It is that Europe must be helped. It may be taken for granted, moreover, that Europe will be helped.

But there are differences of opinion as to how the help should be extended and in what quantity. The differences are by no means partisan. Members of Congress returning from Europe have their own ideas about what ought to be done but they recognize the fundamental proposition that America must give some help.

Generally speaking, all are agreed that America must prevent starvation in Europe. Food must be provided until the next harvests at least.

It is with respect to economic reconstruction that the problem grows complex. How, for instance, can there be any assurance that the money or the goods will be properly used? How can the true needs be measured? Shall there be a commitment over a period of time or shall the aid be given in piecemeal fashion?

Four-Year Program Appears Out

These questions are gradually being answered in part. Thus it begins to look as if the Administration will not recommend to Congress four-year programs as laid out by the committee representing the 16 nations. This is primarily because one congress cannot bind another but it is also because of a practical difficulty—there is no way of knowing to what extent changing conditions will affect the program as it is being executed.

The consensus already seems to be along the lines of a year-by-year appropriation.

There is every reason why Europe should feel confident about getting aid for four years but there is no way as yet to predict the exact sums over a period of time. Congress will want to observe how the American goods and dollars are being utilized. If the Communists gain control of a country to which American aid is flowing, Congress will want to decide in such a contingency what to do.

Likewise if one country shows signs of substantial progress and appears to be a good investment for more funds or goods than originally contemplated, there is no reason why the allocation to that country should be held down.

The whole European situation will be surveyed from the point of view of immediate necesstiy for the next twelve months and only those sums will be advanced which are deemed aboslutely essential.

Europeans Will Have To Conform

This is the American way of dealing with expenditures and appropriations and it is one to which the Europeans will have to conform.

Some central agency of government in the United States will be expected to survey periodically the over-all picture and keep Congress informed. If the amounts appropriated are inadequate, supplementary appropriations can be made as occasion may require.

Piecemeal aid need not present any handicaps. In fact, it is better from the European viewpoint because there is more likelihood of continued American participation. It is easier to correct missteps in smaller stages than it is to take a long step and find public opinion in America alienated to the point of wishing to stop all aid.

There are signs that the administration and the Republicans will see eye to eye before the program that is finally adopted is put into effect. Basically both parties are agreed in principle—that there ought to be aid to Europe. What's more, both parties have exactly the same viewpoint as to what the American people want done, which is to furnish aid on a sound and efficient basis instead of just pouring out money that will not help Europe—or America, either.

Byrnes, In Effect, Charges Roosevelt Badly Managed War

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

In a new book, "Frankly Speaking," former Secretary of State Byrnes says that the United Nations should eventually order Russia to get out of Germany, and if Russia vetoes this demand, the United States "and as many as are willing to join in the task" must drive Russia out by force.

In short, World War III would begin. Where would it end?

Before going further, we should ask who let the Russian Bear loose in the world?

War Badly Managed?

Byrnes' declaration that World War III may be necessary is, in effect, a charge that World War II was badly managed by President Roosevelt. We know that Churchill urged going up through the Balkans, the "soft under-belly" of Europe, rather than across France, in order to get into eastern Europe ahead of the Russians; that Roosevelt vetoed Churchill's plan; that he agreed to the Morgenthau Plan, for which we must now curtail our food in order to feed both former allies and enemies; that he fathered the "veto" or principle of unanimity for the United Nations. It is also said that Mr. Roosevelt agreed that Russia should have the honor of capturing Berlin, although this did not take place until 20 days after his death.

Now ex-Secretary Byrnes says that we must drive Russia out of Germany, with the help of as many other nations as will join us. But will we do all the blood letting to free German soil of Russians and refuse any German assistance that may be tendered?

War against Russia and her satellites would dis-unite the United Nations beyond question. Second, Mr. Byrnes would negotiate a separate peace with Germany. Whatever the moral justifications for this action, and they are great, it would put us in the position of violating our pledge not to make a separate peace. Third, Byrnes would disregard Russia's veto of his proposed order to Russia to get out.

Yet, the United Nations' Charter says clearly that no action shall be taken by them against any of the Big Five if any one of the Five objects to her "veto," as Russia would almost certainly do. Moreover, Mr. Byrnes' Plan contemplates direct action against Russia outside of the United Nations.

Would End "Great Design"

This would clearly be the end of Mr. Roosevelt's "Great Design." The only thing that might save this result would be a complete back-down by Stalin, Molotov, Vishinsky, et al.

If Mr. Byrnes foreshadows the future policy of President Truman and Secretary Marshall, it marks a complete break with the "Russia-events move toward war, President Truman will either be re-elected as a war or crisis President, or he will be defeated as a result of a split between those Democrats who think Roosevelt was right, and those who think Truman, Marshall and Byrnes are right.

However cautious we may be in adopting the "Byrnes Plan," we can at least thank him for being frank. We have had little frankness since 1939 You will recall the repeal of the Neutrality Act in the fall of that year. Byrnes, then Senator, manipulated the repeal. Senators and Congressmen, one after another, all said the sale of munitions to belligerants would "protect the neutrality. . . of our country and at the same time keep us out of war"—as Mr. Roosevelt put it.

Senator Burke, of Nebraska, among those who voted for repeal, was about the only one who stated the question honestly. He said: "It favors the belligerents that I want favored." Exactly.

It will be some gain if frankness now takes the place of "gobble-legook."

The 200-inch mirror for the Mt. Palomar Observatory has finally been completed after 11½ years of polishing . . . I've heard of housemaid's knee . . . and scrivener's palsey . . . but that's the first time I ever heard of astronomer's elbow.

The scientist who polished that piece of glass for 11½ years has become world famous. But I know a guy who's been polishing a glass for 20 years and I doubt if his own wife ever heard of him . . . He's a bartende r.

Few people know this, but I'm somewhat of an asctronomer and somewhat of an astronomer and this project. Before the professors would start polishing the glass, I'd "hoooooo" on it.

All they have to worry about now is shipping this lens 131 miles past a long line of little boys with sling shots.

It weighs 15 tons and Sam Spade got worried when he heard about it. . . . He thought he was the biggest "private eye" in the world.

They're expecting to see things they never saw before. I think they're being too optimistic. I want to be around when they look through that lens and spot Truman shaking hands with Taft.

For nine years I studied the stars with a telescope . . . Then they got wise and pulled down their shades.

In the event a new planet is discovered, the scientists have invited me to suggest a name for it. I suggested they name it "Oscar" . . . As far as I'm concerned, that's a billion miles away, too.

Today's Talk

Need Of A Friend

The late Clare A. Briggs, famous cartoonist, whom I knew very well, once had a series of drawings entitled: "When a Feller Needs a Friend." They undoubtedly impressed millions of people who saw them, and loved the artist for them.

Well, who doesn't need a friend at most every turn in life? Especially when in a discouraged mood, when sorrow comes, or when hope and faith have become exceedingly low. There is no possession in this life so valuable as a friend—especially when that friend is needed.

How many a time in all our lives, has a friend appeared to give us encouragement, new spirit, and new resolves. We all have plenty of acquaintances—but we are lucky to have gained a handful of friends over an entire lifetime—and by a friend I mean one "without capitulation," as so well stated by Robert Louis Stevenson.

You will recall, from the reading of your New Testament, that Jesus referred to John as "the beloved" disciple, though he had many followers. And it was David who had his Jonathan. But there came a time when the great Napoleon would have welcomed a friend, though he named but one, and that in his will—his faithful butler, or servant.

People flock about us in prosperity, and while we may enjoy a certain fame or acclaim, but how few remain to cheer us when all the shouting has ceased! There is a saying that "a friend in need is a friend indeed," which is very true. It's the mental and spiritual tie that holds a genuine friend. One who understands, without any explanation. I have a signed photograph from a friend to me, and he designates me as a friend "without quotation marks!" I would like to be that kind of a friend.

We need a friend for personal corrections, for direction in emergencies, and for admonition, when we have perhaps lost our way temporarily. And sometimes we need a friend just to take our hand, and to press it with an ultra understanding.

A Little Comparison With Russia Might Be Helpful

If the average American took time to study some facts about living in Soviet Russia as compared to the United States, the glittering statements of the blessings of Communism wouldn't be quite so bright. They would be dull indeed.

Entirely aside from the constriction of living in a police state, which shackles free speech and the free expression of opinion, and which regulates every move which one may make, the average Russian is almost entirely lacking in the comforts which Americans have come to accept for granted. Take, for instance, such things as automobiles, food, clothing and economic health.

In Russia all automobiles are made by the government. Yet there are fewer automobiles in that vast nation than there are in the city of St. Louis. There are fewer surfaced roads than in Michigan. The weekly wage of the average Russian would buy him 8 pounds of beef, 15.2 quarts of milk, or 22.5 pounds of bread. The American weekly earnings will enable him to buy 80 pounds of beef, 276 quarts of milk or 394 pounds of bread. In three hours of work an American can make enough money to buy a pair of shoes. After 160 hours of work the Russians can get a pair—if the shoes are obtainable.

And in production, Russia falls down, despite all her five-year plans, her special incentives and her virtual slave labor. One American coal miner produces as much coal as seven Soviet miners. This country produces 96,000,000 tons of steel against 23,000,000 in Russia, and the American farmer is four times the producer the Soviet farmer is.

Making allowances for Russia's backwardness when the Soviets came into power, it is still obvious that Communism does not encourage good production. Here in the United States, under the system of free enterprise, a smaller country, with no greater natural resources than Russia, has produced the greatest wealth for the greatest number in history. Yet some Americans blindly follow those who argue that we throw over our own magic formula for a concoction which has proved inadequacy. They don't appreciate what they have.

Not A Good Omen For The Future Of The Republic

Jim Byrnes' disclosure about the episode in which Henry Wallace lost his post in the cabinet will unfortunately strengthen a feeling that the government at Washington is not square with the people in the information it gives it.

At the same time the clear impression was created by the three principals—President Truman, Secretary Byrnes and Secretary Wallace—that Byrnes had not said that Wallace would either get out of the government or Byrnes would. Now Byrnes is evidently giving the straight dope. He did say it and Truman kicked Wallace out.

There may have been considerations which impelled the three to take that course at the time, but they could not have been very forceful against the compelling duty that a democratic government tell the people the truth. How can the nation have enlightened government if a large percentage of its citizens are led to doubt everything their officials say?

Americans point an accusing finger at Russia's lying propaganda with poor grace when their own government upon occasion blacks out the truth with false versions.

There was a time when the high official in Washington who spoke obliquely to the people was an exception. Now biographers and autobiographers in increasing number are reciting events in language far different from that the people heard at the time they occurred. It is decidedly not a good omen for the future of the Republic.

Little Regard Shown For American Flags Used Here

From time to time, veteran and patriotic organizations have voiced resentment about the ragged and soiled condition of flags on public and other buildings in the city. At many organization meetings, the opinion is often voiced that many officials and others seem to have an utter disregard for our national emblem.

This idea was again brought into focus last week, when it was noted by a number of people that the flags on several public and other buildings were being flown at half mast, and that flags are permitted to fly after sundown, and in some cases all night.

Flags were flown at half mast on October 10, when the first bodies of World War II soldier dead arrived in this country. They are to be flown at half-staff again on next Sunday, when the second ship, carrying the bodies of American soldier dead from foreign burial plots, is to arrive.

In the meantime, the flag should fly at top-mast, from sunrise to sunset. Veterans are hoping that this procedure will be adhered to, not only now, but at all times.

Certainly the 14 men and six women tribal leaders who counsel King Juda find it necessary to look hard to find what benefits they have derived from their cooperation with the white man in his awful experiments.

The 160 inhabitants of Bikini gave up their island home so the atomic bomb tests could be conducted. They moved to Rongerik Island 120 miles to the eastward and began life all over again. Now they will move to a new home on the island of Ujelan, 400 miles west of Rongerik and 290 miles southwest of Bikini.

An American agricultural specialist who visited Rongerik found the people "defeated, frustrated, poverty-stricken and hungry," and "unable to support themselves on the island's agriculture or fisheries." Bikini was not much better than Rongerik although it had more than three times the acreage. Ujelang is described as a highly productive island, and much larger than Rongerik.

The new Democratic national chairman says his sole business will be to reelect Truman. He recognizes a full-time job when he sees it.

This plan saved months of invalidism and is of particular merit in those with cavities. Furthermore, after the lung is collapsed the organisms disappear quickly from the sputum. As a result, the majority are able to be up and about and resume their former occupation while undergoing treatment. Nevertheless, years are required before healing is complete. The procedure is not successful with every one nor can it be performed when there is extensive involvement on both side.

Recently an equalizing pressure chamber was devised by Barach for the treatment of far advanced tuberculosis. The apparatus has the appearance of an iron lung except that the head too is enclosed but in a separate compartment. When patients are placed within the machine, variations in pressure are such that air enters and leaves the lungs without moving the parts. Thus the chest is in a motionless state and there is no need for breathing. This can almost be considered the ultimate in rest.

To date, 12 individuals have been given this type of therapy and recovery followed in six, with improvement in four. Each treatment lasts eight to 11 hours and the regimen is continued for three and one-half months. Some have had one such course; others as many as three.

One of the several difficulties in starting the method was teaching the patients not to breathe which is understandable since the impulse is so strong. In many instances the first two or three days were wasted because the sufferer unconsciously started the act.

While in the chamber the subject is almost in a state of suspended animation. He is thoroly relaxed and does not care to change position or move the arms or legs. The desire for smoking disappears almost immediately. Many do not even care to listen to the radio. One drawback is that a clicking sound is heard in the head as a result of the oscillating pressure. By covering the ears with sponge rubber or a radio microphone, the sensation is minimized.

NO DIFFERENCE

A. S. writes: Are the symptoms of appendicitis the same in children as in adults?

REPLY

Yes, except that children are more likely than adults to describe their symptoms briefly and to the point. They add no frills and are not emotional about the outcome.

INGENIOUS PLAN

T. V. writes: If a person has a blood disease, why can't his blood be taken out and good blood pumped in?

REPLY

This maneuver is impossible because the body would cease to function should most of the blood be withdrawn. But this is only part of the story. The blood vessels and tissues about the arteries, as well as the blood, are affected and bacteria would invade the substitute vital fluid shortly after it enters the system.

MISTAKEN DIAGNOSIS

J. E. writes: What happens if a doctor operates on a person whom he thought had appendicitis and then finds the structure normal? Shouldn't he have taken X-rays first.

REPLY

The answer depends upon whether the diagnosis was acute or chronic appendicitis. In the former, X-rays are rarely made, and if, at operation, the appendix is found to be normal, then the surgeon searches elsewhere for the cause of the individual's distress. On the other hand, the appendix is often removed in this type of case to insure against a future attack. Chronic appendicitis requires much more study and may include X-ray examination.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Seems a little late for Byrnes to describe that Yalta conference. I mean the mill will never grind with the eggs that have been scrambled.

Jim's book come out about the same time as Winnie Churchill's speech on Russia. Winnie doesn't give Stalin a loophole to stand on.

Winnie rips the English commies to stuffings and gives the American fellow-travelers the back of his hand. And he agrees with me that the Lake Success conference is an insane aslyum with a show window.

Right now Winnie is enjoying a well-oiled retirement. But every time the old fire-hoss smells smoke he can tell whether it is carelessness or arson.

Wall Streeters Make Last Attempt Today To Ward Off Anti-Trust Suit; New York Banker Blue Bloods Deeply Involved; Conspired With Insurance Companies

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—Wall Street lawyers are going into a huddle with the Justice Department today in a last-gap effort to stave off the biggest anti-trust suit the nation has seen in years. What they are trying to head off is a crackdown on the 17 biggest banking houses in New York and the Justice Department's demand that they quit monopolizing the money marts of the nation.

Wall Street lawyers now have adopted the clever strategy of asking that the case be arbitrated by the Securities and Exchange Commission, which has changed a lot since FDR promised to drive out the money changers and which is now safely dominated by Wall Street.

However, Attorney General Tom Clark, with strong backing from President Truman, is determined to go ahead with the case—even though it involves the former banking firms of three members of the Truman Cabinet.

The list of defendants in this case reads like the guest list at one of Mrs. Astor's swankiest parties. It takes in the blue bloods of New York's investment banking business, from the relatives of the late J. P. Morgan to Sir William Wiseman, former head of British Intelligence and now head of Kuhn Loeb.

It also includes the family of New York's ex-Governor Lehman—namely Philip Lehman, Robert Lehman, Allen S. Lehman. Also on the list are John Hertz, former king of the Yellow Taxis, and John Hancock, right-hand adviser and war assistant to Bernie Baruch.

Thomas S. Gates, chairman of the board of the University of Pennsylvania and member of Drexel and Company, is also on the list, as well as Dillon Read, the former firm of Secretary of Defense Forrestal; and Harriman Ripley, the former firm of Secretary of Commerce Harriman and Acting Secretary of State Lovett.

The list also includes some of the men who controlled war production as members of the WPB—such as Sidney Weinberg, head of Goldman Sachs, and Arthur Bunker of Lehman Brothers, who acted as wartime czar of aluminum production and threw his weight in favor of ALCOA's monopoly.

The Justice Department is now charging that this long list of banker defendants not only conspired to monopolize the sale of stocks and bonds in the United States, but also stifled other business competing with their banking clients.

Stifling American Business

For instance, if a manufacturing firm which has not worked through these 17 blue-chip bankers applies to them for money, the money is refused, according to the Justice Department, if the applicant firm competes with a company whose financial deals the bankers already handle.

This, the Justice Department claims, puts the control of vital American business throughout the nation virtually in the hands of 17 firms in Wall Street.

By placing directors on the boards of companies which they finance, the big bankers continue to dictate policy long after their stock or bond issue is floated.

How widely the "17 Club" controls American money markets is shown by the following Justice Department figures: Between 1936 and 1945, the 17 now facing Justice Department prosecution handled 67.9 per cent of all the securities sold in the U. S. A.

There are a total of 254 well-recognized investment houses in the country, but the 237 who didn't belong to the "17 Club" handled only one-third of the security business.

Members of the "17 Club" who got most of the gravy were: Morgan Stanley, with 14.6 per cent of the security business; First Boston Corporation, with 12.2 per cent; Dillon, Read (Forrestal's old firm), with 8.5; Kuhn Loeb, with 6.8; Blyth & Company (Charles E. Mitchell's firm), 43.

Secret Insurance Company Deal

The Justice Department also has discovered that these 17 blue chip bankers have conspired with some of the big insurance companies to dominate the money markets.

On December 5, 1941, just two days before Pearl Harbor, Justice Department records show that many of the "17 Club" got gether with Prudential Insurance, Equitable Life Assurance, New York Life, Mutual Life of New York and Home Life, to work out a deal whereby the insurance companies and the investment bankers cooperated in floating securities. This was followed by another meeting on May 5, 1942, at which all members of the "17 Club," plus additional insurance companies agreed:

1. That insurance companies would get first whack at 50 per cent of any stock and bond flotation in which they express an interest;

2. Insurance companies refrain from bidding on stock and bonds offered through competitive bidding;

3. Insurance companies also discourage other investment bankers from selling securities through competitive bidding.

All of this, the Justice Department claims, has kept money rates at "artifically high, non-competive prices" and made the cost of floating stocks and bonds "exorbitant."

Other Charges"

Some of the other charges prepared against the "17 Club" and their investment trust include:

A. Agreeing not to compete among themselves in merchandising securities;

B. Fixing uniform prices among themselves;

C. Forcing any company for whom they float one stock issue to let the "17 Club" float all other stock in the future;

D. Banning all outsiders from handling "17 Club" securities;

E. Lobbying against state and federal government agencies which seek to require competititve bidding;

F. Controlling and limiting the development of business enterprises which may offer substantial competition to established firms which defendant bankers represent;

G. Encouraging consolidations, mergers, expansions, refinancings and belt refundings in order to create increasing volume of security business for the "17 Club."

Those are just a few of the practices uncovered by the Justice Department in its biggest move against Wall Street since 1933, when Justice Ferdinand Pecora conducted the probe which led to establishment of the Securties and Exchange Commission.

Note—Bankers included in the Justice Department case other than those named above are: Union Securities Corporation, Eastman, Dillon Company, White Weld and Company, Harris, Hall Compahy, Kidder, Peabody and Company, Stone and Webster Securities Corporation, Glore Forgan and Company.

THESE DAYS

Goods Is Goods

WE were walking along Allen Street, which is where old brass, old silver, old anything can be bought for any price. The storefronts are shabby; the windows crusted with years of dust and grime; the owners, shabby merchants in old clothes, their fingers discolored by the tarnish of the metals that are their wares.

My friend stopped before one such shop and tried to peer through the glass.

"You want something?" A bearded, collarless man had joined us.

"If you have it, I'd like a large Maccabean lamp. These small ones are too small," my friend replied.

"Maybe in back there is a large one. Maybe sometime I can find one. Today, I don't want to look," the merchant replied cheerfully.

"Don't you care whether you sell or not?" my friend asked.

"Not particularly. I like to sell enough wares to pay my rent and eat. The rest I like to keep in goods. Goods is sure; dollars maybe are good, maybe, they ain't. The dollars are just as good when they are in wares in this store as when they lie in a bank. Dollars I don't have; goods I got plenty." The merchant laid down his economic credo.

My friend asked: "Suppose there's an inflation?"

"That's nothing. If it's inflation, my goods are still goods. If it's a depression, the goods are still goods. So I pay less for rent and less for food and less for anything. So I sell my wares a little less. Inflation—I sell for more; depression I sell for less. But goods is goods." The merchant made everything clear.

"Mister," my friend asked, "Don't you ever borrow from a bank?"

The merchant laughed, "From a bank I should borrow? I should get a headache? I should have to sell my goods when I need to pay the bank? I should be forced? Like this, you buy, O.K. You don't buy, also O.K. The goods are mine. What I have is mine. I have no partners. That is good business. Anybody can understand that who knows what two plus two is. But maybe lots of people don't know the answer."

So we walked along old Allan Street, where we pas d old and dirty stores, where men traded as for centuries they had in bazaars and marts and in a thousand stores and shops. These little people never went to colleges and they never read the great economists nor could they understand the graphs and charts that are issued with such assurance by thousands of bureaus and statistical associations.

But they understand the fundamentals of economics. They understand almost instinctively what is sound business and sound living. My friend said to me:

"In business, there is a residue of experience for which all book learning is no substitute. You sometimes wonder that I or one of my associates looks at a man who comes along with a perfectly sound proposition and we turn him down. The point is that there is one thing wrong with his proposition and that is the man himself. Out of our accumulated experience, a reflex, almost as strong as an instinct, says, 'Don't do business with that man.'

"It is like that with this simple merchant. He has a tremendous life experience, a greater personal experience than any economics professor, than most government officials, than many bankers. That experience comes from handling goods and handling people, from buying and selling, from trying to make a sufficient profit to keep alive and to improve himself He is the typical small business man that builds nations.

"He knows when times are good or bad. Nobody needs to tell him. He needs no facts. He smells out what is to come as an animal might an enemy in the woods. He knows when to run to cover; he knows when to expand. He knows when to cut his losses. He does not know why he knows nor even that he knows. He just tends to his own business.

"Every great business in the world was built by such people. They are the salt of the earth—and the trouble is that we too often forget them."

Americans Want Aid To Europe On Sound And Efficient Basis

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—From all sides—Republican and Democrat—there is a significant unanimity of opinion about the broad outlines of the Marshall Plan. It is that Europe must be helped. It may be taken for granted, moreover, that Europe will be helped.

But there are differences of opinion as to how the help should be extended and in what quantity. The differences are by no means partisan. Members of Congress returning from Europe have their own ideas about what ought to be done but they recognize the fundamental proposition that America must give some help.

Generally speaking, all are agreed that America must prevent starvation in Europe. Food must be provided until the next harvests at least.

It is with respect to economic reconstruction that the problem grows complex. How, for instance, can there be any assurance that the money or the goods will be properly used? How can the true needs be measured? Shall there be a commitment over a period of time or shall the aid be given in piecemeal fashion?

Four-Year Program Appears Out

These questions are gradually being answered in part. Thus it begins to look as if the Administration will not recommend to Congress four-year programs as laid out by the committee representing the 16 nations. This is primarily because one congress cannot bind another but it is also because of a practical difficulty—there is no way of knowing to what extent changing conditions will affect the program as it is being executed.

The consensus already seems to be along the lines of a year-by-year appropriation.

There is every reason why Europe should feel confident about getting aid for four years but there is no way as yet to predict the exact sums over a period of time. Congress will want to observe how the American goods and dollars are being utilized. If the Communists gain control of a country to which American aid is flowing, Congress will want to decide in such a contingency what to do.

Likewise if one country shows signs of substantial progress and appears to be a good investment for more funds or goods than originally contemplated, there is no reason why the allocation to that country should be held down.

The whole European situation will be surveyed from the point of view of immediate necesstiy for the next twelve months and only those sums will be advanced which are deemed aboslutely essential.

Europeans Will Have To Conform

This is the American way of dealing with expenditures and appropriations and it is one to which the Europeans will have to conform.

Some central agency of government in the United States will be expected to survey periodically the over-all picture and keep Congress informed. If the amounts appropriated are inadequate, supplementary appropriations can be made as occasion may require.

Piecemeal aid need not present any handicaps. In fact, it is better from the European viewpoint because there is more likelihood of continued American participation. It is easier to correct missteps in smaller stages than it is to take a long step and find public opinion in America alienated to the point of wishing to stop all aid.

There are signs that the administration and the Republicans will see eye to eye before the program that is finally adopted is put into effect. Basically both parties are agreed in principle—that there ought to be aid to Europe. What's more, both parties have exactly the same viewpoint as to what the American people want done, which is to furnish aid on a sound and efficient basis instead of just pouring out money that will not help Europe—or America, either.

Byrnes, In Effect, Charges Roosevelt Badly Managed War

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

In a new book, "Frankly Speaking," former Secretary of State Byrnes says that the United Nations should eventually order Russia to get out of Germany, and if Russia vetoes this demand, the United States "and as many as are willing to join in the task" must drive Russia out by force.

In short, World War III would begin. Where would it end?

Before going further, we should ask who let the Russian Bear loose in the world?

War Badly Managed?

Byrnes' declaration that World War III may be necessary is, in effect, a charge that World War II was badly managed by President Roosevelt. We know that Churchill urged going up through the Balkans, the "soft under-belly" of Europe, rather than across France, in order to get into eastern Europe ahead of the Russians; that Roosevelt vetoed Churchill's plan; that he agreed to the Morgenthau Plan, for which we must now curtail our food in order to feed both former allies and enemies; that he fathered the "veto" or principle of unanimity for the United Nations. It is also said that Mr. Roosevelt agreed that Russia should have the honor of capturing Berlin, although this did not take place until 20 days after his death.

Now ex-Secretary Byrnes says that we must drive Russia out of Germany, with the help of as many other nations as will join us. But will we do all the blood letting to free German soil of Russians and refuse any German assistance that may be tendered?

War against Russia and her satellites would dis-unite the United Nations beyond question. Second, Mr. Byrnes would negotiate a separate peace with Germany. Whatever the moral justifications for this action, and they are great, it would put us in the position of violating our pledge not to make a separate peace. Third, Byrnes would disregard Russia's veto of his proposed order to Russia to get out.

Yet, the United Nations' Charter says clearly that no action shall be taken by them against any of the Big Five if any one of the Five objects to her "veto," as Russia would almost certainly do. Moreover, Mr. Byrnes' Plan contemplates direct action against Russia outside of the United Nations.

Would End "Great Design"

This would clearly be the end of Mr. Roosevelt's "Great Design." The only thing that might save this result would be a complete back-down by Stalin, Molotov, Vishinsky, et al.

If Mr. Byrnes foreshadows the future policy of President Truman and Secretary Marshall, it marks a complete break with the "Russia-events move toward war, President Truman will either be re-elected as a war or crisis President, or he will be defeated as a result of a split between those Democrats who think Roosevelt was right, and those who think Truman, Marshall and Byrnes are right.

However cautious we may be in adopting the "Byrnes Plan," we can at least thank him for being frank. We have had little frankness since 1939 You will recall the repeal of the Neutrality Act in the fall of that year. Byrnes, then Senator, manipulated the repeal. Senators and Congressmen, one after another, all said the sale of munitions to belligerants would "protect the neutrality. . . of our country and at the same time keep us out of war"—as Mr. Roosevelt put it.

Senator Burke, of Nebraska, among those who voted for repeal, was about the only one who stated the question honestly. He said: "It favors the belligerents that I want favored." Exactly.

It will be some gain if frankness now takes the place of "gobble-legook."

The 200-inch mirror for the Mt. Palomar Observatory has finally been completed after 11½ years of polishing . . . I've heard of housemaid's knee . . . and scrivener's palsey . . . but that's the first time I ever heard of astronomer's elbow.

The scientist who polished that piece of glass for 11½ years has become world famous. But I know a guy who's been polishing a glass for 20 years and I doubt if his own wife ever heard of him . . . He's a bartende r.

Few people know this, but I'm somewhat of an asctronomer and somewhat of an astronomer and this project. Before the professors would start polishing the glass, I'd "hoooooo" on it.

All they have to worry about now is shipping this lens 131 miles past a long line of little boys with sling shots.

It weighs 15 tons and Sam Spade got worried when he heard about it. . . . He thought he was the biggest "private eye" in the world.

They're expecting to see things they never saw before. I think they're being too optimistic. I want to be around when they look through that lens and spot Truman shaking hands with Taft.

For nine years I studied the stars with a telescope . . . Then they got wise and pulled down their shades.

In the event a new planet is discovered, the scientists have invited me to suggest a name for it. I suggested they name it "Oscar" . . . As far as I'm concerned, that's a billion miles away, too.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Need Of A Friend

The late Clare A. Briggs, famous cartoonist, whom I knew very well, once had a series of drawings entitled: "When a Feller Needs a Friend." They undoubtedly impressed millions of people who saw them, and loved the artist for them.

Well, who doesn't need a friend at most every turn in life? Especially when in a discouraged mood, when sorrow comes, or when hope and faith have become exceedingly low. There is no possession in this life so valuable as a friend—especially when that friend is needed.

How many a time in all our lives, has a friend appeared to give us encouragement, new spirit, and new resolves. We all have plenty of acquaintances—but we are lucky to have gained a handful of friends over an entire lifetime—and by a friend I mean one "without capitulation," as so well stated by Robert Louis Stevenson.

You will recall, from the reading of your New Testament, that Jesus referred to John as "the beloved" disciple, though he had many followers. And it was David who had his Jonathan. But there came a time when the great Napoleon would have welcomed a friend, though he named but one, and that in his will—his faithful butler, or servant.

People flock about us in prosperity, and while we may enjoy a certain fame or acclaim, but how few remain to cheer us when all the shouting has ceased! There is a saying that "a friend in need is a friend indeed," which is very true. It's the mental and spiritual tie that holds a genuine friend. One who understands, without any explanation. I have a signed photograph from a friend to me, and he designates me as a friend "without quotation marks!" I would like to be that kind of a friend.

We need a friend for personal corrections, for direction in emergencies, and for admonition, when we have perhaps lost our way temporarily. And sometimes we need a friend just to take our hand, and to press it with an ultra understanding.

If you aren't doing anything for the next three minutes, I'd like to play a little something for you on my mandolin.

Every so often I take my appetite to a small cafe off Lexington Avenue. It has two attractions—(a) the music of several elegant fiddles, and (b) meat balls that speak with an Hungarian accent.

Last night I was parked at my favorite table—the one with the tablecloth—when a good-looking gal walked in. The headwaiter sat her down at the table next to mine. As I split a meat ball down the middle, I inventoried the newcomer. Thirty-ish—good profile all over—the kind of clothes everybody's missus would like to wear.

Billy Rose

On the other side of the napkin-sized dance floor, I noticed a well-set-up gent sharing my interest in the gal. When she looked in his direction, he smiled at her. The unattached lady smiled back. The gent got up and walked out to the checkroom. He returned a moment later with one of those cellophane-wrapped orchids that the pros in our better men's rooms carry as a sideline.

"Here it comes," I said to myself. "A pick-up."

And a pretty pick-up it was. The big bad wolf scribbled something on the back of a menu. A waiter delivered the menu and the orchid to the lady. The lady read the message and smiled a yes to its sender. The gent walked over to her table, bowed, introduced himself and sat down.

"This is very kind of you," I heard him tell her. "It's not much fun dining alone. Will you permit me to choose the wine?"

"A pretty smooth operator," I thought. I saw the headwaiter watching the couple and wondered when he was going to tell Romeo to take his monkey business elsewhere—that a pick-up might jeopardize the joint's liquor license.

"I've seen you around town a number of times," the man on the make continued. "I didn't quite know how to go about meeting you."

The lady smiled. "It was very thoughtful of the Duke of Cumberland to introduce us," she said.

The wine steward brought in the ice bucket, gave the bottle a final twirl, and popped the cork.

"Roederer '26," said Pick-up Pete. "This is a special occasion, my dear. A toast is in order. Here's to the two of us over the years."

The tzigane orchestra went into an old Franz Lehar song. The gent rose, bowed, and asked his lady if she'd care to dance. Old-World stuff. I had to admit they looked pretty good together on the dance floor. When they sat down, I heard him whisper something about not wanting the night to end too soon.

"Stuff and stuff," I said to myself, and asked for the check.

On my way out, I passed the head waiter. "What gives here?" I asked. "You saw what happened. How come you didn't break it up?"

The maitre d' smiled. "It's been going on for a long time," he said. "On the same evening in October for the past 11 years, Mr. Coddington and the lady come to this cafe and re-enact the same little scene. They've been doing it ever since he first picked her up in this restaurant back in 1936. They always reserve the same tables. Once I got up enough nerve to ask him why. He told me it kept them both young."

Benefit Card Party To Be Held At Elks Club Tomorrow

Proceeds from the card party to be given by the American Home Group of the Woman's Civic Club tomorrow night will be used for the general welfare fund of the club. The party is open to the public and will be held at the Elk's Home, South Centre Street, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Arthur C. Bright, president states that the club accepted the yearly budget at last week's meeting as presented by the Finance committee and recommended by the executive board. It calls for an expanded plan of support in welfare and philanthropic activities.

A large portion of the club funds are used annually for welfare work, Mrs. Bright reported and cited that in addition to holiday gifts and visits to the County home and infirmary and to Sylvan Retreat and personal contacts with shut-ins, the club contributes annually to the Community Chest, Red Cross, Girl Scout Campership, Police Boys' Club, Crippled Children's League, American Cancer Society, Perry Point Veterans Hospital and is a sustaining member of the YMCA.

Present plans call for the establishment of a fund for eye-glasses to be handled by the Health department. Appeals for foreign relief will be met and it is planned to support Choral Society and Civic Orchestra.

Tickets for tomorrow's party may be purchased from Miss Elizabeth H. Lowndes, general chairman, club members and at the Music Shop, 5 South Liberty Street. Other members of the party committee are Mrs. William A. Gunter, Mrs. Fred T. Small, Miss Henrietta Schwarzenbach, Mrs. Miles G. Thompson, Mrs. Carl F. Schmutz, Mrs. Allan C. Fisher, Mrs. John Mosner and Mrs. A. N. Golladay.

W. Md. Presbyterial Will Meet Today

The meeting of the Western Maryland Branch Presbyterial will be held today in the Barton Presbyterian Church, instead of First Presbyterian Church, this city, as originally planned.

The meeting will begin at 11:15 with Mrs. Chalmers H. Goshorn, Lonaconing, presiding. Officers for a two year term will be elected and reports will be given on the seminar, summer conference and young people's work.

Vocal selections will be presented by Mrs. John Taylor, Frostburg.

Lunch will be served by the women of the host church. Representatives from the six churches of Western Maryland are expected to attend.

Cumberland Chapter Bazaar Opens Tomorrow

The annual bazaar sponsored by Cumberland Chapter OES will be held tomorrow and Friday nights at the temple. Features of tomorrow night will be a dinner and play. The dinner will be served from 5:30 until 7 o'clock. The play "Long, Long Ago," will be presented under the direction of Mrs. May Orr, with Mrs. Jessie McElfish pianist.

An old time barn dance will be the feature attraction Friday night. Music will be by old time fiddlers, beginning at 8 o'clock.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Care of bacon is most important. It should not be allowed to lie on the shelf or table in a warm kitchen. Never take it from the refrigerator until you are ready to use it; then as soon as the amount needed has been removed, return the rest to the refrigerator.

Homemakers Club Has Cooking Clinic

Judging of exhibits and discussions on baking rolls and bread featured the meeting of the Pleasant Grove Homemakers Club, Monday night at the home of Mrs. P. P. McElfish. The hostess received the award for the best fancy rolls and Mrs. Harry P. Northcraft, for the best plain rolls.

A round table discussion of cooking problems was a feature of the meeting.

Mrs. Northcraft, Mrs. Howard Perrin and Mrs. James Michaels were appointed members of the Nominating committee, by Mrs. Ray Gross. Two new members were enrolled also. They were Mrs. Cora Parleton and Mrs. Calvin Layton.

It was decided that the plans for the Achievement day program will be made by members of the Entertainment committee. It is composed of Mrs. Adolph Norris and Mrs. Harry Wilson. The date and place for the meeting is to be announced later.

Group singing of "America" and routine business completed the afternoon.

Beds that stand 20 to 24 inches from the floor require much less effort to make than the newer lower beds, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Teen-Age Girl Advised Not To See Her Boy Friend So Often

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 18 years old and I met a boy of 19 that I like very much. He is also fond of me.

I am with him three or four nights a week and my parents object to that very much and we often quarrel about it. They think that he will tire of me if we are together so much. I am in by 10:30 every night except Friday and Saturday.

I love my parents a great deal and I want to do as they say, but I don't want to lose the friendship of this boy because of not going out with him. Please tell me if I should stop seeing him so much or what I should do.

"TROUBLED"

Dear "Troubled":

It seems to me that there may be something to your parents' objecjections to your concentrating so hard on this boy. I don't think it is likely it is the boy himself they have any objection to. They probably think—and so do I—that it is unwise for you, at your age, to devote yourself so exclusively to one young man. Also, they probably just think you're going out too much and that you ought to have more time for rest.

I don't see any reason why you should have to stop seeing this boy but I do suggest that you work out some sort of compromise by which you do not see him quite so often.

Board Seeks More State Funds For County's Needy

Gov. William Preston Lane, has been asked by the Allegany County Commissioners, by resolution, to instruct the General Public Assistance Commission to review the entire welfare situation in Allegany county, in an effort to obtain additional funds for needy and aged people.

The resolution was introduced by Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, board president and states: "During the past six months it has been called to my attention by a number of persons receiving public assistance, that they cannot prevent hunger, let alone maintain an adequate diet on reduced allotments received from the Welfare Board.

"Since there will be an apparent increase in state tax revenue beyond the need for which the tax was intended, be it resolved that the Allegany County Board of Commissioners petition Gov. Lane to instruct the General Public Assistance Commission to review the entire situation in Allegany county with the hope of increasing its allotment, especially to meet the high cost of living".

"And be it further resolved that, if it requires an act of the Legislature to increase such allotments, that immediate steps be taken to present a bill at the emergency session of the State Legislature for passage. And be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to the delegates of Allegany county to the State Legislature".

Commissioner Wilkinson said last night, in commenting on the resolution to Gov. Lane, "the state is realizing more funds than expected from its sales tax and I believe some of it should come back to this county to relieve this situation. I also feel that some of these funds should be definitely ear-marked for new school construction.

Smith Given

Citing the law, he pleaded, "no where in this case has there been shown that there was willful, deliberate, hardly . . . premeditated, no."

As the defendant's attorneys, Getty said he and Kelley had talked with Smith on several occasions and had visited the scene of the shooting. They had made every effort to break down the facts as authorities had presented them, but had been unable to do so.

"We find ourselves in a position where we cannot believe our client's story of accidental shooting. But I sincerely believe he remembers these incidents as he tells them. I honestly believe, your honors, that he remembers it that way."

The Court can readily find Smith guilty of murder, Getty continued, but as to the degree, there is a strong question in his favor. "A man who has committed a crime must be punished for what he has done, not what he says he has done or what he remembers. In this case, we conscientiously and sincerely believe Smith is guilty of no more than second degree murder."

Kelley Reviews Background

Kelley reviewed, in his plea, the background of the defendant. "He has worked hard all his lifetime. He has borne a cross of his own. He worked for Smith, his father-in-law for half of what he had been promised. There must have been some feeling there.

"Smith has periods in his life when his memory has failed him completely. We believe he remembers this incident as he tells it, and have used every means at our command to convince him that he is faced with a series of physical facts that we cannot overcome. He doesn't know his own age, and sometime in his life seems to have lost 10 years. He doesn't know if he is 42 or 50 or 52."

Kelley argued that the law provides specifically first degree murder must be "deliberate", "willful" and "premeditated." "There is no lying in wait here, no sending of poison, no planned elaborate means of killing. But there is a killing that happened suddenly during a quarrel. We believe the state has failed to prove its charge of first degree murder."

He pleaded for the consideration of the Court and asked that all circumstances be weighed carefully and and that Smith's crime be fixed at "not more than second degree murder."

State A Little Puzzled

Paul M. Fletcher, assistant state's attorney told the Court that the state is a little puzzled and surprised. "Here we have the attorneys for a defendant failing to believe their client's story of accidental killing," he declared.

"The state expected a plea of self defense and is prepared to argue against such a plea, but since the defendant is claiming accidental shooting, and his attorneys are practically pleading second degree murder, I would like to clear up some facts."

Fletcher produced the empty shotgun shells which had previously been placed in evidence, and claimed the reloading of the gun after the first shot was fired constituted "willful, deliberate and premeditated murder." He read from law books and a large sheaf of notes, in an effort to show first degree murder had been committed.

Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney, made a brief closing plea, asking the Court for a first degree murder verdict, saying the facts as presented, and the defendant's statement taken after the crime, speak for themselves. He termed Smith's testimony "ridiculous" and his counsels' stand "unusual."

Tried Before Full Bench

The case was tried before the Court with Chief Judge William A. Huster, Associate Judge George Henderson and Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, Hagerstown, on the Bench.

The judges retired to their chambers and deliberated about 15 minutes before returning to the bench.

Chief Judge Huster said the Court had considered all the circumstances and had agreed on a verdict of "guilty of murder in the second degree."

Smith was asked if he had any statement to make before sentence was passed. He started to speak, "I see a lot of young people in the Court room." Kelley stopped him saying, "you can talk about the case if you want too." Smith shook his head, and then Kelley again addressed the Court.

The attorney reminded the Court that Smith had no previous record and bore the reputation of being a good and steady worker. "He has been a model prisoner while in the county jail," Kelley said, and quoted Sheriff Edward R. Muir as saying the man caused no trouble and did his full share of work required of prisoners. Kelley said, "Smith has already suffered a great deal, and we hope the Court will make his sentence as light as possible, so that he can pay his debt and again find a useful place in society."

Judge Huster then sentenced Smith to serve 15 years in the Maryland Penitentiary saying, "the Court has considered the defendant's good record and his reputation as a good citizen until this unfortunate thing happened."

Maximum penalty for second degree murder is 18 years imprisonment, attorneys said.

Awards To Be Made In Moorefield

By KATHERINE FISHER

MOOREFIELD—The annual 4-H Achievement Banquet will be held Friday night in the Moorefield Methodist Church basement beginning at 6 p. m. The banquet is for all 4-H club members who have completed a project during the year.

The ladies of the Methodist Church circles will serve the banquet.

A Halloween Costume Square Dance will be held Thursday night, October 30 at Camp Pinacle for all members of 4-H clubs, former members and the parents and friends of Four-H'ers.

The masquerade dance will start at 8 o'clock and the admission will be free. Mrs. Alice Goodell Lively, County Home Demonstration Agent, announced that the Cleaver Band will furnish the music.

Bass Club Elects

Miss Mary Lou Kuykendall was named president of the Bass 4-H Club at the annual election of officers Wednesday night at the Bass School. Lola Wolf was elected vice-president, Doris Smith, secretary, Raymond L. Hines, Jr., treasurer and Juanita Kuykendall, reporter and song leader.

Lions Hear Reports

Miss Ruth Kessel, Hardy County Health Nurse, reported to the Moorefield Lions Club on her procedure in recommending glasses for children needing sight correction. For the past 10 years the Moorefield Lions Club has purchased an average of 15 pair of glasses annually for needy children. Miss Kessel investigates these children through screening tests made at the schools. If the family is able to purchase glasses or if the family qualifies under the Department Public Assistance the glasses are purchased through those channels. Otherwise Miss Kessel recommends to the Lions committee these needy cases.

Dr. V. L. Dyer, Petersburg physician, has been handling all the cases for the Lions Club without charge during this period. Miss Kessel recommends the purchase of 10 pairs of glasses currently.

Chester B. Hiett announced that the Lions had distributed courtesy traffic tickets to the town police to issue to tourists stopping in Moorefield. Advertising brochures will also be distributed in town.

Ralph J. Bean, chairman of the Riverside Park Recreation Council, announced that the children's park finished the year with a small surplus.

The local club will cooperate with the International Association of Lions Clubs in contributing towards the expenses of sending the famous Parkersburg High School Band to New York next summer to the International Convention of Lions, to advertise West Virginia.

W. D. Wenzel reported that the plans for the Lions Halloween Street Parade to be held Friday night October 31 were complete and that $100 in prize money had been donated by Moorefield business firms and professional men.

B. A. Smith, member of the Lions now residing in Lake Lynn, was elected an honorary life member of the Moorefield club.

Charged with disturbing the peace by alleged indecent exposure, Elmer F. Powell, 26, 220 Grand Avenue, yesterday was released on $25 bond for a hearing in Police Court Thursday morning.

Authorities said they received a complaint from a Cumberland woman, that the man had exposed himself before her in an indecent manner on Brown Avenue yesterday morning about 9 o'clock.

She told authorities that Powell drove a truck past her then parked along the road and walked into a wooded area. After she passed, she declared, she heard him making a noise and upon looking around saw him standing in the road.

Bavarian Family Asks American Aid

A family of four, living in Coburg, Bavaria, has appealed to Cumberland residents for "care-parcels" presumably of food or clothing in a letter which Mayor Thomas S. Post received Monday.

The letter, addressed to "Burgermeister Der Stadt, Cumberland," was written in both German and English and came from the family of Aline Ritter.

Appealing for the address of "an American well-minded toward us Germans, who is willing to help to alleviate the great need of a family of four persons," the letter said "I presume that circumstances here in Germany are sufficiently known there. Only our American friends can help us to get through these bad times."

A second letter, typewritten in English, was received at City Hall yesterday from Adolf Dahlmanns in Kreis Kusel, Germany, asking that his address be given to some person willing "to send a packet on a poor family in Germany, than we are in the greatest distressed condition and we are so very hungry."

WRITES MR. ROBERT JORDAN, COLON, MICH.

Advises every sufferer from Rheumatic—Arthritic—Sciatic—Neuritic Pains to try Muscle-Rub.

Here's the true story of a man who took treatments, used all kind of remedies for his sciatic, neuritic pains without being helped in the slightest degree. Mr. Robert Jordan of Colon, Mich., suffered agony from pains in his hip—knee—calf of legs. The pain at times was so bad that he couldn't sit down. He tried several different treatments, many different medicines, all of which did him no good. He couldn't work. Life was misery for him.

Then one day he saw an advertisement of Muscle-Rub—the doctor's prescription—and in desperation bought a bottle. He used it as directed and in 3 days the pains were relieved and Mr Jordan was back on the job.

No wonder he advises every rheumatic sufferer to try Muscle-Rub for fast pain relief. Get a bottle today at

Bavarian Family Asks American Aid

A family of four, living in Coburg, Bavaria, has appealed to Cumberland residents for "care-parcels" presumably of food or clothing in a letter which Mayor Thomas S. Post received Monday.

The letter, addressed to "Burgermeister Der Stadt, Cumberland," was written in both German and English and came from the family of Aline Ritter.

Appealing for the address of "an American well-minded toward us Germans, who is willing to help to alleviate the great need of a family of four persons," the letter said "I presume that circumstances here in Germany are sufficiently known there. Only our American friends can help us to get through these bad times."

RAY EVANS, one of the best backs in Kansas history, ran and passed the Jayhawkers to a 13-13 tie with the Oklahoma Sooners in their important Big Six conference game. Evans saved the ball game as he intercepted an Oklahoma pass over the goal line as the gun went off in the final quarter.

PERRY MOSS, quarterback for the University of Illinois grid forces, whip-armed the beefy Minnesota Gophers into submission with an unusual display of passing accuracy. Moss completed seven out of seven, two or his tosses going for touchdowns, and scored one T.D. himself as Illinois won, 40-13.

GEORGE TALIAFERRO, star Negro halfback of the Indiana U. team, scored two touchdowns and on several aerial thrusts to lead the Hoosiers to a 41-6 victory over Pittsburgh.

ART MURAKOWSKI, slashing Northwestern back, was the individual star of the Northwestern - Michigan game although he scored one T. D. himself the Wildcats fell before the Wolverines, 49-21. Murakowski scored three times.

CHARLIE CONERLY, University of Mississippi halfback, heaved three touchdown passes and scored one T.D. himself to lead the Ole Miss eleven to a 27-14 verdict over Tulane's Green Wave.

FRIDAY GAMES
Bruce at Central
Beall at Barton

Beall High School of Frostburg moved within one game of clinching the championship of the Western Interscholastic Soccer League yesterday when it defeated Flintstone High School in Frostburg by the score of 6 to 0.

A victory over Barton at Barton on Friday would give Coach Ed Finzel's booters county honors for the fifth time. A Barton triumph however, would give Bruce an opportunity to tie Beall for the league leadership.

In yesterday's game Bill Farrady and Jack Williams kicked field goals in the first period, Farrady missed a penalty shot and Bob Witt scored from the field in the second stanza and Bill Adams, Farrady and Earl Gracie booted field goals in the third stanza. Beall's second string team played the entire fourth quarter.

Catherman and Hawkins, fullbacks; Fram and Williams, halfbacks, and Gracie on the forward line played best for Beall while Chambers, Rexroad and Barnes were Flintstone's outstanding players.

Bruce Beats Barton

Bruce High took the measure of Barton at Westernport by the score of 4 to 0. Ervin "Junior" Hanna accounted for two of the winners' four field goals.

Hanna's first goal gave Bruce a 1-0 lead in the second period. The Bruce substitute forward took Joe Davisson's pass and kicked another goal in the third period. Russell Fitzgerald headed through the third marker after "Tucker" Cain had centered the ball and Joe Davisson passed to Jimmie Broadwater who hammered through the final Bruce marker.

Warnick played a nice game at goal for Barton while Lamberson starred in the halfback line. Bruce High's entire backfield played a nice article of ball.

Announcement was made yesterday that Beall High, Allegany county's Class "A" representative, will meet Frederick in an intra-district game November 7 at Hancock.

The Central-Bruce game Friday in Lonaconing will likely decided Allegany County's Class "C" representative for state games.

Will Clash Thursday

Barton and Flintstone will clash tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. on Frostburg State Teachers' College Field for the right to represent Allegany county in the Class "D" tournament.

Mississippi Star Tops Individuals In Total Offense

Conerly Amasses 728 Yards In Five Games

By GAIL FOWLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—(AP)—Ex-Marine Charlie Conerly seems to have the situation well in hand at Mississippi, where he's sparked Old Miss from a miserable eleventh in Southeastern Conference play last year to a contending No. 2 spot this year.

Statistics from the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau showed today the 183-pound Clarksdale, Miss., siege gun had forged to the top as the nation's leading gridiron performer in forward passing and in total offense—gains from both rushing and passing.

He carried the ball 52 times in five games for 204 yards, and accounted for 524 aerial yards with 55 completions in 107 attempts for a total offense figure of 728 yards.

Besides which, he's punted 27 times for a 42.3 yard average, which makes him the week's top statistical triple-threat, somewhat of a rarity in these days of pigskin specialists.

In total offense rankings, Conerly zoomed past Bobby Gage of Clemson who led the nation through the first four games of the season. Gage was idle last week, but goes Thursday against South Carolina.

Injuries and a Colorado defense sidetracked two of last week's leaders. Jimmy Nutter of Wichita, erstwhile rushing leader, was out with injuries last weekend and dropped to fourth place in the rushing department behind Wilton Davis and Hardin-Simmons and Harry Szulborski of Purdue.

Conerly also led the nation in touchdown tosses, firing eight six-pointers. Al Dimarco of Iowa and John Caputo of Utah State have thrown seven scoring shots apiece.

"Passingest" pitcher of the week is Norm Van Brocklin of Oregon, who has let fly with 111 passes, his 48 completions accounted for the nation's high of 647 yards via the airlanes.

Most effective flingers currently are Dick Working of Washington and Lee, with only one interception in 64 tosses, 36 of which were completed; and Perry Moss of Illinois, who completed 32 of 49, also with only one interception.

Rider Is Injured In Jumping Race

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 21 (AP)—Jockey C. H. Williams was injured when his mount, Hemlock, fell in the jumping race at Laurel today.

Hemlock was leading the field when he veered sharply and ran head-on into the wing of the fourth jump. Williams, a resident of Baltimore, was thrown from the horse and was unconscious when picked up.

The track surgeon who examined him said he suffered a possible fracture of the pelvis and concussion. He was taken to Prince Georges Hospital, Cheverly, Md.

Hemlock, owned by Mrs. Corliss Sullivan, apparently was uninjured.

Sports Writers Vote Michigan As No. 1 Eleven

147 Out Of 186 Pick Wolverines First

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — Although they can't prove a thing, for the simple reason that the two teams don't face each other this season, many of the nation's sports writers expressed confidence today that Michigan would whip Notre Dame if the two should square off on a football field.

By an overwhelming majority, a cross section of the voting in the weekly poll of the Associated Press selected Fritz Crisler's mighty Wolverines as the top team of the land and assigned second place to the unbeaten Irish for the second straight time.

Of the 186 writers who participated in the most extensive voting in the history of the poll, 147 of the named Michigan first on their ballots.

On the usual basis of ten points for a first-place vote, nine for second, and so on, Michigan wound up with a total of 1,790 points.

Notre Dame received 21 first-place votes, two less than a week ago, but gathered a flock of second-place ballots and held firmly to second place with a point total of 1,553.

Texas, which defeated Arkansas 21-6, for its fifth win in five starts, was placed first on ten ballots and remained in third place with 1,351 points, while California, which kept up a similar place with an identical triumph over Washington State, remained in fourth place with 969 points although the Bears got only one first-place vote.

Illinois, sixth last week, moved into fifth place after its 40-13 win over previously unbeaten Minnesota and Army moved up a notch to sixth place on the strength of its 40-0 showing against Virginia Tech.

Despite a 27-7 triumph over Auburn which kept their all-victorious record alive, Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets slumped from fifth to seventh place, five points behind Army.

Pennsylvania, 34-14 winner over Columbia, and Penn State, which crushed Syracuse 40-0, retained their eighth and ninth positions, respectively.

The only newcomer to the top ten was Southern California, which moved from 11th to tenth place by virtue of its 48-6 rout of Oregon State, replacing Vanderbilt, knocked out of the unbeaten ranks by Kentucky.

Carnival Will Raise Funds For Bleachers

Raymond Sindy is the general chairman of the carnival.

Entertainment scheduled for the carnival will be a cake walk, fortune tellers, fish ponds, and magicians.

A queen will be elected from the high school girls and music will be played by the high school band.

Mrs. Josephine Mackey Wins Golf Tournament

Mrs. Josephine Mackey won the odd hole golf tournament staged yesterday at the Cumberland Country Club by the women's golf association. Twenty-six members participated.

The nine-hole putting contest was won by Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie with 12 putts.

Will Clash Nov. 10

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 21—(AP)—Charley Fusari, Irvington, N. J., knockout artist, has been signed to meet Sammy Adragna, Carnegie, Pa., welterweight, in a 10-rounder which will feature the Rooney-McGinley Boxing Club's indoor show here November 10.

Amvets Will Drill

The Cumberland Amvets basketball team will hold its first practice session tonight at 7 o'clock at the Central YMCA. The team plans to play 30 games. Teams desiring games with the Amvets are requested to write Robert "Ace" Baker, Amvets' Home.

High School Day Designated Friday By Potomac State

Student Rates Reduced For Salem-Cats' Game

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 21—The Potomac State Catamounts will be playing at home again this week when they meet the Salem College Tigers on Stayman Field Friday afternoon. The Cats will be gunning for their fifth straight win since they tied West Liberty in the opener.

By permission of President Church, Friday has been designated as High School Day. Area students will get a chance to see the Catamounts in action at reduced rates.

Coach Dana G. Lough stated yesterday that he was anything but pleased with the performance his charges gave against the Davis and Elkins Senators Saturday. He asserted that with the exception of tackle Bill Stultz the line did not play up to par.

From Saturday's results, however, the Cat mentor has every reason for disappointment. The Staters held the D. and E. backs to an insignificant net of 62 yards while piling up 17 first downs to five, good for 228 total yards. However, what gave early indications of becoming a complete rout was concluded with an unconvincing 7-0 edge for Potomac State.

Lough was pleased with the performance given by pile-driving Charles Ruyak and Halfback Brooks Harris who broke away for several nice gains. Harris, nevertheless, had to be used sparingly due to previous shoulder injuries suffered early in the season.

The Cats will be in good physical condition again this week. Halfback "Chick" Henderson who suffered a badly sprained ankle Saturday was the only casualty. Returning to action will be backs Tom Ritter and Bob Sauders who were injured in the Shepherd tilt.

Announcement was also made that Bill McProuty and Lou Bonato, top-notch backs, probably will not return to action until the Glenville contest following the Salem game.

McProuty is scheduled for an X-ray Thursday to determine whether the broken bone in his foot has healed properly. If the bone has knit, there is a possibility that he will see duty against Salem Friday.

State Game Commission To Hear LMS Proposals

Resolutions Concern Allegany County

A public hearing on five resolutions proposed by the League of Maryland Sportsmen, Inc., including two of particular interest to Allegany county sportsmen, will be conducted by The Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission on Monday, November 3, at 7:30 p. m. at the club house of the Tri-State Sportsmen's Club, Inc., four miles from Salisbury, Md.

Announcement of the meeting for the purpose of discussing the recommendations and proposed regulations is made by Harold Smith Kolmer, secretary of the state game commission.

Resolutions submitted by the league are:

1. Urging postponement of the expenditure of approximately $45,000 on trout and bass rearing ponds on Bottle Run, Allegany County, until the Beaver Creek Hatchery in Washington county is completed.

2. Urging the addition of white perch to the list of species now legally caught from Feb. 15 to Nov. 30, in non-tidal waters.

3. Opening of Evitt's Creek in Allegany County from Route 40 to the Potomac River to fishing for species other than trout during the regular open season for such species.

4. Exempt resident dealers in Washington County from the Game and Inland Fish Commission regulation limiting the number of live fish bait or bait fish any person may have in his possession.

5. Provides for the appointment of a committee to consult with the Game and Fish Commission to modify laws governing the taking of fish in the Baltimore City reservoirs.

The Tri-State Sportsmen's Club, Inc., of Salisbury, will offer two proposals, the first advancing the opening date on bass to June 1 instead of July on the Eastern Shore, and second, permit the use of pistols loaded with blank cartridges in running bird dogs on upland game birds only, statewide.

On Tuesday, November 4, at 9 a. m., the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission will hold its quarterly meeting in Salisbury, Md. Commissioners are Garner Wood Denmead, chairman; James H. Gambrill, Jr., vice-chairman; Fulcher P. Smith, A. Gordon Fleet and J. D. Longfellow.

BARTON BALL TEAM WILL MEET OCT. 31 TO PLAN FOR 1948

That disastrous 1947 season apparently didn't put the Barton Braves baseball team of the Bi-State League down for keeps.

The Braves will hold a business meeting at the home of Barton Post No. 189, American Legion, Friday, October 31, at which time plans will be made to finance the team for the 1948 season.

New uniforms will be purchased and a representative of a local company will present samples at the meeting. Jack Bradley will preside.

Pitt's Faculty Group Will Hear Student Demands

Football Beatings Result Of Outburst

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 21 (AP) — The University of Pittsburgh's faculty committee on athletics today agreed to hear a demand from students that Pitt's football "suicide schedules" be scrapped or the manpower provided to meet them.

Dr. R. E. Sherrill, chairman of the committee, said the meeting will be scheduled for a future date at a meeting of the faculty group tomorrow.

This decision was the first result of a student congress demand last week for a review of the skyscraper school's entire athletic program. The Congress appointed a six-member committee to investigate the policy after Pitt endured a 69-0 thumping from Michigan, one of six "Big Nine" foes on the win-less Panthers' schedule this season.

The Panthers also have lost this year to Notre Dame, Illinois, and Indiana and have suffered 24 straight reverses from "Big Nine" opponents since Pitt embarked on a simon-pure program for football back in 1938.

No Pitt official would comment on the student outburst which followed the Michigan game and gained steam after Indiana rolled over Pitt, 41-6, last Saturday.

"We've got to decide on some sort of remunerative system for the various athletic teams, or get out of the big league", said Robert Dickey, congress delegate, at the student group's first meeting.

The student committee in a statement today exonerated Coach Walter (Mike) Milligan from blame for the once-potent Panthers' sorry showing this season.

Boy To Represent "Babe" At Funeral

Services For Brother Gilbert Set For Today

DANVERS, Mass., Oct. 21 (INS)—A small boy will represent Babe Ruth tomorrow morning at the funeral of the man credited with starting the Babe on his way to fame, the late Rev. Brother Gilbert.

Ten-year-old Frankie Haggerty, of Danvers, wrote The Babe that he would be glad to attend the services for Brother Gilbert if Ruth was not well enough to get there himself.

Brother Gilbert died Sunday in Lowell, Mass., at the Keith Academy. He taught Ruth when the home run king-to-be was at St. Mary's Industrial School, in Catonsville, Md.

The freckle-faced Haggerty boy, an ardent baseball fan, said Ruth telegraphed him in reply to his offer:

"Dear Frank:

"Thank you very much for your letter and I will be most grateful to you if you would represent me at Brother Gilbert's funeral tomorrow.

"I am unable to go but shall feel I am there in spirit through your gracious gesture to go in my place. Brother Gilbert was a wonderful man and every boy's friend. We have all lost a very good friend. God bless you."

Stenhouse Wins 23rd

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 21—(AP)—Tommy Stenhouse, 132, Buffalo, scored a technical knockout over Dominic Amoroso, 135, Jersey City, in 1:34 of the fifth, when Amoroso, who had a severe cut over his left eye, was taking a beating on the ropes.

It was the 23rd victory in 24 pro starts for the 21-year-old Stenhouse.

MEET THE COACH

By JACK SORDS

DEAN of Pacific Coast Conference coaches in length of service at one school, A. L. (Lon) Stiner, head coach at Oregon State, is now in his 15th season as mentor of the Beavers.

When Stiner stepped in at Oregon State in 1933 football at the Corvallis, Ore., school was at a low ebb. In his first year there Stiner came up with an "iron man" eleven, capping his campaign by beating a formidable Fordham team, 9-6, Pacific Coast Conference title and played in the Rams' Bowl game.

His 1941 team won the Pacific Coast conference title and then played Duke in the Rose Bowl game which was transferred to Durham, N. C., because of the war. Oregon State won that Bowl game, 20-16.

Last season Stiner's Beavers won seven games and lost only one to finish second behind U.C.L.A.

Stiner is a native of Hastings, Neb., and played high school football there. He went to Lombard college at Galesburg, Ill., and starred on the team there. He moved to the University of Nebraska in his junior year and played on the varsity there for two years. He was an All-American tackle and also captained the Huskers.

He launched his coaching career at Colorado and moved to Oregon State in 1928 as assistant.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — Midweek mumblings:

Maybe everyone is a little too optimistic in predicting the Americans will win in a breeze over the British Ryder Cup team in the match at Portland, Ore., Nov. 1 and 2. In fact, comes a breeze and the Britons might win, as they're used to the howl of a gale. Anyway, two of the Britons, Henry Cotton and Dai Rees, played on their 1937 team, and both won their singles matches. Rees defeated Byron Nelson, 3 and 1, and Cotton drubbed Tony Manero, 5 and 3. We'll still string along with our side, however.

The east is doing a little public moaning over Wisconsin's 9 to 0 victory over the Yale football team, and even is cussingly admitting that maybe Big Nine football on the whole is a little tougher than the variety played in this section. Always excepting Army, of course, which is an assembly job of players from all over the country. The argument is that Wisconsin is rated strictly second string in the Big Nine this year, and that Yale is near the top in the east. We saw Yale whip Columbia, and the Eli's aren't bad, at that. Purdue's 62-7 larruping of Boston U. didn't help the eastern argument either.

Like the fellow who had to die before anyone would believe he was sick, it looks like Notre Dame is going to have to lose a game before folks will believe they're really trying. The South Benders have been winning by comfortable margins, but because they aren't rolling up serial-number scores the impression is Frank Leahy is purposely sitting on his team to hold it down. We'll admit we have that impression ourselves and think Notre Dame is just sprinkling a few drops of water on its powder and saving the whole barrel to dump on Army. But, as mentioned, maybe everyone's wrong and the Ramblers are doing their best in every game. If they lose, we'll believe it.

An odd detail of the current football picture is that, with comparatively few exceptions, the leading teams do not have one or two stars whose fame almost overshadows that of the team as a whole. Notre Dame still has its famed Johnny Lujack, Texas its Bobby Layne and North Carolina its Charley Justice. But quick now, can you name any individual Michigan standouts? or California? or Army? Illinois' Perry Moss gets more than average attention, but nothing like Red Grange got, or Tom Harmon of Michigan, or Glen Davis, Doc Blanchard and Arnold Tucker of Army last year. It's as though the better teams now play their games as units, not as a star or two surrounded by little candles. Maybe it's the platoon system.

Speaking of Michigan, the Wolverines are going to have to pep up if they hope to be a point-a-minute team. They're 18 points behind schedule, having scored 222 points in 240 minutes. The difference between college and pro football seems to be that in college games, as a rule, one team does most of the scoring, while in pro games both teams do a lot of counting, as witness the 31-28 victory of the Cleveland Browns over the Chicago Rockets and the 33-24 triumph of the Chicago Bears over the Detroit Lions.

Hank Greenberg, if the operation on his arm is successful, hopes to play one more year of baseball. We don't think the big guy would have much trouble finding a team. He hit 25 home runs with a lame wing this year, and admits "that's poor for me." We'd like to see him play again, and can think of about a dozen teams which could use him. And not $80,0000 worth, but his appeal would rate a higher than average paycheck.

BLLE BOLTS BATTLE BEDFORD ON SUNDAY

The site for the game is indefinite but will be announced within a day or so, according to Coach "Buck" Shober.

Bedford won the opening game on its home field by the score of 25-0.

Senior Circuit Is Awarded Six Of Ten Places

Dodgers And Cards Fail To Place Man

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — Six National League players and four American leaguers make up the 1947 major league all-star team as selected for the Associated Press by 233 baseball writers throughout the nation.

Strangely enough, the world champion New York Yankees show only one representative while the Brooklyn Dodgers, National League pennant winners, did not place a single man. Neither did the St. Louis Cardinals nor the Detroit Tigers who finished second in their respective leagues.

The New York Giants, Cleveland Indians and Boston Braves, neither of whom finished better than third, placed two men apiece. One representative from the Yankees, one from the Boston Red Sox, one from the Cincinnati Reds and another from the Pittsburgh Pirates completed the team. Last year the American League dominated with seven representatives as compared to three for the National.

Only one member of the 1946 team, the first ever selected for the Associated Press, repeated in 1947. He was Ted Williams, the slugging outfielder of the Red Sox who led the American League in batting, home runs, runs batted in, runs scored, extra base hits, total bases and bases on balls.

Ted Draws Most Support

No player was an unanimous choice. Williams, the American League's triple crown king, drew the most support from the scribes, being named 209 of the 233 ballots cast. Joe DiMaggio, the Yankees' great centerfield, ranked close behind with 207 votes.

Johnny Mize of the Giants, who tied Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh for the home run title of the major league with 51 round trippers, gathered the third highest total of votes, 191—189 of them for first base, to which that position handily. His other two votes were for the outfield.

Kiner, the hard-hitting sophomore flychaser, received 137 votes to join Williams and DiMaggio in hitting up one of the hardest hitting outfields ever selected by anyone.

Lou Boudreau, playing manager of the Indians, currently mentioned in assorted trades involving nearly every team in the American League, ranked fourth in vote getting with 177 for shortstop. Walker Cooper, the Giants' hard hitting catcher, who made a fine comeback following a disappointing 1946 season, paced the receivers with 141 votes. Another comeback kid, Joe Gordon, whom the Indians acquired from the Yankees in a pre-season trade for pitcher Allie Reynolds, topped the second basemen with 129 votes.

The smallest number required by any winner went to Bob Elliott of the Braves, whose 99 votes were enough to win him third base honors from Eddie Kazak, the Cardinals' 177 and George Kell of the Detroit Tigers.

Blackwell Tops Pitchers

Ewell Blackwell, lanky no-hit hurler of the Reds, dominated the pitchers. The majors' biggest winner polled 158 votes to only 55 for Cleveland's Bob Feller to win the number one berth among the righthanded pitchers. Warren Spahn, the Braves' 21-game winner, gained the southpaw honors by polling 115 votes to 61 for Joe Page.

Page, the ace relief artist, who was the hero of the Yankees' seventh win over the Dodgers in the world series, surprised by getting more votes than all the other southpaw hurlers named combined. The list included Hal Newhouser, Tigers; Harry Brecheen, Cards; Ed Lopat, Chicago White Sox; Vic Lombardi and Joe Hatten, Dodgers; Johnny Vander Meer, Reds and Dave Koslo, Giants.

The all-star team:

Outfielders — Ted Williams, Red Sox; Joe DiMaggio Yankees; and Ralph Kiner, Pirates.
First base—Johnny Mize, Giants.
Second base—Joe Gordon, Indians.
Third base—Bob Elliott, Braves.
Shortstop—Lou Boudreau, Indians.
Catcher—Walker Cooper, Giants.
Pitchers—Ewell Blackwell, Reds (R) and Warren Spahn, Braves (L).

RAY EVANS, one of the best backs in Kansas history, ran and passed the Jayhawkers to a 13-13 tie with the Oklahoma Sooners in their important Big Six conference game. Evans saved the ball game as he intercepted an Oklahoma pass over the goal line as the gun went off in the final quarter.

PERRY MOSS, quarterback for the University of Illinois grid forces, whip-armed the beefy Minnesota Gophers into submission with an unusual display of passing accuracy. Moss completed seven out of seven, two or his tosses going for touchdowns, and scored one T.D. himself as Illinois won, 40-13.

GEORGE TALIAFERRO, star Negro halfback of the Indiana U. team, scored two touchdowns and connected on several aerial thrusts to lead the Hoosiers to a 41-6 victory over Pittsburgh.

ART MURAKOWSKI, slashing Northwestern back, was the individual star of the Northwestern - Michigan game although the Wildcats fell before the Wolverines, 49-21. Murakowski scored three times.

CHARLIE CONERLY, University of Mississippi halfback, heaved three touchdown passes and scored one T. D. himself to lead the Ole Miss eleven to a 27-14 verdict over Tulane's Green Wave.

Mississippi Star Tops Individuals In Total Offense

Conerly Amasses 728 Yards In Five Games

By GAIL FOWLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—(AP)—Ex-Marine Charlie Conerly seems to have the situation well in hand at Mississippi, where he's sparked Old Miss from a miserable eleventh in Southeastern Conference play last year to a contending No. 2 spot this year.

Statistics from the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau showed today the 183-pound Clarksdale, Miss., siege gun had forged to the top as the nation's leading gridiron performer in forward passing and in total offense—gains from both rushing and passing.

He carried the ball 52 times in five games for 204 yards, and accounted for 524 aerial yards with 55 completions in 107 attempts for a total offense figure of 728 yards.

Besides which, he's punted 27 times for a 42.3 yard average, which makes him the week's top statistical triple-threat, somewhat of a rarity in these days of pigskin specialists.

In total offense rankings, Conerly zoomed past Bobby Gage of Clemson, who led the nation through the first four games of the season. Gage was idle last week, but goes Thursday against South Carolina.

Injuries and a tough Colorado defense sidetracked two of last week's leaders. Jimmy Nutter of Wichita, erstwhile rushing leader, was out with injuries last weekend and dropped to fourth place in the rankings behind Wilton Davis and Hardin-Simmons and Harry Szulborski of Purdue.

Conerly also led the nation in touchdown tosses, firing eight six-pointers. Al Dimarco of Iowa and John Caputo of Utah State have thrown seven scoring shots apiece.

"Passingest" pitcher of the week is Norm Van Brocklin of Oregon, who has let fly with 111 passes, his 48 completions accounted for the nation's high of 647 yards via the airlanes.

Most effective flingers currently are Dick Working of Washington and Lee, with only one interception in 64 tosses, 36 of which were completed; and Perry Moss of Illinois, who completed 32 of 49, also with only one interception.

Rider Is Injured In Jumping Race

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 21 (AP)—Jockey C. H. Williams was injured when his mount, Hemlock, fell in the jumping race at Laurel today.

Hemlock was leading the field when he veered sharply and ran head-on into the wing of the fourth jump. Williams, a resident of Baltimore, was thrown from the horse and was unconscious when picked up.

The track surgeon who examined him said he suffered a possible fracture of the pelvis and concussion. He was taken to Prince Georges Hospital, Cheverly, Md.

Hemlock, owned by Mrs. Corliss Sullivan, apparently was uninjured.

Sports Writers Vote Michigan As No. 1 Eleven

147 Out Of 186 Pick Wolverines First

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — Although they can't prove a thing, for the simple reason that the two teams don't face each other this season, many of the nation's sports writers expressed confidence today that Michigan would whip Notre Dame if the two should square off on a football field.

By an overwhelming majority, a cross section of the voting in the weekly poll of the Associated Press selected Fritz Crisler's mighty Wolverines as the top team in the land and assigned second place to the unbeaten Irish for the second straight time.

Of the 186 writers who participated in the most extensive voting in the history of the poll, 147 of the named Michigan first on their ballots.

On the usual basis of ten points for a first-place vote, nine for second, and so on, Michigan wound up with a total of 1,790 points.

Notre Dame received 21 first-place votes, two less than a week ago, but gathered a flock of second-place ballots and held firmly to second place with a point total of 1,553.

Texas, which defeated Arkansas 21-6, for its fifth win in five starts, was placed first on ten ballots and remained in third place with 1,351 points, while California, which kept up a similar pace with an identical triumph over Washington State, remained in fourth place with 969 points although the Bears got only one first-place vote.

Illinois, sixth last week, moved into fifth place after its 40-13 win over previously unbeaten Minnesota and Army moved up a notch to sixth place on the strength of its 40-0 showing against Virginia Tech.

Despite a 27-7 triumph over Auburn which kept their all-victorious record alive, Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets slumped from fifth to seventh place, five points behind Army.

Pennsylvania, 34-14 winner over Columbia, and Penn State, which crushed Syracuse 40-0, retained their eighth and ninth positions, respectively.

The only newcomer to the top ten was Southern California, which moved from 11th to tenth place by virtue of its 48-6 rout of Oregon State, replacing Vanderbilt, knocked out of the unbeaten ranks by Kentucky.

FRIDAY GAMES
Bruce at Central
Beall at Barton

Beall High School of Frostburg moved within one game of clinching the championship of the Western Interscholastic Soccer League yesterday when it defeated Flintstone High School in Frostburg by the score of 6 to 0.

A victory over Barton at Barton on Friday would give Coach Ed Finzel's booters county honors for the fifth time. A Barton triumph however, would give Bruce an opportunity to tie Beall for the league leadership.

In yesterday's game Bill Farrady and Jack Williams kicked field goals in the first period, Farrady missed a penalty shot and Bob Wilt scored from the field in the second stanza and Bill Adams, Farrady and Earl Gracie booted field goals in the third stanza. Beall's second string team played the entire fourth quarter.

Catherman and Hawkins, fullbacks; Fram and Williams, halfbacks, and Gracie on the forward line played best for Beall while Chambers, Rexroad and Barnes were Flintstone's outstanding players.

Bruce Beats Barton

Bruce High took the measure of Barton at Westernport by the score of 4 to 0. Ervin "Junior" Hanna accounted for two of the winners' four field goals.

Hanna's first goal gave Bruce a 1-0 lead in the second period. The Bruce substitute forward took Joe Davisson's pass and kicked another goal in the third period. Russell Fitzgerald headed through the third marker after "Tucker" Cain had centered the ball and Joe Davisson passed to Jimmie Broadwater who hammered through the final Bruce marker.

Warnick played a nice game at goal for Barton while Lamberson starred in the halfback line. Bruce High's entire backfield played a nice article of ball.

Announcement was made yesterday that Beall High, Allegany county's Class "A" representative, will meet Frederick in an intra-district game November 7 at Hancock.

The Central-Bruce game Friday in Lonaconing will likely decided Allegany County's Class "C" representative for state games.

Student Rates Reduced For Salem-Cats' Game

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 21—The Potomac State Catamounts will be playing at home again this week when they meet the Salem College Tigers on Stayman Field Friday afternoon. The Cats will be gunning for their fifth straight win since they tied West Liberty in the opener.

By permission of President Church, Friday has been designated as High School Day. Area students will get a chance to see the Catamounts in action at reduced rates.

Coach Dana G. Lough stated yesterday that he was anything but pleased with the performance his charges gave against the Davis and Elkins Senators Saturday. He asserted that with the exception of tackle Bill Stultz the line did not play up to par.

From Saturday's results, however, the Cat mentor has every reason for disappointment. The Staters held the D. and E. backs to an insignificant net of 62 yards while piling up 17 first downs to five, good for 228 total yards. However, what gave early indications of becoming a complete rout was concluded with an unconvincing 7-0 edge for Potomac State.

Lough was pleased with the performance given by pile-driving Charles Ruyak and Halfback Brooks Harris who broke away for several nice gains. Harris, nevertheless, had to be used sparingly due to previous shoulder injuries suffered early in the season.

The Cats will be in good physical condition again this week. Halfback "Chick" Henderson who suffered a badly sprained ankle Saturday was the only casualty. Returning to action will be backs Tom Ritter and Bob Sauders who were injured in the Shepherd tilt.

Announcement was also made that Bill McProuty and Lou Bonato, top-notch backs, probably will not return to action until the Glenville contest following the Salem game.

McProuty is scheduled for an X-ray Thursday to determine whether the broken bone in his foot has healed properly. If the bone has knit, there is a possibility that he will see duty against Salem Friday.

The Rocking Chair Softball League will hold a pig roast tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Loyal Order of Moose Home, Beall and Smallwood Street.

State Game Commission To Hear LMS Proposals

Resolutions Concern Allegany County

A public hearing on five resolutions proposed by the League of Maryland Sportsmen, Inc., including two of particular interest to Allegany county sportsmen, will be conducted by The Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission on Monday, November 3, at 7:30 p. m. at the club house of the Tri-State Sportsmen's Club, Inc., four miles from Salisbury, Md.

Announcement of the meeting for the purpose of discussing the recommendations and proposed regulations is made by Harold Smith Kolmer, secretary of the state game commission.

Resolutions submitted by the league are:

1. Urging postponement of the expenditure of approximately $45,000 on trout and bass rearing ponds on Bottle Run, Allegany County, until the Beaver Creek Hatchery in Washington county is completed.

2. Urging the addition of white perch to the list of species now legally caught from Feb. 15 to Nov. 30, in non-tidal waters.

3. Opening of Evitt's Creek in Allegany County from Route 40 to the Potomac River to fishing for species other than trout during the regular open season for such species.

4. Exempt resident dealers in Washington County from the Game and Inland Fish Commission regulation limiting the number of live fish bait or bait fish any person may have in his possession.

5. Provides for the appointment of a committee to consult with the Game and Fish Commission to modify laws governing the taking of fish in the Baltimore City reservoirs.

The Tri-State Sportsmen's Club, Inc., fo Salisbury, will offer two proposals, the first advancing the opening date on bass to June 1 instead of July on the Eastern Shore, and second, permit the use of pistols loaded with blank cartridges in training dogs on upland game birds only, statewide.

On Tuesday, November 4, at 9 a. m., the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission will hold its quarterly meeting in Salisbury, Md. Commissioners are Garner Wood Denmead, chairman; James H. Gambrill, Jr., vice-chairman; Fulcher P. Smith, A. Gordon Fleet and J. D. Longfellow.

MEET THE COACH

By JACK SORDS

DEAN of Pacific Coast Conference coaches in length of service at one school, A. L. (Lon) Stiner, head coach at Oregon State college, is now in his 15th season as mentor of the Beavers.

When Stiner stepped in at Oregon State in 1933 football at the Corvallis, Ore., school was at a low ebb. In his first year there Stiner came up with an "iron man" eleven, capping his campaign by beating a formidable Fordham team, 9-6, ruining the Rams' Bowl bid.

His 1941 team won the Pacific Coast conference title and then played Duke in the Rose Bowl game which was transferred to Durham, N. C., because of the war. Oregon State won that Bowl game, 20-16.

Last season Stiner's Beavers won seven games and lost only one to finish second behind U.C.L.A.

Stiner is a native of Hastings, Neb., and played high school football there. He went to Lombard college at Galesburg, Ill., and starred on the team there. He moved to the University of Nebraska in his junior year and immediately was a standout as a player. He was an All-American tackle and also captained the Huskers.

He launched his coaching career at Colorado and moved to Oregon State in 1928 as assistant.

BARTON BALL TEAM WILL MEET OCT. 31 TO PLAN FOR 1948

That disastrous 1947 season apparently didn't put the Barton Braves baseball team of the Bi-State League down for keeps.

The Braves will hold a business meeting at the home of Barton Post No. 189, American Legion, Friday, October 31, at which time plans will be made to finance the team for the 1948 season.

New uniforms will be purchased and a representative of a local company will present samples at the meeting. Jack Bradley will preside.

Football Beatings Result Of Outburst

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 21 (AP) — The University of Pittsburgh's faculty committee on athletics today agreed to hear a demand from students that Pitt's football "suicide schedules" be scrapped or the manpower provided to meet them.

Dr. R. E. Sherrill, chairman of the committee, said the meeting will be scheduled for a future date at a meeting of the faculty group tomorrow.

This decision was the first result of a student congress demand last week for a review of the skyscraper school's entire athletic program. The Congress appointed a six-member committee to investigate the policy after Pitt endured a 69-0 thumping from Michigan, one of six "Big Nine" foes on the win-less Panthers' schedule this season.

The Panthers also have lost this year to Notre Dame, Illinois, and Indiana and have suffered 24 straight reverses from "Big Nine" opponents since Pitt embarked on a simon-pure program for football back in 1938.

No Pitt official would comment on the student outburst which followed the Michigan game and gained steam after Indiana rolled over Pitt, 41-6, last Saturday.

"We've got to decide on some sort of remunerative system for the various athletic teams, or get out of the big league", said Robert Dickey, congress delegate, at the student group's first meeting.

The student committee in a statement today exonerated Coach Walter (Mike) Milligan from blame for the once-potent Panthers' sorry showing this season.

Boy To Represent "Babe" At Funeral

Services For Brother Gilbert Set For Today

DANVERS, Mass., Oct. 21 (INS)—A small boy will represent Babe Ruth tomorrow morning at the funeral of the man credited with starting the Babe on his way to fame, the late Rev. Brother Gilbert.

Ten-year-old Frankie Haggerty, of Danvers, wrote The Babe that he would be glad to attend the services for Brother Gilbert if Ruth was not well enough to get there himself.

Brother Gilbert died Sunday in Lowell, Mass., at the Keith Academy. He taught Ruth when the home run king-to-be was at St. Mary's Industrial School, in Catonsville, Md.

The freckle-faced Haggerty boy, an ardent baseball fan, said Ruth telegraphed him in reply to his offer:

"Dear Frank:

"Thank you very much for your letter and I will be most grateful to you if you would represent me at Brother Gilbert's funeral tomorrow.

"I am unable to go but shall feel I am there in spirit through your gracious gesture to go in my place. Brother Gilbert was a wonderful man and every boy's friend. We have all lost a very good friend. God bless you."

Stenhouse Wins 23rd

TROY, N. Y., Oct. 21—(AP)—Tommy Stenhouse, 132, Buffalo, scored a technical knockout tonight over Dominic Amoroso, 135, Jersey City, in 1:34 of the fifth, when Amoroso, who had a severe cut over his left eye, was taking a beating on the ropes.

It was the 23rd victory in 24 pro starts for the 21-year-old Stenhouse.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — Mid-week mumblings:

Maybe everyone is a little too optimistic in predicting the Americans will win in a breeze over the British Ryder Cup team in the match at Portland, Ore., Nov. 1 and 2. In fact, comes a breeze and the Britons might win, as they're used to the howl of a gale. Anyway, two of the Britons, Henry Cotton and Dai Rees, played on their 1937 team, and both won their singles matches. Rees defeated Byron Nelson, 3 and 1, and Cotton drubbed Tony Manero, 5 and 3. We'll still string along with our side, however.

The east is doing a little public moaning over Wisconsin's 9 to 0 victory over the Yale football team, and even is cautiously admitting that maybe Big Nine football on the whole is a little tougher than the variety played in this section. Always excepting Army, of course, which is an assembly job of players from all over the country. The argument is that Wisconsin is rated strictly second string in the Big Nine this year, and that Yale is near the top in the east. We saw Yale whip Columbia, and the Eli's aren't bad, at that. Purdue's 62-7 larruping of Boston U. didn't help the eastern argument either.

Like the fellow who had to die before anyone would believe he was sick, it looks like Notre Dame is going to have to lose a game before folks will believe they're really trying. The South Benders have been winning by comfortable margins, but because they aren't rolling up serial-number scores the impression is Frank Leahy practically is sitting on his team to hold it down. We'll admit we have that impression ourselves and think Notre Dame is just sprinkling a few drops of paint now and is saving the whole barrel to dump on Army. But, as mentioned, maybe everyone's wrong and the Ramblers are doing their best in every game. If they lose, we'll believe it.

An odd detail of the current football picture is that, with comparatively few exceptions, the leading teams do not have one or two stars whose fame almost overshadows that of the team as a whole. Notre Dame still has its famed Johnny Lujack, Texas its Bobby Layne and North Carolina its Charley Justice. But quick now, can you name any individual Michigan standouts? or California? or Army? Illinois' Perry Moss gets more than average attention, but nothing like Red Grange got, or Tom Harmon of Michigan, or Glen Davis, Doc Blanchard and Arnold Tucker of Army last year. When you think of the better teams now you think of them as units, not as a star or two surrounded by little candles. Maybe that's as it should be.

Speaking of Michigan, the Wolverines are going to have to pep up if they hope to be a point-a-minute team. They're 18 points behind schedule, having scored 222 points in 240 minutes. The difference between college and pro football seems to be that in college games, as a rule, one team does most of the scoring, and in pro games both teams do a lot of counting, as witness the 31-28 victory of the Cleveland Browns over the Chicago Rockets and the 33-24 triumph of the Chicago Bears over the Detroit Lions.

Hank Greenberg, if the operation on his arm is successful, hopes to play one more year of baseball. We don't think the big guy would have much trouble finding a job. He hit 25 home runs with a lame wing this year,, and admits "that's poor for me." We'd like to see him play again, and can think of about a dozen teams which could use him. Maybe not $80,0000 worth, but his gate appeal would rate a higher than average paycheck.

BLLE BOLTS BATTLE BEDFORD ON SUNDAY

Idle for the past two weeks, the Cumberland Blue Bolts, local independent football team, is busily engaged this week practicing for their return game with the Bedford (Pa.) Blue Devils here on Sunday, October 26, at 2:30 p. m.

The site for the game is indefinite but will be announced within a day or so, according to Coach "Buck" Shober.

Bedford won the opening game on its home field by the score of 25-0.

Senior Circuit Is Awarded Six Of Ten Places

Dodgers And Cards Fail To Place Man

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — Six National League players and four American leaguers make up the 1947 major league all-star team as selected for the Associated Press by 233 baseball writers throughout the nation.

Strangely enough, the world champion New York Yankees show only one representative while the Brooklyn Dodgers, National League pennant winners, did not place a single man. Neither did the St. Louis Cardinals nor the Detroit Tigers who finished second in their respective leagues.

The New York Giants, Cleveland Indians and Boston Braves, neither of whom finished better than third, placed two men apiece. One representative from the Yankees, one from the Boston Red Sox, one from the Cincinnati Reds and another from the Pittsburgh Pirates completed the team. Last year the American League dominated with seven representatives as compared to three for the National.

Only one member of the 1946 team, the first ever selected for the Associated Press, repeated in 1947. He was Ted Williams, the slugging outfielder of the Red Sox who led the American League in batting, home runs, runs batted in, runs scored, extra base hits, total bases and bases on balls.

Ted Draws Most Support

No player was an unanimous choice. Williams, the American League's triple crown king, drew the most support from the scribes, being named 209 of the 233 ballots cast. Joe DiMaggio, the Yankees' great centerfield, ranked close behind Williams with 207 votes.

Johnny Mize of the Giants, who tied Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh for the home run title of the major league with 51 round trippers, gathered the third highest total of votes, 191—189 of them for first base, to win that position handily. His other two votes were for the outfield.

Kiner, the hard-hitting sophomore flychaser, received 137 votes to join Williams and DiMaggio in making up one of the hardest hitting outfields ever selected for one team.

Lou Boudreau, playing manager of the Indians, currently mentioned in assorted trades involving nearly every team in the American League, ranked fourth in vote getting with 177 for shortstop. Walker Cooper, the Giants' hard hitting catcher, who made a fine comeback following a disappointing 1946 season, paced the receivers with 141 votes. Another comeback kid, Joe Gordon, whom the Indians acquired from the Yankees in a pre-season trade for pitcher Allie Reynolds, topped the second basemen with 113 votes.

The smallest number required by any winner went to Bob Elliott of the Braves, whose 99 votes were enough to win him third base in a hotly contested battle with George Kell of the Detroit Tigers.

Blackwell Tops Pitchers

Ewell Blackwell, lanky no-hit hurler of the Reds, dominated the pitchers. The majors' biggest winner polled 158 votes to only 55 for Cleveland's Bob Feller to win the number one berth among the righthanded pitchers. Warren Spahn, the Braves' 21-game winner, gained the number one lefthanded pitching honors by polling 115 votes to 61 for Joe Page.

Page, the ace relief artist, who was the hero of the Yankees' seventh win over the Dodgers in the world series, surprised by getting more votes than all the other southpaw hurlers named combined. The list included Hal Newhouser, Tigers; Harry Brecheen, Cards; Ed Lopat, Chicago White Sox; Vic Lombardi and Joe Hatten, Dodgers; Johnny Vander Meer, Reds and Dave Koslo, Giants.

The all-star team:

Outfielders — Ted Williams, Red Sox; Joe DiMaggio Yankees; and Ralph Kiner, Pirates.

First base—Johnny Mize, Giants.
Second base—Joe Gordon, Indians.
Third base—Bob Elliott, Braves.
Shortstop—Lou Boudreau, Indians.
Catcher—Walker Cooper, Giants.
Pitchers—Ewell Blackwell, Reds (R) and Warren Spahn, Braves (L).

New York Giants Obtain Paul Governali In Trade

Paschal And Connor Are Sent To Boston

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — New York's winless football Giants finally found a friend among their rivals in the National League today when the Boston Yanks came through with a passer in a trade that will help the entire circuit in its box-office battle with the All-America Conference.

The move, designed to strengthen their sagging offense and attendance figures to match, brought Paul Governali, a native New Yorker, to the Giants, who in turn sent Fullback Bill Paschal to the Yanks along with their claim to an All-America tackle, George Connor of Notre Dame.

"We had to do something," said Coach Steve Owen, whose Giants have a record of three losses and one tie in league play this season, "and I think we made a good deal."

Although it wasn't brought out at the news conference in which the trade was announced, the Giants face an increasingly serious box-office threat from the rival New York Yankees, who lead the Eastern Division of the All-America Conference and own such drawing cards as Spec Sanders and Buddy Young.

After playing to sellout crowds of more than 60,000 last season when they won the National League's eastern title, the Giants opened their home schedule last Sunday before 37,144 and bowed to Boston, 14-0, thereby chasing away a lot of prospective future customers.

The Yankees, by comparison, drew 36,777 for their first home game with the Chicago Rockets earlier in the season.

Beginning Nov. 9, New York fans will have one National League game and at least one All-America Conference game from which to choose each Sunday afternoon.

Ironically, it was Governali, an All-America halfback at Columbia in 1942, who engineered the Giants' latest defeat by hurling two touchdown passes for the Boston Yanks last Sunday.

His departure from Boston means that the Yanks will rely chiefly on Frank (Boley) Dancewicz for their passing in the future.

In Paschal's place, the Gliants will alternate two rookies, Gordon Paschka, formerly of Minnesota, and Gene Roberts, erstwhile Chattanooga flash who recently got off the injury list.

TO AID GIANTS—Paul Governali, above, ace passer of the Boston Yanks, was traded to the winless New York Giants of the National Football League yesterday for Fullback Bill Paschal along with a claim to All-America tackle, George Connor of Notre Dame. Governali is a native New Yorker and earned All-America honors while playing as halfback at Columbia University in 1942.

WOMAN RACING FAN SUES, CLAIMING TIP ARRIVED TOO LATE

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 21 (AP) — An Albany woman sued Western Union today for $209.73, claiming late delivery of a telegram containing a tip on a horse that won.

Mrs. Virginia McMenamy, a department store fitter, alleged in a city court action that a Maryland tipster service to which she subscribed wired her to be on "Isolationist" at Washington Park racetrack in Chicago.

She said the telegram was sent at 11:36 a. m. on Aug. 2. The horse won that day and paid $5.80 on the pari-mutuel board, but, according to Mrs. McMenamy, the telegram was delivered after the race had been run.

She claims she had planned to bet $100 "on the nose."

Western Union entered a general denial and asked for a bill of particulars. The case was adjourned until next Tuesday.

According to Mrs. McMenamy's figures, she would have won $190 on the best. To this she added a claim of $19 she said was charged for the information on the race and 73 cents for the telegram.

"We had to do something," said Coach Steve Owen, whose Giants have a record of three losses and one tie in league play this season, "and I think we made a good deal."

Although it wasn't brought out at the news conference in which the trade was announced, the Giants face an increasingly serious box-office threat from the rival New York Yankees, who lead the Eastern Division of the All-America Conference and own such drawing cards as Spec Sanders and Buddy Young.

After playing to sellout crowds of more than 60,000 last season when they won the National League's eastern title, the Giants opened their home schedule last Sunday before 37,144 and bowed to Boston, 14-0, thereby chasing away a lot of prospective future customers.

The Yankees, by comparison, drew 36,777 for their first home game with the Chicago Rockets earlier in the season.

Beginning Nov. 9, New York fans will have one National League game and at least one All-America Conference game from which to choose each Sunday afternoon.

Ironically, it was Governali, an All-America halfback at Columbia in 1942, who engineered the Giants' latest defeat by hurling two touchdown passes for the Boston Yanks last Sunday.

His departure from Boston means that the Yanks will rely chiefly on Frank (Boley) Dancewicz for their passing in the future.

In Paschal's place, the Gliants will alternate two rookies, Gordon Paschka, formerly of Minnesota, and Gene Roberts, erstwhile Chattanooga flash who recently got off the injury list.

TO AID GIANTS—Paul Governali, above, ace passer of the Boston Yanks, was traded to the winless New York Giants of the National Football League yesterday for Fullback Bill Paschal along with a claim to All-America tackle, George Connor of Notre Dame. Governali is a native New Yorker and earned All-America honors while playing as halfback at Columbia University in 1942.

WOMAN RACING FAN SUES, CLAIMING TIP ARRIVED TOO LATE

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 21 (AP) — An Albany woman sued Western Union today for $209.73, claiming late delivery of a telegram containing a tip on a horse that won.

Mrs. Virginia McMenamy, a department store fitter, alleged in a city court action that a Maryland tipster service to which she subscribed wired her to be on "Isolationist" at Washington Park racetrack in Chicago.

She said the telegram was sent at 11:36 a. m. on Aug. 2. The horse won that day and paid $5.80 on the pari-mutuel board, but, according to Mrs. McMenamy, the telegram was delivered after the race had been run.

She claims she had planned to bet $100 "on the nose."

Western Union entered a general denial and asked for a bill of particulars. The case was adjourned until next Tuesday.

According to Mrs. McMenamy's figures, she would have won $190 on the best. To this she added a claim of $19 she said was charged for the information on the race and 73 cents for the telegram.

Olive Tablets are purely vegetable. They work gently but oh—so thoroughly! Olive Tablets pep up a sluggish intestinal tract. They act on BOTH upper and lower bowels. Just see if Olive Tablets don't give YOU the most comfortable, satisfactory, more natural-like bowel movements you've ever had! No griping.

Liquor Board Declines Job Of Making Survey

Commissioners Plan No Immediate Action

Allegany County's three-man liquor control board members have declined to serve as a committee to study the question of establishing a county wholesale liquor dispensary, and informed the Board of County Commissioners yesterday that they cannot serve because of provisions of the resolution, setting up the committee.

The letter from the Liquor Board follows:

"We have examined this resolution carefully and find that it was the outcome of the introduction into the House of Delegates of House Bill No. 563 to establish a county wholesale liquor dispensary in Allegany county in which the County Commissioners would be authorized and empowered to provide funds for the establishment and operation thereof.

"The joint resolution provides that the committee which is appointed is to be composed of prominent citizens of said county who are not associated with and have no interest in, either directly or indirectly, the control, processing or manufacture of distilled spirits and alcoholic beverages.

"We have come to the conclusion, after careful consideration and consultation with Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson, that we are disqualified to accept this appointment by the resolution itself.

"You will note it states that the persons to be appointed shall not have either directly or indirectly 'the control', etc., of distilled spirits and alcoholic beverages.

"In our opinion and the opinion of said judges, Article 2B of the Acts of 1947, appointing us members of the Allegany County Liquor Control Board, gives us control of issuing, transfering and revoking licenses in Allegany county. Therefore, we do have control of this subject under law and thus are disqualified to act upon this committee to which you have appointed us.

"We fully appreciate the confidence you have reposed in us by making this appointment and regret that we are disqualified to act, but we have no alternative than to reject the appointment."

The letter was signed by Walter C. Capper, chairman of the Liquor Board, and Henry Sweene and Fred Crowe, members.

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the County Board said last night no further action has been taken and none is contemplated immediately. He said he could not state whether another committee would be named, and the matter was not discussed yesterday as Commissioners James W. Holmes was absent from the meeting, and said he should be given a chance to express his views.

"We have examined this resolution carefully and find that it was the outcome of the introduction into the House of Delegates of House Bill No. 563 to establish a county wholesale liquor dispensary in Allegany county in which the County Commissioners would be authorized and empowered to provide funds for the establishment and operation thereof.

"The joint resolution provides that the committee which is appointed is to be composed of prominent citizens of said county who are not associated with and have no interest in, either directly or indirectly, the control, processing or manufacture of distilled spirits and alcoholic beverages.

"We have come to the conclusion, after careful consideration and consultation with Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson, that we are disqualified to accept this appointment by the resolution itself.

"You will note it states that the persons to be appointed shall not have either directly or indirectly 'the control', etc., of distilled spirits and alcoholic beverages.

"In our opinion and the opinion of said judges, Article 2B of the Acts of 1947, appointing us members of the Allegany County Liquor Control Board, gives us control of issuing, transfering and revoking licenses in Allegany county. Therefore, we do have control of this subject under law and thus are disqualified to act upon this committee to which you have appointed us.

"We fully appreciate the confidence you have reposed in us by making this appointment and regret that we are disqualified to act, but we have no alternative than to reject the appointment."

The letter was signed by Walter C. Capper, chairman of the Liquor Board, and Henry Sweene and Fred Crowe, members.

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the County Board said last night no further action has been taken and none is contemplated immediately. He said he could not state whether another committee would be named, and the matter was not discussed yesterday as Commissioners James W. Holmes was absent from the meeting, and said he should be given a chance to express his views.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 21—(INS)—Lauren Bacall told me she wouldn't insist on making all her movies with Humphrey Bogart (the man who pays her bills) if she could get a really good role with another star.

Well, Bogey's Baby apparently meant it, for she now co-stars with Dennis Morgan in "Cleopatra Arms." That's the name of an apartment house in mid-Manhattan, where a lot of artistic people congregate.

It's an original by Everett Free-Paulette Goddard man, which Harry Kurnitz will produce after she finishes "Key Largo" with Bogey.

Speaking of Dennis Morgan, a lot of people who had always thought of him more or less as a stellar handy man in musicals, got a jolt when it came out that Mr. M. was the big money earner on the Warner lot last year and paid the highest income tax.

But he certainly should diet if he wants to keep the girls adoring him.

The sudden death of dress designer Bobby Kallock from a heart attack, has made some of the stylists speculate on whether Bobby had a feeling that something was going to happen.

Each designer created an outfit for a fashion show to be held on Monday. Bobby's contribution was a complete mourning outfit—black dress, black shoes, black hat and black bag.

His group debated whether to show it after his death, but decided he would have wanted it to be a part of the collection.

Chatter in Hollywood: Cobina Wright Sr., who is the only Hollywood person to have received a wedding invitation from Princess Elizabeth's bridegroom, leaves Thursday. She sails the 28th on the America, three weeks in advance of the day that Princess Elizabeth becomes the bride of Lt. Philip Mountbatten.

Cobina has always kept up her friendship with Philip, who at one time courted her daughter. He's written to Cobina Sr. through the years and the invitation to the wedding came directly from him.

She's taking along some beautiful clothes, among them a prune colored satin and a black lace, and she'll decide when she gets there what to wear, depending on what the other guests wear.

I've been reading "Body By Van," which is extremely interesting for anyone who wants to reduce. Van is Frankie Van, former flyweight boxer, who has been at Universal for many years, exercising the stars and telling them how to kep their weight under control.

There are diets and exercises with pictures showing you how to do them. Among Frankie's clientele is Ella Raines, Ann Blyth, Yvonne De Carlo, Burt Lancaster and other stars.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Lawrence Tierney with a girl he introduced as Sara Spencer at the Seacombers. Seems he and Vivi Stokes are through.

Paulette Goddard was a sensation in her new Paris gown at Merle Oberon's dinner. The bodice white, the skirt a very full black velvet with padded hips, gave her the new look.

Rocky (Mrs. Gary) Cooper, who was also at Merle's, said she was never so uncomfortable in her life. She wore the new style corset and had a waist so tiny you could put your two hands around it.

Merle wore an Orry Kelly white dress that floated, it was so delicate. The dinner was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shields, Rocky Cooper's mother and stepfather.

At dinner I asked Gary if he really went over the waterfall in "Unconquered." "Oh, of course," he said, "so did Paulette." He said he was glad for C. B. De Mille the picture was doing well.

Clifton Webb sported a pompadour which he'll wear as a baby sitter in "Sitting Pretty" his next picture. Joan Crawford proudly showed me how much weight she had lost—not that she needed to, but it made her waist in her black lace dress look very tiny.

Virginia Zanuck, who hasn't gone in for the bustle and the padding, looked very dainty in a white and gold dress.

Ho-hum. Georgette Winsor and Harry Cushing staged a reconciliation party on account of he was able to find that new home in Beverly Hills she was holding out for.

Ava Gardner with a new escort, the newly face lifted Slapsy Maxie's.

That's all today.

Webb And Ives To Join Bing Crosby In Song Tonight

NEW YORK, October 21—From opposite poles in the world of show business, the highly urbane, polished Clifton Webb and Burl Ives, the rural folksy balladeer, join Bing Crosby Wednesday night over ABC at 10.

Along with these contrasting guests, comes Howard Duff, who plays the title role in "The Adventures of Sam Spade." With Duff and Crosby, Webb will enact his own burlesque detective piece, "Clifton Webb, Private Face," all of which is topped off by a novelty tune delivered by Webb, Ives and Crosby.

CBS' "American Melody Hour" (at 8 p. m., is six years old Wednesday night, and just to show you that things haven't changed a bit, the singing chores will still be handled by Evelyn MacGregor, Bob Hannon and the Knightsbridge Chorus.

Novelist John Steinbeck makes one of his rare radio appearances at 10 p. m. when Mutual airs a portion of the New York Herald Tribune annual forum. Steinbeck and four Herald Tribune correspondents, all of whom recently returned from trips through eastern Europe, will discuss "Russian Response to the Marshall Plan."

Among NBC activities, Jimmy Durante plays host to Victor Moore at 10:30 p. m., and "Mr. District Attorney," as busy as ever, breaks a college football "fix."

To save time and trouble with shoulder pads make them removable. Instead of sewing them in, attach them with small-sized snaps. You can then take pads out when you launder your clothes or have them cleaned and snap them in again just before wearing. Radio in Review

By JOHN CROSBY

On Culture and Morals

John Crosby

Radio's most cynical critics will tell you that broadcasting is incompatible with any reasonable standards of taste; that radio reaches too many homes ever to attain more than a common denominator of culture which would be necessarily low. Radio's new and untried code adopted by the board of directors of the National Association of Broadcasters (to become effective Feb. 1, 1948) goes a long way toward justifying that contention.

There is hardly a paragraph in the code—at least in that section pertaining to programs—which cannot be traced back to a group of parents, or teachers or betterment societies or large groups of unorganized but homogeneous letter writers. About the only thing any such large groups can agree on is that it's against sin; consequently, the code is moral rather than cultural. While a high moral tone can hardly be argued against, it won't raise and may very well lower the cultural standards of radio. In the motion picture industry, a code of strict morality succeeded in abolishing the double bed while permitting the uncodifiable inflections of Mae West.

Still it must be admitted that virtually every sentence in the code was directed against some specific abuse of taste in specific programs. "Brutal killings, torture and physical agony," says one paragraph of the code, "should not be presented in detail." If enforced, this ukase will bring a large sigh of relief from tortured listeners, and not just the squeamish ones either.

All of us were getting more than a little tired of the snapping spines, the slow strangulations in the murder mysteries. But the same provision would also eliminate the eye-plucking scene in "King Lear" (and, as far as I'm concerned, that would be a good thing too.)

The trouble is that edicts of this sort are a little too inflexible. There should be an escape clause in all of them allowing the presentation of any of the banned topics provided it met the approval of a board in each radio station and network. The board, to keep the thing as uncomplicated as possible, should consist of one man whose taste and discretion are completely trusted by the management.

If the one-han board is not feasible then the regulations ought to be rephrased to permit a little leeway to the writers. Some of them, in fact, are so written. "Suicide," says one regulation, "should never be presented as a satisfactory solution to a human problem." That doesn't ban suicide, only suicide as a satisfactory solution to a human problem. Offhand I can't recall any case in literature where suicide was held up as any such thing although in many cases, notably "Romeo and Juliet," suicide was presented as a satisfactory and ironic solution to the story.

In any case, if radio is ever to produce anything worthwhile its writers must be free of narrow restrictions, not to write trash, but to write the truth in all its colors including the dark ones.

Let's turn for a moment to the commercial provisions of the code. This section hits the broadcaster in his pocketbook, hits him so severely that many of the independent stations are still squawking for revisions, which will be taken up at a meeting in November. The most important part of this section specifies that commercials be limited to three minutes of every quarter hour. As far as the broadcasters are concerned, this IS the code; the rest of it doesn't matter.

While three minutes sounds like plenty to us listeners, it isn't nearly enough to the small independent—and even some large independents—who broadcast disk jockey shows on which you may hear two or three commercials to every record played. Here, at least, is one place where the arbitrary and definitive rulings of a code may do some good. The lack of such a ruling, either written or unwritten, led to the wholesale over-commercialization of radio and also to maniacal competition which didn't do the industry any good. Some radio stations were selling spot announcements for as little as 75 cents and the only way the stantion could operate with such prices was to load the air with commercials.

Besides lowering the prestige of the whole industry, this sort of thing was distinctly questionable as an advertising practice and it drove the listeners dotty.

Webb And Ives To Join Bing Crosby In Song Tonight

NEW YORK, October 21—From opposite poles in the world of show business, the highly urbane, polished Clifton Webb and Burl Ives, the rural folksy balladeer, join Bing Crosby Wednesday night over ABC at 10.

Along with these contrasting guests, comes Howard Duff, who plays the title role in "The Adventures of Sam Spade." With Duff and Crosby, Webb will enact his own burlesque detective piece, "Clifton Webb, Private Face," all of which is topped off by a novelty tune delivered by Webb, Ives and Crosby.

CBS' "American Melody Hour" (at 8 p. m., is six years old Wednesday night, and just to show you that things haven't changed a bit, the singing chores will still be handled by Evelyn MacGregor, Bob Hannon and the Knightsbridge Chorus.

Novelist John Steinbeck makes one of his rare radio appearances at 10 p. m. when Mutual airs a portion of the New York Herald Tribune annual forum. Steinbeck and four Herald Tribune correspondents, all of whom recently returned from trips through eastern Europe, will discuss "Russian Response to the Marshall Plan."

Among NBC activities, Jimmy Durante plays host to Victor Moore at 10:30 p. m., and "Mr. District Attorney," as busy as ever, breaks a college football "fix."

To save time and trouble with shoulder pads make them removable. Instead of sewing them in, attach them with small-sized snaps. You can then take pads out when you launder your clothes or have them cleaned and snap them in again just before wearing. Dresses pack more easily and fold more smoothly without them, saving space in suitcases for travel.

Radio in Review

By JOHN CROSBY

On Culture and Morals

Radio's most cynical critics will tell you that broadcasting is incompatible with any reasonable standards of taste; that radio reaches too many homes ever to attain more than a common denominator of culture which would be necessarily low. Radio's new and untried code adopted by the board of directors of the National Association of Broadcasters (to become effective Feb. 1, 1948) goes a long way toward justifying that contention.

John Crosby

There is hardly a paragraph in the code—at least in that section pertaining to programs—which cannot be traced back to a group of parents, or teachers or betterment societies or large groups of unorganized but homogeneous letter writers. About the only thing any such large groups can agree on is that it's against sin; consequently, the code is moral rather than cultural. While a high moral tone can hardly be argued against, it won't raise and may very well lower the cultural standards of radio. In the motion picture industry, a code of strict morality succeeded in abolishing the double bed while permitting the uncodifiable inflections of Mae West.

Still it must be admitted that virtually every sentence in the code was directed against some specific abuse of taste in specific programs. "Brutal killings, torture and physical agony," says one paragraph of the code, "should not be presented in detail." If enforced, this ukase will bring a large sigh of relief from tortured listeners, and not just the squeamish ones either.

All of us were getting more than a little tired of the snapping spines, the slow strangulations in the murder mysteries. But the same provision would also eliminate the eye-plucking scene in "King Lear" (and, as far as I'm concerned, that would be a good thing too.)

No one knows the bitter tears,
That we've shed since you've been gone,

And there's not a day, dear mother
That we do not think of you.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Ida May Tysinger, who passed away 3 years ago, October 21, 1944.

No one knows how much we miss you,
No one knows the bitter tears,
That we've shed since you've been gone,
Tho it's been but three short years.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true,
And there's not a day, dear mother
That we do not think of you.

Sadly missed by husband & children, WILBUR I. TYSINGER & FAMILY.

In loving memory of Carolyn Louise Anderson who departed this world four years ago today October 22nd.

In our home she is fondly remembered,
Sweet memories cling to her name;
Those who loved her in life sincerely,
Still love her in death just the same.

Sadly missed by Mother and Father, Sisters, Brother and Niece.

In memory of Elizabeth Barnes, who passed away one year ago, Oct. 21, 1946. Gone, but not forgotten. Sadly missed by her sister, Anna S. Malone, 15 Oak St.

Stock Market, After Nine Sessions Without Relapse, Thrown For Loss

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — The stock market average was thrown for a moderate loss today, after nine successive sessions without a relapse although many favorites successfully resisted light selling.

Dealings were lively in the forenoon. Bidding in the final hour reduced most extreme recessions running to three or more points at the close and the plus column was well filled. Transfers of 1,400,000 shares compared with 1,770,000 the day before.

Holding gains of a point or so were Pacific Western Oil at 58½, American Woolen 48¼, Kroger Company 52¾, Eversharp 15⅛, International Silver 60⅞, Inland Steel 41¾ and American Can 87⅝. Ahead were Missions Corporation, Sunray Oil, Standard Oil (NJ), Union Oil of California, Socony, Cudahy, Wilworth, Graham-Paige, Western Union, Loew's and North American. International Telephone, the day's most active, was 70¾ at 14 on further talk of a merger with Raytheon Manufacturing.

Off one to two or more were Union Pacific at 150, Chrysler 65½, International Harvester 89¼, Caterpillar Tractor 57, Douglas Aircraft 63, J. C. Penney 42½, Butler Brothers, 13¼, and J. R. Thompson.

Others in arrears were United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Goodrich, United States Rubber, United Aircraft, Boeing, Johns-Manville, du Pont, Union Carbide, American Smelting, Westinghouse, Dow Chemical, Byron Jackson, Lowenstein, Texas Company, Skelly Oil, Gulf Oil, Sante Fe, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and Northern Pacific.

In the forward division of the curb were Wichita River Oil, Garrett Company, Middle West Corporation, and Kaiser-Frazer. Lower were Cities Service, Creole Petroleum, Textron and American Gas. Turnover here was 360,000 shares versus 420,000 yesterday.

Sale to an underwriting syndicate of $100,000,000 Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, 40-year debentures at an interest rate highest any Bell System Company has had to pay since 1939 drew the attention of bond men.

Sales in today's market totaled $5,550,000 compared with $5,795,000 Monday.

United States treasuries were steady to slightly higher in quiet dealings over the counter. The victory Loan 2½s of December 1967-72 closed at 102 7-32 bid, up 1-32.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Law offices of Clarence Shutter, Law Building, Cumberland, Maryland.

Jeanne Kayfield, Plaintiff vs. Allen F. Kayfield, Defendant. No. 20364 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant A VINCULO MATRIMONII.

The bill states that the parties were married at Elkton, Maryland, on the 5th day of April, 1942; that two children were born to the parties, Lynda M. aged five years, and Joan A. aged four years, whose custody the plaintiff seeks; that the parties have been separated since the 5th of July, 1944, when the defendant deserted the plaintiff without any just cause or reason, that the desertion has been continuous and uninterrupted since said date, is deliberate and final beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff has resided in Allegany County for more than three years next before the filing of this suit, and the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and his present address or whereabouts unknown to the plaintiff.

It is thereupon this 20th day of October, 1947, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, once a week for four successive weeks before the 21st day of November, 1947, give notice to the non-resident defendant of the object and substance of this suit, warning him to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 8th day of December, 1947, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Veteran To Wed Same Woman Third Time

Buracker Indicted

Ethel Fink Hott, contributing to the delinquency of her daughter.

Vintson Riggleman, drunken driving.

Meanwhile, as Judge Ernest A. See delivered his charge to the jury before it began its deliberation, he attacked the beer laws of West Virginia, and called beer places "the greatest cesspools of delinquency in West Virginia." He stated that "the trouble is that all power is in Charleston. They can issue beer licenses and revoke them as they see fit. Municipalities and communities where the beer joints are located should have something to say about them."

Judge See cited a part of the West Virginia law which states that where boisterous noises exist, the license of that establishment could be revoked.

"I know places within two blocks of the Court House where such violattions occur but licenses are not revoked," he asserted. "The joker in the law is that the Beer Commissioner may revoke licenses, but it does not say he shall revoke licenses," Judge See said.

"There would not be so many cases of juvenile delinquency and adult criminality brought before you if these conditions did not exist," stated Judge See.

Trials Held Over

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—All of the 11 criminal and civil indictments returned yesterday by a Hardy County grand jury will be carried over to next term of Circuit Court which is scheduled to open February 15, it was reported last night. Most of the indictments were of a more or less minor nature, it was reported.

Wrong Address Given

Mrs. Thomas V. McGuire, 134 Main Street, Westernport, the address listed for James Stump, 34, Westernport, when he was arraigned yesterday in Circuit Court on a criminal charge, today stated Stump has never resided at that address.

Stock Market, After Nine Sessions Without Relapse, Thrown For Loss

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP) — The stock market average was thrown for a moderate loss today, after nine successive sessions without a relapse although many favorites successfully resisted light selling.

Dealings were lively in the forenoon. Bidding in the final hour reduced most extreme recessions running to three or more points at the close and the plus column was well filled. Transfers of 1,400,000 shares compared with 1,770,000 the day before.

Holding gains of a point or so were Pacific Western Oil at 58½, American Woolen 48¼, Kroger Company 52¾, Eversharp 15⅛, International Silver 60⅞, Inland Steel 41¾ and American Can 87⅝. Ahead were Missions Corporation, Sunray Oil, Standard Oil (NJ), Union Oil of California, Socony, Cudahy, Willworth, Graham-Paige, Western Union, Loew's and North American. International Telephone, the day's most active, was 70¾ at 14 on further talk of a merger with Raytheon Manufacturing.

Off one to two or more were Union Pacific at 150, Chrysler 65½, International Harvester 89¼, Caterpillar Tractor 57, Douglas Aircraft 63, J. C. Penney 42½, Butler Brothers, 13¼, and J. R. Thompson.

Others in arrears were United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Goodrich, United States Rubber, United Aircraft, Boeing, Johns-Manville, du Pont, Union Carbide, American Smelting, Westinghouse, Dow Chemical, Byron Jackson, Lowenstein, Texas Company, Skelly Oil, Gulf Oil, Sante Fe, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and Northern Pacific.

In the forward division of the curb were Wichita River Oil, Garrett Company, Middle West Corporation, and Kaiser-Frazer. Lower were Cities Service, Creole Petroleum, Textron and American Gas. Turnover here was 360,000 shares versus 420,000 yesterday.

Sale to an underwriting syndicate of $100,000,000 Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, 40-year debentures at an interest rate highest any Bell System Company has had to pay since 1939 drew the attention of bond men.

Sales in today's market totaled $5,550,000 compared with $5,795,000 Monday.

United States treasuries were steady to slightly higher in quiet dealings over the counter. The victory Loan 2½s of December 1967-72 closed at 102 7-32 bid, up 1-32.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Law offices of Clarence Shutter, Law Building, Cumberland, Maryland.

Jeanne Kayfield, Plaintiff vs. Allen F. Kayfield, Defendant. No. 20364 Equity in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce divorcing the plaintiff from the defendant A VINCULO MATRIMONII.

The bill states that the parties were married at Elkton, Maryland, on the 5th day of April, 1942; that two children were born to the parties, Lynda M. aged five years, and Joan A. aged four years, whose custody the plaintiff seeks; that the parties have been separated since the 5th of July, 1944, when the defendant deserted the plaintiff without any just cause or reason, that the desertion has been continuous and uninterrupted since said date, is deliberate and final beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff has resided in Allegany County for more than three years next before the filing of this suit, and the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and his present address or whereabouts unknown to the plaintiff.

It is thereupon this 20th day of October, 1947, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, once a week for four successive weeks before the 21st day of November, 1947, give notice to the non-resident defendant of the object and substance of this suit, warning him to be and appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 8th day of December, 1947, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

ROBERT JACKSON, Clerk.

Davis P-TA Will Sponsor Party For Hot Lunch Program

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS—The Parent-Teachers Association of Davis school met for its first meeting this fall in the school Tuesday evening.

The program included talks by Reardon Cuppett, county superintendent of schools, as guest speaker, and Ira McDowell, principal of the school, who outlined plans for the coming year.

Miss Marguerite Chrystal and Miss Anna Bogdonovich played piano solos and Miss Georgianna Bayer sang a solo accompanied at the piano by Miss Bogdonovich.

The P-TA voted to sponsor a party in the City Hall for the purpose of raising money to buy dishes for the hot lunch program. The hot lunch program in that school is slated to start on November 3, and will serve approximately 75 students.

Home room mothers were named for the year. They are Mrs. Harry Bergstrom and Mrs. Edith Bigler, for the First Grade; Mrs. Lloyd Winters and Mrs. William Kline for the Second Grade; Mrs. Fralph Friend and Mrs. Boyd Wise for the Third Grade; Mrs. John Paugh and Mrs. Walter Govedich for the Fourth Grade; Mr. Roy Carr and Mrs. Louis Pregler for the Fifth Grade; Mrs. Elinor Jenkins and Mrs. Wayne Spiggle for the Sixth Grade.

Mrs. Joe Glenco, Mrs. Jivy Combs and Mrs. Holmes Arnold were named as the Hospitality committee.

The Blackwater Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution will have the program for the November meeting, a custom they have observed for several years of sponsoring one P-TA program during the year. The program committee for the time will be Mrs. L. H. Mott, Mrs. Belmont S. Cleaver and Mrs. Harold Phelps.

Fire Records Good

Ralph Rowland, forest ranger of Cheat District, Monongahela National Forest stated that up to October 17, no fires had been reported for the month of September and October.

In 1946, Monongahela National Forest reported 19 fires up to September and five in that month. This year only 12 fires were reported to September with none since then.

Mr. Rowland stated that fire permits are needed at this time to burn brush and a state law requires that all brush burning fires must be out by 8 o'clock in the morning the day after they are started. Brush burning permits will be needed here until December 15.

Tri-Town Firemen Are Kept Busy

WESTERNPORT, Oct. 21—Volunteer fire companies of this area had two calls today. Three companies responded to an alarm from the Bloomington area, where a large mass of flames in the town dump was extinguished. The dump is used by Bloomington, Westernport and Luke and is located about eight-tenths of a mile from Bloomington school. Tri Towns Company No. 1, Piedmont, W. Va., Potomac Fire Company No. 2, Westernport and Bloomington Fire Company responded. Elmer Uphole, forest warden from Garrett county also assisted.

Tri Towns Company and Potomac Fire Company responded to an alarm shortly before noon, when the electrical circuit of an automobile ignited. The car, owned by Rev. William Orndorff, 218 Philos Avenue, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was parked in front of his residence and was reported not seriously damaged.

Veteran To Wed Same Woman Third Time

A Keyser, W. Va., ex-soldier obtained a license here yesterday to marry for the third time, relatives said, his 23-year-old German wife.

The license listed the couple as John Arnold Parker, 25, and Anita Elizabeth Ebrecht, 23, Lambsheim, Germany. Parker told Allegany Court attaches he planned to meet her in Washington yesterday but did not divulge wedding plans.

Relatives at Keyser said Parker and Miss Ebrecht were married twice while he was overseas, once by a priest and once by an Army chaplain.

Parker, a railroader, is from Vanderlip, W. Va., near Romney, and boards with Mr. and Mrs. Claude Friend, Keyser. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Parker.

His German bride was described by relatives as blonde and blue-eyed. Parker has been out of the Army more than a year.

Youth Arrested On Theft Charge After Accident

A one-car auto accident yesterday morning three miles west of Accident, Garrett County, resulted in the 16-year-old driver, who escaped injury, being held in the Oakland Jail on charge of automobile larceny, according to Maryland State Police.

Police said the accident occurred at 10:10 a. m. and a youth identified as Edward L. Hunsinger, Youngstown, Pa., told authorities that he had stolen the car from a neighbor earlier yesterday morning.

The owner of the car, Simon P. Naugle, Youngstown, was notified, according to police, and is expected to arrive in Accident today. The car had to be towed away from the scene, police said.

Meanwhile, as Judge Ernest A. See delivered his charge to the jury before it began its deliberation, he attacked the beer laws of West Virginia, and called beer places "the greatest cesspools of delinquency in West Virginia." He stated that "the trouble is that all power is in Charleston. They can issue beer licenses and revoke them as they see fit. Municipalities and communities where the beer joints are located should have something to say about them."

Judge See cited a part of the West Virginia law which states that where boisterous noises exist, the license of that establishment could be revoked.

"I know places within two blocks of the Court House where such violattions occur but licenses are not revoked," he asserted. "The joker in the law is that the Beer Commissioner may revoke licenses, but it does not say he shall revoke licenses," Judge See said.

"There would not be so many cases of juvenile delinquency and adult criminality brought before you if these conditions did not exist," stated Judge See.

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—All of the 11 criminal and civil indictments returned yesterday by a Hardy County grand jury will be carried over to next term of Circuit Court which is scheduled to open February 15, it was reported last night. Most of the indictments were of a more or less minor nature, it was reported.

SUSIE Q. SMITH By Linda and Jerry Walter

"Fifty-two to nothing, and thirty seconds to play! Golly, it's beginning to look like we could LOSE this game!"

Smith Given 15 Years In State Penitentiary

Convicted Of Murder In Second Degree

Stillman Snow Smith, age about 50, Town Creek, near Flintstone, this county, was found guilty of second degree murder in Circuit Court here yesterday and sentenced to serve 15 years in the Maryland penitentiary, for the fatal shooting of his 16-year-old wife, Mrs. Goldie Smith.

The case probably made some legal history here because of the manner it was handled by attorneys appointed by the Court to defend Smith, whom they described as penniless and illiterate.

Estel C. Kelley and Gorman E. Getty, defense lawyers told the Court they have given practically their full time to the case since they were named to defend the man a week ago. They declared they were faced with a series of facts difficult to justify or deny.

In his own testimony, Smith testified he was hunting ground hogs, fell and accidentally shot his wife when the gun exploded. He said he shot himself in the arm, which resulted in amputation, because he and his wife had quarreled and she stabbed him in the arm with a butcher knife. Smith told the Court, "I didn't want anyone to think she had stabbed me because I didn't want anything to happen to her. I didn't know she was dead. I was trying to shoot the cut out of my arm."

Woman Was Shot Twice

The State presented a number of witnesses and a chain of evidence which showed that on the evening of last April 17, Smith and his wife had quarreled over taking her family to church. Mrs. Smith was preparing supper in the kitchen of their tree-room house near the Town Creek bridge, across which her family dwelled.

During the argument, witnesses testified, Smith obtained a gun and his wife ran from the house with the butcher knife in her hand. Smith, the state showed, shot her in the back of the left shoulder and the left cheek as she ran up a bank from the house to the road.

Then it was proven by the state that Smith reloaded the single-barrel shot gun and pursued his wounded and screaming wife down the road. As she looked back, he fired again, the charge entering her right eye, coming out the back of her head.

The State further showed Smith then returned to the house, and in what was described as an attempt to commit suicide, shot himself, but succeeded only in injuring his right arm and shoulder so badly, amputation at Memorial Hospital was necessary.

Smith's verbal statement, taken at the hospital the night of the shooting, and a dictated statement taken the next day were referred to. The latter was submitted in evidence, and substantially supported the physical facts as authorities found them in their reconstruction of the case.

Members of Mrs. Smith's family, her father, Perry Smith, mother, Mrs. Martha Smith, a younger sister, and two neighbors, Johnny Haines and Mrs. Helen Haines, 23, were among witnesses called by the state in addition to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, Sgt. W. E. O'Hara, Cpl. Harry Holsinger, and Trooper William F. Baker of the State Police; County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle, Dr. Leonard S. Cooper and others.

The defense called several witnesses who described Smith as a mild-mannered, hard working individual, who had no criminal record and had never been in any previous trouble.

Asks For Second Degree Verdict

Getty, in his argument after testimony told the Court, "the physical facts, as presented by the State appear to be a pat case of murder. But there are some things that aren't as pat as they seem. The only basis for this shooting seems to be an argument over taking Goldie Smith's family to church. We have no way to knowing if Goldie continued the argument, or if she attacked Smith with a knife as he claims."

Getty argued that the law regarding murder is very explicit in fixing the degree of the crime. He said the State is trying to prove first degree murder but he and Kelley believe first degree murder has not been committed in the case, and as such has not been proved.

"Let us attempt to determine what did happen," the young lawyer continued. "Smith's wife was a big girl, capable of doing him bodily harm. She had a knife. There was

Average Tastes Seen Reflected In Movies, Radio

Kennedy Says Level Depends On Audience

Movies and radio programs reflect the mental attitude of average Americans, and the quality of those productions will not rise until average interests and tastes are improved, Harold J. Kennedy, playwright, producer and director, said last night.

Kennedy was the first speaker of the Cumberland National Dinner Club's 1947-48 season, addressing 85 persons at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

"Most people don't realize the dictatorship they exert over the theater," Kennedy said. "We get soap operas and bad movies because the average American likes them."

He illustrated the main theme with various anecdotes concerning his experiences with radio and theatrical productions, remarking that if the average mental age of movie audiences is that of a 13½-year-old child, the average mental age of radio listeners must be "pre-natal."

Kennedy recalled the memorable Sunday night of October 31, 1938, when he took part in the Orson Welles radio broadcast dramatizing an imaginary invasion of New Jersey by men from Mars.

The radio actors, he said, did not realize the extent of the panic created among listeners by the realistic descriptions of the "invasion" until after they left the studio.

Switchboards were deluged with calls from hysterical listeners who actually believed that the Maritan warriors had landed, and over 2,000 persons later tried to sue Welles, some to recover money spent for railroad fares they bought in fleeing out of the state, the speaker related.

Only one of the flood of indignant letters regarding the broadcast was "anywhere near affable," Kennedy said. An insurance salesman wrote to say that he was playing bridge with prospective customers during the broadcast, and that they were frightened into buying substantial policies.

Kennedy pointed out that the quality of legitimate theater has remained higher than that of movie and radio productions because theater audiences must pay more for tickets and in many cases must wait for several weeks before they can get seats for a play.

Thus they attend plays because they really want to, whereas radio and movie programs are easily available and attract only a casual audience, Kennedy explained.

The speaker, who holds degrees from Dartmouth and Yale, has operated and directed outstanding summer theaters on the campuses of Amherst and Princeton. He is the author of "A Goose for the Gander," in which he appeared with Gloria Swanson and Carl Low, a former Cumberland resident whom Kennedy praised highly.

In May of this year Kennedy and Miss Swanson presented the play in London, supported by an English cast.

Kennedy was introduced by Mrs. John J. Hafer, one of the directors of the local organization.

"HELPING THEM BACK"—Last December Edward L. White, 59, an employe at the Kelly-Springfield tire plant, lost his eyesight but through the assistance of the Associated Charities, one of Cumberland's Red Feather agencies, he underwent an operation at Johns Hopkins Hospital and his eyesight was restored. He didn't have to return the money provided through the Cumberland Community Chest, but White insists, "Anybody that helps me, I help them back." Since returning to work White has been visiting the Associated Charities office to repay the money provided. $10 or $5 at a time. One of those visits is pictured above as he hands a payment to Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary of Associated Charities.

HendersonAvenue Paving Work Set To Begin Thursday

Project Will Cost About $10,000

Work of covering a half-mile section of Henderson Avenue with black top at an estimated cost of $10,000 is expected to begin Thursday morning, according to G. Bates Chaires, district engineer of the Maryland State Roads Commission.

Chaires said the contract for the work has been let to a local contracting firm and explained that the black topping of several sections will give motorists a smooth top surface over the entire avenue.

Parts of the street are now finished with concrete which is in extremely good condition but several sections have brick paving, according to Chaires, who said the brick paving is the part that will be black topped.

The work which is tenatively scheduled to begin Thursday morning, depending on weather conditions, will not block the street to traffic but a slight delay may result since the machinery will allow only one way traffic.

Chaires said the surface covering will be similar to other streets in the city that have been covered with black top and explained the new covering will be laid approximately two inches thick.

The contracting company will lay one side of the street at a time, according to the district engineer, and will complete work on the other side of the street once the topping has hardened. This he pointed out, will permit one way traffic at all times.

Work on Vocke Road, which connects Braddock and Winchester Roads, where similar black top is being laid, is expected to be completed within the next two weeks along with drainage and shoulder work.

Chaires said work has already started on the Vocke road and added that if weather conditions permit the black top will be laid today. The remainder of the work which calls for drainage and improved shoulders will be completed once the black top is laid, he said.

Associated Charities Repaid By Edward White For Aid Given Him

Community Chest Is Praised By Citizen

"Anybody that helps me, I help them back."

That is the insistent remark made by Edward L. White, 59-year-old rubber worker every time he is told that he doesn't have to return money that is received from the Cumberland Community Chest.

And that remark qualifies Mr. White for a place among the most outstanding citizens of Cumberland. The people of Cumberland provided funds to tide him over during an unfortunate experience that might befall anyone—and he is determined to pay them back "because somebody else might have tough luck and need some help," he said.

Employed in Department 51-D at the Kelly-Springfield tire plant, Mr. White lost his eyesight last December when cataracts formed in both of his eyes. It was the worst experience of his life, he stated. Always a steady, conscientious worker, the prospect of sitting around in total darkness after having lived an active and independent life was almost more than he could bear.

The cataracts were discovered in a diagnosis by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, of the Allegany County Health Clinic. Mr. White was referred to the Associated Charities office, where arrangements could be made with Johns Hopkins Hospital for removal of the cataracts, and where assistance could be obtained in any other problems arising out of his difficulties.

And there were problems, of course. Mr. White participated in the group insurance plan at the Kelly plant, but his insurance benefits were not nearly enough to cover all of his expenses. And when he accepted aid from the Associated Charities, he made it clear that he was considering it a loan.

"I've been in the hospital five times in my life," he said "but I've always paid the bills that went with my troubles, and I'm not going to stop now."

That, too, is a standard remark with Mr. White when he is told that red tape is slashed when Red Feather aid is given, and that no strings remain attached.

He was out of work for seven months, returning to the Kelly plant in July. Since then he has had to buy expensive eyeglasses for himself, provide medical care for his wife, who suffered from a serious stomach disorder, and meet all of the other expenses of a home.

But within two weeks after he returned to work, he was in the Associated Charities office to make a payment of $10 on the "loan" that the people of Cumberland had given him. And he has visited the office regularly since then, making payments of $10 or $5—and on October 10 he turned up with a $20 payment, part of which was refused until he is in a better position to pay it.

Having learned of the effectiveness of the Community Chest through the restoration of his sight, Mr. White agrees that it is the best form of "Community Insurance."

"It helped me when I was in bad shape," he says, "and I never forget a favor. A fellow never knows what's going to happen to him, and I'm going to make it right with the people who treated me right when I needed a break."

VFW Condemns Failure To Act On Water Problem

Want Savage River Dam And Line Built

Cumberland's need for increased water supply for industrial purposes, both from the city's reservoirs as well as from the Potomac River, were the subject of a long and heated discussion at the regular meeting of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars last night, according to James L. Thrasher, post commander.

The veterans' organization adopted a plan of action and passed a motion for a committee to proceed to get responsible authorities to act immediately on construction of the Savage River Dam, and installation of an auxiliary pipe line from Koon Dam and Lake Gordon.

James W. Beacham, a past commader of the post, was named chairman of a committee which also includes Thomas B. Finan, Jr., William R. Carscaden, Past Commander Raymond Reynolds, Past Commander John Fike, Commander Thrasher and Vice-Commander James Kloran.

The veterans were told, Beacham said, that lack of water here has seriously hampered industrial growth and expansion of the city. He said that in recent weeks, Cumberland had two good industries interested in locating here but they moved on to other cities when a water survey was completed. "These two cases, very definite losses to the community, are not the first such instances," Beacham declared.

Commenting on the Savage River Dam, Beacham said "this project, designed to help establish less fluctuation in the rise and fall of the Potomac River, and also tossed about as a flood control project, would definitely aid the industries we already have.

"Members of the post here believe it should be completed as soon as possible, to alleviate the water shortage our present industries are suffering. Not only Cumberland, but other communities in this area will benefit," he continued.

Beacham said his committee will meet this week, and a program of action will be outlined. Every means at the command and disposition of the post will be utilized to get action. "We are not only failing to grow and expand as an industrial city," he declared, "but are in great danger of moving backward, unless we act now."

Buracker Indicted On Murder Charge By Mineral Jury

Three Men Accused In Cab Firm Case

A murder indictment was returned by the Mineral County, W. Va., Grand Jury at Keyser yesterday against Edward Buracker, 23-year-old Army veteran, who confessed fatally shooting his mother-in-law, Mrs. Hazel Bosley, 61, near Antioch, last August 23, according to Vernon E. Rankin, prosecuting attorney.

Mrs. Bosley died two days later in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, of shotgun wounds in the hip and abdomen.

Buracker has been held in the Mineral County Jail since the shooting and is scheduled to be arraigned at 10 o'clock this morning in Mineral County Court along with other prisoners indicted by the grand jury at its session yesterday. Criminal trials begin Monday.

The jurors, who completed their deliberations shortly after 5 p. m. yesterday, returned 15 indictments, including armed robbery and larceny, malicious assault, gaming charges, automobile larcenies and contributing to the delinquency of minors.

The shooting in which Buracker is indicted for murder occurred after he and his wife, the former Julia Bosley, quarreled on a trip to Keyser they made with Mr. and Mrs. Bosley, authorities said.

Upon the return home, Buracker went into the house, came out with a 16-guage shotgun and started shooting, according to officials, and after the second shot Mrs. Bosley clutched at her side and called to her husband, 'Dad, he's killed me.'"

Two indictments charging armed robbery and grand larceny were returned against Trevor Jones, this city, Robert Thompson and William D. Sampson, who allegedly robbed a Yellow Top Cab Company driver of his cab at gun point near Short Gap, W. Va., last August, Prosecutor Rankin reported.

Jones has been released on bond pending trial, but Thompson and Sampson have never been apprehended, Rankin stated, adding that one of the latter two men is from Cumberland and the other from the Mid-west.

The driver of the cab, owned by Lee Carpenter, was said to be Thomas Cessna, Cumberland.

Malicious assault indictments were returned against Paul W. Riggleman and James E. Riggleman, Westernport brothers, as the outgrowth of an escapade at the home of C. A. Miller, near Fort Ashby, early in September.

The brothers allegedly assaulted Miller, a former prize fighter, who grabbed his assailant and threw him over his head. As the men fled to a car, Miller obtained a shotgun and riddled the radiator.

Two gaming indictments were returned.

One is against Robert Lyons, steward of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Club in Blaine, who was accused of maintaining two slot machines.

The other is against Paige Entler, of the Keyser Moose Club, who was accused of maintaining one slot machine.

Other indictments include:

Robert Lee Shipe, theft of the automobile of Harry Corbin from Bright's Garage, Keyser.

Buddy Spears, a mute, theft of an automobile and pocketbook from Dale W. Johnson in Keyser.

B. J. Swick, larceny of a camera from Edgell Grayson, sport shop operator.

James McNemarr, larceny of a watch from Hugh Strachan.

Robert Wolfe and Jesse A. Keplinger, jointly contributing to the delinquency of Norma Ella Wolfe.

Lloyd Mills, resisting Officers Paul Howdyshell and Guy Clem, of the Keyser Police Department.

Charles Spurling, contributing to the delinquency of Rosalie Riggleman.

Frank Molinari Fined $200 In Circuit Court

Pleads Guilty To Liquor Law Charge

Frank Molinari, Jr., Cumberland Street, was fined $200 and costs in Circuit Court yesterday afternoon, after he entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with selling intoxicants after hours in violation of the county's liquor law.

Represented by William A. Gunter, Sr., and D. Lindley Sloan, Molinari was described by his counsel as the president of the corporation which operates the Cadillac, a Baltimore Street tavern and night club, who has no previous record of conviction.

State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris told the Court Molinari was indicted by the October Grand Jury on the same charge on which he forfeited $200 bond in Police Court several weeks ago. Harris said an officer and some other people purchased a pint of whisky and a drink at about 12:25 or 12:30 a. m. and that a city warrant had been served, but Molinari failed to appear for trial.

Gunter described the Cadillac as the best regulated place in town and said the late sales occurred on a night during race week when the place was jammed with 300 or more persons and it had been difficult to get them all out in time to close by midnight.

The judges discussed the case for several minutes and finally Chief Judge William A. Huster announced the fine as $200, the same amount as the city forfeiture. Molinari was told by the Court that the fine might have been more, but the fact that he must still face the Allegany County Liquor Control Board was taken into consideration.

The case of Earl Umstot, indicted on a manslaughter charge in connection with a motorcycle crash in which a youth was killed near Moscow, is scheduled for today, Morgan C. Harris state's attorney said. Harris said the Smith case took longer than he had anticipated, and there are several other criminal cases to be tried.

These include the trial of Mervin C. Wills, 20, indicted for murder in connection with the death of his infant son; Robert W. Rice, indicted for dentistry law violations; and Norman Dee Beglin, indicted on a gaming law violation.

Stewart Gets Two Years On Charge Of Grabbing Purse

Harry Stewart, Jr., 17, Bedford Street, yesterday was sentenced to two-years in the Maryland House of Correction, after being convicted in Juvenile Court on charges of stealing a woman's purse.

Stewart, according to police, steadfastly denied that he grabbed the purse containing several hundred dollars from Mrs. John Sell, 104 Decatur Street, as she walked down Goethe Street Sunday night about 8 o'clock.

Authorities said Stewart pleaded innocent to the charge when he was arraigned in Juvenile Court yesterday morning, but on the evidence presented by police and witnesses, who testified they saw him running away from Mrs. Sell as she screamed, he was convicted.

Stewart was captured by several male residents of Goethe Street, who said they were attracted by the woman's screams. The men, according to their testimony, chased Stewart toward the cemetery at the end of Goethe Street and surrounded him as he hid in a bush.

One of the group was carrying a rifle and as Stewart continued to elude them by running across the street and climbing a garage he was covered with the weapon and ordered to come down.

He was captured by the men and held for police who were called to the scene. Police said the pocketbook with money and papers intact was recovered in the bushes where several of the searchers said they saw Stewart hiding.

Police authorities said the youth is unemployed, but has been rooming on Bedford Street since coming here from Flintstone several months ago. According to authorities Stewart served in the Armed Forces but they quoted him as saying he was discharged after some trouble.

Authorities said Mrs. Sell did not identify Stewart as the youth who grabbed her purse, but said the men who captured him testified that he was the man they saw running away from the scene after they heard Mrs. Sell screaming.

He was committed to Allegany County Jail yesterday after being sentenced to await transportation to the institution where he will serve time. He was questioned in the Office of the State's Attorney prior to the hearing.

Physician Speaks To Columbia P-TA

"The prejudices and ideas of adults today were formed in their early youth and have grown with the years", Dr. Richard Trevaskis, Jr., local psychiatrist, told members of the Columbia Street Parent Teachers Association last night at a meeting in the school auditorium.

The speaker explained how family life and environment can affect the future of the child. Neglect is the cause of many mental attitudes, he said, but over-teching and over-discipline can cause just as many ill effects. Dr. Trevaskis touched on many examples of the mentally ill, explaining the cause of their illness.

The home and family makes up the entire world of small children, the speaker said, then described the enlarging of this world as the child starts to school and later takes his place in the adult world. Dr. Trevaskis stressed the fact that nearly all mental diseases are caused from emotional disorders originating in childhood.

Frank Kaplon, president of the organization, was in charge of the business session, during which it was decided to purchase a film slide projector for the use of the school. The committee appointed to have charge of the purchase includes Walter Bell, Mrs. Ruth Kirchner, Mrs. Riley Wilt, Mrs. Eleanor Robson, Mrs. Joseph Buday and Miss Sara Higgins, principal of the school.

Musical entertainment was provided by Miss Nettie Yates, music instructor at Fort Hill High School, who sang "The Ivy Covered Shack" and "The Lilac Tree". A social was held at the conclusion of the meeting and refreshments were served.

Smith Given 15 Years In State Penitentiary

Convicted Of Murder In Second Degree

Stillman Snow Smith, age about 50, Town Creek, near Flintstone, this county, was found guilty of second degree murder in Circuit Court here yesterday and sentenced to serve 15 years in the Maryland penitentiary, for the fatal shooting of his 16-year-old wife, Mrs. Goldie Smith.

The case probably made some legal history here because of the manner it was handled by attorneys appointed by the Court to defend Smith, whom they described as penniless and illiterate.

Estel C. Kelley and Gorman E. Getty, defense lawyers told the Court they have given practically their full time to the case since they were named to defend the man a week ago. They declared they were faced with a series of facts difficult to justify or deny.

In his own testimony, Smith testified he was hunting ground hogs, fell and accidentally shot his wife when the gun exploded. He said he shot himself in the arm, which resulted in amputation, because he and his wife had quarreled and she stabbed him in the arm with a butcher knife. Smith told the Court, "I didn't want anyone to think she had stabbed me because I didn't want anything to happen to her. I didn't know she was dead. I was trying to shoot the cut out of my arm."

Woman Was Shot Twice

The State presented a number of witnesses and a chain of evidence which showed that on the evening of last April 17, Smith and his wife had quarreled over taking her family to church. Mrs. Smith was preparing supper in the kitchen of their three-room frame house near the Town Creek bridge, across which her family dwelled.

During the argument, witnesses testified, Smith obtained a gun and his wife ran from the house with the butcher knife in her hand. Smith, the state showed, shot her in the back of the left shoulder and the left cheek as she ran up a bank from the house to the road.

Then it was proven by the state that Smith reloaded the single-barrel shot gun and pursued his wounded and screaming wife down the road. As she looked back, he fired again, the charge entering her right eye, coming out the back of her head.

The State further showed Smith then returned to the house, and in what was described as an attempt to commit suicide, shot himself, but succeeded only in injuring his right arm and shoulder so badly, amputation at Memorial Hospital was necessary.

Smith's verbal statement, taken at the hospital the night of the shooting, and a dictated statement taken the next day were referred to. The latter was submitted in evidence, and substantially supported the physical facts as authorities found them in their reconstruction of the case.

Members of Mrs. Smith's family, her father, Perry Smith, mother, Mrs. Martha Smith, a younger sister, and two neighbors, Johnny Haines and Mrs. Helen Haines, 23, were among witnesses called by the state in addition to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, Sgt. W. E. O'Hara, Cpl. Harry Holsinger, and Trooper William F. Baker of the State Police; County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle, Dr. Leonard S. Cooper and others.

The defense called several witnesses who described Smith as a mild-mannered, hard working individual, who had no criminal record and had never been in any previous trouble.

Asks For Second Degree Verdict

Getty, in his argument after testimony told the Court, "the physical facts, as presented by the State appear to be a pat case of murder. But there are some things that aren't as pat as they seem. The only basis for this shooting seems to be an argument over taking Goldie Smith's family to church. We have no way to knowing if Goldie continued the argument, or if she attacked Smith with a knife as he claims."

Getty argued that the law regarding murder is very explicit in fixing the degree of the crime. He said the State is trying to prove first degree murder but he and Kelley believe first degree murder has not been committed in the case, and as such has not been proved.

"Let us attempt to determine what did happen," the young lawyer continued. "Smith's wife was a big girl, capable of doing him bodily harm. She had a knife. There was

Average Tastes Seen Reflected In Movies, Radio

Kennedy Says Level Depends On Audience

Movies and radio programs reflect the mental attitude of average Americans, and the quality of those productions will not rise until average interests and tastes are improved, Harold J. Kennedy, playwright, producer and director, said last night.

Kennedy was the first speaker of the Cumberland National Dinner Club's 1947-48 season, addressing 85 persons at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

"Most people don't realize the dictatorship they exert over the theater," Kennedy said. "We get soap operas and bad movies because the average American likes them."

He illustrated the main theme with various anecdotes concerning his experiences with radio and theatrical productions, remarking that if the average mental age of movie audiences is that of a 13½-year-old child, the average mental age of radio listeners must be "pre-natal."

Kennedy recalled the memorable Sunday night of October 31, 1938, when he took part in the Orson Welles radio broadcast dramatizing an imaginary invasion of New Jersey by men from Mars.

The radio actors, he said, did not realize the extent of the panic created among listeners by the realistic descriptions of the "invasion" until after they left the studio.

Switchboards were deluged with calls from hysterical listeners who actually believed that the Maritan warriors had landed, and over 2,000 persons later tried to sue Welles, some to recover money spent for railroad fares they bought in fleeing out of the state, the speaker recalled.

Only one of the flood of indignant letters regarding the broadcast was "anywhere near affable," Kennedy said. An insurance salesman wrote to say that he was playing bridge with prospective customers during the broadcast, and that they were frightened into buying substantial policies.

Kennedy pointed out that the quality of legitimate theater has remained higher than that of movie and radio productions because theater audiences must pay more for tickets and in many cases must wait for several weeks before they can get seats for a play.

Thus they attend plays because they really want to, whereas radio and movie programs are easily available and attract only a casual audience, Kennedy explained.

The speaker, who holds degrees from Dartmouth and Yale, has operated and directed outstanding summer theaters on the campuses of Amherst and Princeton. He is the author of "A Goose for the Gander," in which he appeared with Gloria Swanson and Carl Low, a former Cumberland resident whom Kennedy praised highly.

In May of this year Kennedy and Miss Swanson presented the play in London, supported by an English cast.

Kennedy was introduced by Mrs. John J. Hafer, one of the directors of the local organization.

"HELPING THEM BACK"—Last December Edward L. White, 59, an employe at the Kelly-Springfield tire plant, lost his eyesight but through the assistance of the Associated Charities, one of Cumberland's Red Feather agencies, he underwent an operation at Johns Hopkins Hospital and his eyesight was restored. He didn't have to return the money provided through the Cumberland Community Chest, but White insists, "Anybody that helps me, I help them back." Since returning to work White has been visiting the Associated Charities office to repay the money provided. $10 or $5 at a time. One of those visits is pictured above as he hands a payment to Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary of Associated Charities.

HendersonAvenue Paving Work Set To Begin Thursday

Project Will Cost About $10,000

Work of covering a half-mile section of Henderson Avenue with black top at an estimated cost of $10,000 is expected to begin Thursday morning, according to G. Bates Chaires, district engineer of the Maryland State Roads Commission.

Chaires said the contract for the work has been let to a local contracting firm and explained that the black topping of several sections will give motorists a smooth top surface over the entire avenue.

Parts of the street are now finished with concrete which is in extremely good condition but several sections have brick paving, according to Chaires, who said the brick paving is the part that will be black topped.

The work which is tenatively scheduled to begin Thursday morning, depending on weather conditions, will not block the street to traffic but a slight delay may result since the machinery will allow only one way traffic.

Chaires said the surface covering will be similar to other streets in the city that have been covered with black top and explained the new covering will be laid approximately two inches thick.

The contracting company will lay one side of the street at a time, according to the district engineer, and will complete work on the other side of the street once the topping has hardened. This he pointed out, will permit one way traffic at all times.

Work on Vocke Road, which connects Braddock and Winchester Roads, where similar black top is being laid, is expected to be completed within the next two weeks along with drainage and shoulder work.

Chaires said work has already started on the Vocke road and added that if weather conditions permit the black top will be laid today. The remainder of the work which calls for drainage and improved shoulders will be completed once the black top is laid, he said.

Associated Charities Repaid By Edward White For Aid Given Him

Community Chest Is Praised By Citizen

"Anybody that helps me, I help them back."

That is the insistent remark made by Edward L. White, 59-year-old rubber worker every time he is told that he doesn't have to return money that is received from the Cumberland Community Chest.

And that remark qualifies Mr. White for a place among the most outstanding citizens of Cumberland. The people of Cumberland provided funds to tide him over during an unfortunate experience that might befall anyone—and he is determined to pay them back "because somebody else might have tough luck and need some help," he said.

Employed in Department 51-D at the Kelly-Springfield tire plant, Mr. White lost his eyesight last December when cataracts formed in both of his eyes. It was the worst experience of his life, he stated. Always a steady, conscientious worker, the prospect of sitting around in total darkness after having lived an active and independent life was almost more than he could bear.

The cataracts were discovered in a diagnosis by Dr. Winter R. Frantz, of the Allegany County Health Clinic. Mr. White was referred to the Associated Charities office, where arrangements could be made with Johns Hopkins Hospital for removal of the cataracts, and where assistance could be obtained in any other problems arising out of his difficulties.

And there were problems, of course. Mr. White participated in the group insurance plan at the Kelly plant, but his insurance benefits were not nearly enough to cover all of his expenses. And when he accepted aid from the Associated Charities, he made it clear that he was considering it a loan.

"I've been in the hospital five times in my life," he said "but I've always paid the bills that went with my troubles, and I'm not going to stop now."

That, too, is a standard remark with Mr. White when he is told that red tape is slashed when Red Feather aid is given, and that no strings remain attached.

He was out of work for seven months, returning to the Kelly plant in July. Since then he has had to buy expensive eyeglasses for himself, provide medical care for his wife, who suffered from a serious stomach disorder, and meet all of the other expenses of a home.

But within two weeks after he returned to work, he was in the Associated Charities office to make a payment of $10 on the "loan" that the people of Cumberland had given him. And he has visited the office regularly since then, making payments of $10 or $5—and on October 10 he turned up with a $20 payment, part of which was refused until he is in a better position to pay it.

Having learned of the effectiveness of the Community Chest through the restoration of his sight, Mr. White agrees that it is the best form of "Community Insurance."

"It helped me when I was in bad shape," he says, "and I never forget a favor. A fellow never knows what's going to happen to him, and I'm going to make it right with the people who treated me right when I needed a break."

VFW Condemns Failure To Act On Water Problem

Want Savage River Dam And Line Built

Cumberland's need for increased water supply for industrial purposes, both from the city's reservoirs as well as from the Potomac River, were the subject of a long and heated discussion at the regular meeting of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars last night, according to James L. Thrasher, post commander.

The veterans' organization adopted a plan of action and passed a motion for a committee to proceed to get responsible authorities to act immediately on construction of the Savage River Dam, and installation of an auxiliary pipe line from Koon Dam and Lake Gordon.

James W. Beacham, a past commader of the post, was named chairman of a committee which also includes Thomas B. Finan, Jr., William R. Carscaden, Past Commander Raymond Reynolds, Past Commander John Fike, Commander Thrasher and Vice-Commander James Kloran.

The veterans were told, Beacham said, that lack of water here has seriously hampered industrial growth and expansion of the city. He said that in recent weeks, Cumberland had two good industries interested in locating here but they moved on to other cities when a water survey was completed. "These two cases, very definite losses to the community, are not the first such instances," Beacham declared.

Commenting on the Savage River Dam, Beacham said "this project, designed to help establish less fluctuation in the rise and fall of the Potomac River, and also tossed about as a flood control project, would definitely aid the industries we already have.

"Members of the post here believe it should be completed as soon as possible, to alleviate the water shortage our present industries are suffering. Not only Cumberland, but other communities in this area will benefit," he continued.

Beacham said his committee will meet this week, and a program of action will be outlined. Every means at the command and disposition of the post will be utilized to get action. "We are not only failing to grow and expand as an industrial city," he declared, "but are in great danger of moving backward, unless we act now."

Buracker Indicted On Murder Charge By Mineral Jury

Three Men Accused In Cab Firm Case

A murder indictment was returned by the Mineral County, W. Va., Grand Jury at Keyser yesterday against Edward Buracker, 23-year-old Army veteran, who confessed fatally shooting his mother-in-law, Mrs. Hazel Bosley, 61, near Antioch, last August 23, according to Vernon E. Rankin, prosecuting attorney.

Mrs. Bosley died two days later in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, of shotgun wounds in the hip and abdomen.

Buracker has been held in the Mineral County Jail since the shooting and is scheduled to be arraigned at 10 o'clock this morning in Mineral County Court along with other prisoners indicted by the grand jury at its session yesterday. Criminal trials begin Monday.

The jurors, who completed their deliberations shortly after 5 p. m. yesterday, returned 15 indictments, including armed robbery and larceny, malicious assault, gaming charges, automobile larcenies and contributing to the delinquency of minors.

The shooting in which Buracker is indicted for murder occurred after he and his wife, the former Julia Bosley, quarreled on a trip to Keyser they made with Mr. and Mrs. Bosley, authorities said.

Upon the return home, Buracker went into the house, came out with a 16-guage shotgun and started shooting, according to officials, and after the second shot Mrs. Bosley clutched at her side and called to her husband, 'Dad, he's killed me."

Two indictments charging armed robbery and grand larceny were returned against Trevor Jones, this city, Robert Thompson and William D. Sampson, who allegedly robbed a Yellow Top Cab Company driver of his cab at gun point near Short Gap, W. Va., last August, Prosecutor Rankin reported.

Jones has been released on bond pending trial, but Thompson and Sampson have never been apprehended, Rankin stated, adding that one of the latter two men is from Cumberland and the other from the Mid-west.

The driver of the cab, owned by Lee Carpenter, was said to be Thomas Cessna, Cumberland.

Malicious assault indictments were returned against Paul W. Riggleman and James E. Riggleman, Westernport brothers, as the outgrowth of an escapade at the home of C. A. Miller, near Fort Ashby, early in September.

The brothers allegedly assaulted Miller, a former prize fighter, who grabbed his assailant and threw him over his head. As the men fled to a car, Miller obtained a shotgun and riddled the radiator.

Two gaming indictments were returned.

One is against Robert Lyons, steward of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Club in Blaine, who was accused of maintaining two slot machines.

The other is against Paige Entler, of the Keyser Moose Club, who was accused of maintaining one slot machine.

Other indictments include:

Robert Lee Shipe, theft of the automobile of Harry Corbin from Bright's Garage, Keyser.

Buddy Spears, a mute, theft of an automobile and pocketbook from Dale W. Johnson in Keyser.

B. J. Swick, larceny of a camera from Edgell Grayson, sport shop operator.

James McNemarr, larceny of a watch from Hugh Strachan.

Robert Wolfe and Jesse A. Keplinger, jointly contributing to the delinquency of Norma Ella Wolfe.

Lloyd Mills, resisting Officers Paul Howdyshell and Guy Clem, of the Keyser Police Department.

Charles Spurling, contributing to the delinquency of Rosalie Riggleman.

Ceremonies Will Take Place In Washington

Two of the three highest honors in Freemasonry will be conferred on Cumberland residents tonight and Friday in Washington at the biennial session of the Supreme Council of the 33rd Degree, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry for the Southern Jurisdiction of the United States.

Designated to receive the honorary 33rd degree are Dr. J. Russell Cook, Cumberland dentist, and Thomas E. Gilchrist, president of the Wilson Hardware Company, Inc.

The degree is second only to the active 33rd degree, now held by only 33 Masons in the United States.

The rank of Knight Commander of the Court of Honor, which ranks next to the honorary 33rd degree, will be conferred on Ralph R. Webster, principal of Allegany High School; Julius E. Schindler, Cumberland attorney, and Lawrence H. Shafferman, departmental superintendent at the Celanese plant.

At the present time there are no 33rd degree Masons in Western Maryland — Allegany, Garrett and Washington Counties — and only 43 in Maryland. There are only six Knight Commanders of the Court of Honor in the three counties — William P. Rizer, Archibald C. Willison, Arthur B. Gibson, Harold C. Wickard, Cook and Gilchrist, all of Cumberland. In the state there are 55 Masons with the rank of Knight Commander of the Court of Honor.

Designation of Scottish Rite Masons to be honored tonight and Friday was made on the basis of outstanding activity in Scottish Rite Masonry at a session of the Supreme Council yesterday morning, with 360 members elected to receive the honorary 33rd degree and 1,141 others to receive the rank of Knight Commander of the Court of Honor.

Investiture of Knight Commander of the Court of Honor will take place at 7 o'clock tonight at the Mother House of the Temple, headquarters of the Southern Jurisdiction, which includes all states except those north of the Mason-Dixon Line and east of the Mississippi River. The rank will be conferred by the Scottish Rite Consistory of Richmond, Va.

On Friday at 1 p. m., the 33rd degree designates will be guests at luncheon in the Burnsiana Room of the House of the Temple, and at 6 p. m. will be guests at dinner at the banquet hall of the House of the Temple. The honorary 33rd degree will be conferred by the Supreme Council at 8 p. m.

Frank Molinari Fined $200 In Circuit Court

Pleads Guilty To Liquor Law Charge

Frank Molinari, Jr., Cumberland Street, was fined $200 and costs in Circuit Court yesterday afternoon, after he entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with selling intoxicants after hours in violation of the county's liquor law.

Represented by William A. Gunter, Sr., and D. Lindley Sloan, Molinari was described by his counsel as the president of the corporation which operates the Cadillac, a Baltimore Street tavern and night club, who has no previous record of conviction.

State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris told the Court Molinari was indicted by the October Grand Jury on the same charge on which he forfeited $200 bond in Police Court several weeks ago. Harris said an officer and some other people purchased a pint of whisky and a drink at about 12:25 or 12:30 a. m. and that a city warrant had been served, but Molinari failed to appear for trial.

Gunter described the Cadillac as the best regulated place in town and said the late sales occurred on a night during race week when the place was jammed with 300 or more persons and it had been difficult to get them all out in time to close by midnight.

The judges discussed the case for several minutes and finally Chief Judge William A. Huster announced the fine as $200, the same amount as the city forfeiture. Molinari was told by the Court that the fine might have been more, but the fact that he must still face the Allegany County Liquor Control Board was taken into consideration.

The case of Earl Umstot, indicted on a manslaughter charge in connection with a motorcycle crash in which a youth was killed near Moscow, is scheduled for today, Morgan C. Harris state's attorney said. Harris said the Smith case took longer than he had anticipated, and there are several other criminal cases to be tried.

These include the trial of Mervin C. Wills, 20, indicted for murder in connection with the death of his infant son; Robert W. Rice, indicted for dentistry law violations; and Norman Dee Beglin, indicted on a gaming law violation.

Stewart Gets Two Years On Charge Of Grabbing Purse

Harry Stewart, Jr., 17, Bedford Street, yesterday was sentenced to two-years in the Maryland House of Correction, after being convicted in Juvenile Court on charges of stealing a woman's purse.

Stewart, according to police, steadfastly denied that he grabbed the purse containing several hundred dollars from Mrs. John Sell, 104 Decatur Street, as she walked down Goethe Street Sunday night about 8 o'clock.

Authorities said Stewart pleaded innocent to the charge when he was arraigned in Juvenile Court yesterday morning, but on the evidence presented by police and witnesses, who testified they saw him running away from Mrs. Sell as she screamed, he was convicted.

Stewart was captured by several male residents of Goethe Street, who said they were attracted by the woman's screams. The men, according to their testimony, chased Stewart toward the cemetery at the end of Goethe Street and surrounded him as he hid in a bush.

One of the group was carrying a rifle and as Stewart continued to elude them by running across the street and climbing a garage he was covered with the weapon and ordered to come down.

He was captured by the men and held for police who were called to the scene. Police said the pocketbook with money and papers intact was recovered in the bushes where several of the searchers said they saw Stewart hiding.

Police authorities said the youth is unemployed, but has been rooming on Bedford Street since coming here from Flintstone several months ago. According to authorities Stewart served in the Armed Forces but they quoted him as saying he was discharged after some trouble.

Authorities said Mrs. Sell did not identify Stewart as the youth who grabbed her purse, but said the men who captured him testified that he was the man they saw running away from the scene after they heard Mrs. Sell screaming.

He was committed to Allegany County Jail yesterday after being sentenced to await transportation to the institution where he will serve time. He was questioned in the Office of the State's Attorney prior to the hearing.
